327,000 Workers Remain Idle in Struck Auto Plants

By GENE SCHROEDER

DETROIT (AP) — Two major strikes continued to plague the nation's auto industry Saturday — with negotiators apparently near agreement at American Motors Corp. but barely halfway there at General Motors.

The walkouts have idled more than 327,000 workers in the United States and Canada, 300,000 of them at GM plants and subsidiaries.

Although GM and the striking United Auto Workers Union have reached agreement on national contract terms, unresolved local plant demands have held up a return of workers to the assembly lines.

Latest reports show only 68 of 130 local bargaining units have settled their differences over such issues as company-furnished uniforms, parking lots, working conditions and grievance procedures.

GM workers went on strike Sept. 25, and the AMC walkout began last Thursday midnight.

With the major stumbling block of profit sharing out of the way, AMC and union sources indicated agreement might be forthcoming shortly on remaining issues involving so-called wage inequities, a seniority transfer clause and wage scales for some 3,000 workers in the company's Kelvinator Appliance Division at Grand Rapids, Mich.

Tax Cuts Benefited U.S. Industry; No Ill Effects

By STERLING F. GREEN

HOT SPRING, Va. (AP) — The nation's foremost industrialists were told Saturday the $11.5-billion tax cut has produced all the benefits and none of the ill effects predicted, but should not be followed immediately by further income tax reductions.

Railroad executive Stuart T. Saunders, who with Henry Ford II was co-chairman of the businessmen's committee supporting the tax-cut bill, told the Business Council at its fall meeting that the impact of the reduction that went into effect eight months ago should be tested longer before rates are lowered again.

Although this is the Johnson administration's position and was in effect a rejection of Sen. Barry Goldwater's plan for a five-year program of successive five per cent tax cuts, Saunders emphasized to reporters that his statements were completely divorced from political implications.

On the elimination of some excise taxes, he took the view of both the Republican and Democratic platforms. Saunders, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., Philadelphia, told the meeting of heads of about 100 of the country's biggest corporations: "The time is ripe, and overdue in fact, for changes in the excise taxes. Congress should give early attention to the removal or adjustment of all excise taxes."

Saunders delivered his rosy account of the economic benefits of the new tax law at a closed meeting of the council, but briefed newsmen later. The reduction began to exert its effects at least five months before it actually became law, he said, and all the economic evidence of the following months indicates it has been "definitely a success — the good things are happening and the bad things are not."

There has been neither price inflation nor a rise in the federal deficit, Saunders said, and consumers have not indulged in a buying binge even though their spending in the first half of this year was $15 billion greater than in first-half 1963.

He recited other benefits which he attributed at least in large part to the stimulus of the tax law:

— Industry's spending on plant and equipment, rated at $44.2 billion this year, is 13 per cent higher than in 1963.

— Tax reduction apparently is entitled to some credit for the improvement in unemployment. The rate of joblessness was 5.7 per cent in 1963, but by July had dropped to 4.9 per cent. It has moved upward slightly since then.

— Factory employment, at 17.8 million, is now at its peak since 1953 and almost matches the World War II period.

Dillon to Probe Arrest Record Of LBJ Aide

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said Saturday that President Johnson had ordered him to investigate the Secret Service's handling of the arrest record of former presidential confidant Walter Jenkins.

Dillon said the Secret Service knew that Jenkins had been arrested in 1959, but failed to report it to the White House. It was disclosed earlier this week that Jenkins was arrested on a morals charge here in 1959 and just last week on a similar charge.

Both the Secret Service und the FBI received the information on Jenkins in 1961, Dillon said.

The FBI learned of the 1959 arrest first and forwarded the information to the Secret Service, Dillon said.

Johnson ordered the investigation Friday, Dillon said. It is now in progress, he added. The Secret Service is an arm of the Treasury Department which puts it under Dillon's jurisdiction.

China's Atom Bomb Hiroshima's Size

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The force of Red China's initial nuclear test Friday is believed to have been about the same as that of the bomb dropped on Hiroshima in 1945.

The Chinese device, however, was not a bomb dropped from a plane. It was exploded either above the ground, on the ground or slightly below the surface, informed U.S. sources said.

It definitely was not set off deep underground, as are all current American tests.

It was the first atmospheric test reported in the world in almost two years. The last nuclear detonation in the air was a Russian test in the Arctic area on Christmas Day, 1962.

Impeachment May Be Needed, Solon Declares

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Sen. Milward Simpson, R-Wyo., said Friday night an impeachment will be necessary if the Democratic administration continues in Washington.

Simpson spoke to about 85 persons at a Citizens for Goldwater-Miller rally at Republican headquarters here.

Simpson charged the Kennedy-Johnson administration was responsible for the Berlin Wall, the Bay of Pigs fiasco, the mess in Viet Nam, deterioration of the NATO alliance, continuing communism in Cuba, and Bobby Baker, Billy Sol Estes and Matthew McCloskey.

Barry Charges Johnson With One-Thumb Rule

By WILBUR MARTIN

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater accused President Lyndon B. Johnson of a "one-man, one-thumb idea of government.

"Do you want one man's thumb on your country or do you want yours?", he asked as he barnstormed northeastern Ohio, wooing labor's vote in the industrial area.

"Nobody can be trusted with that much power," the Republican presidential candidate told a cheering crowd at Mansfield. "If we ever have that, I'll tell you union members what is going to come next —compulsory arbitration. This will be the end of free bargaining and labor's right to strike."

Goldwater dwelt on his favorite theme of centralized government as he swept through the labor centers of Akron, Canton and Youngstown. The Arizona senator's side quips were showing up more and more with audience reaction getting better and better.

Johnson Plans National TV Report on Reds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson Saturday cancelled plans for a Texas campaign trip and arranged to make a nationally broadcast report to the nation Sunday night on Communist China's first nuclear test and the change of government in the Soviet Union.

The White House announced that Johnson also would summon Republican and Democratic leaders of the House and Senate to a special briefing session on Monday and would meet Tuesday with his cabinet — all on the same subjects.

There was no immediate word on whether Johnson and his top diplomatic, military and intelligence advisors had concluded that developments in the Soviet Union and Communist China were more ominous than the President's initial comments

Soviets Follow Nikita's Policies Despite Ouster

By FRED A. COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin's new leaders, though lashing ousted Premier Khrushchev, let the word spread Saturday that they will not depart radically from his policies.

The new ruling group, headed by Communist Party First Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, appeared to be firmly in the saddle.

Khruschev's whereabouts since he was toppled from power at Wednesday's secret session of the party central committee remain a closely guarded secret. Unconfirmed rumors circulated that he was under house arrest somewhere in the capital. Other equally unsubstantiated reports said he would appear at Monday's Red Square homecoming reception for the Soviet Union's three newest cosmonauts.

Yet other reports said Brezhnev or Kosygin would use the cosmonaut celebration as a sounding board for a major policy statement, including the reasons for Khruschev's downfall. Such a move would appear to exclude the possibility of Khrushchev's attending.

Future criticism of Khrushchev is expected to follow guidelines laid down Saturday by the party organ Pravda in a front page editorial.

The editorial, reprinted in the government newspaper Izvestia, declared the new party leadership to be "an enemy of subjectivism and drifting in Communist construction."

In stinging terms, obviously aimed at Khrushchev, though not naming him, the new regime's first policy statement said:

"Hare-brained scheming, immature conclusions and hasty decisions and actions divorced from reality, bragging and phrase-mongering, commandism, unwillingness to take into account the achievements of science and practical experience are alien to the party."

The editorial also denounced "armchair methods, personal decisions and disregard for the masses."

The party bosses, however,

Nikita Defended Himself Four Hours, 'Inside Story' of Moscow Event Relates

EDITOR'S NOTE: UPI correspondent Richard H. Growald has pieced together from Kremlin statements, diplomats, Russians and other sources the first inside story of the fall of Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev. His detailed dispatch follows.

By RICHARD H. GROWALD

MOSCOW (UPI) — Nikita S. Khrushchev fidgeted nervously in greeting French Minister of Science Gaston Palewski.

The Frenchman was surprised. He had come to Khrushchev's Black Sea retreat of Pitsunde expecting one of those six-hour lunch and talk sessions the mightiest Communist made a part of his regime. He did not know Khrushchev had just been fighting for his political life.

From crisp Kremlin statements, from diplomats, from Russians, from sources who must remain anonymous has come this version of the fall of Nikita Sergeyevich Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, very much "the boss," hammed it up in a nationally televised ground - to - space telephone conversation with the three cosmonauts looping earth in the Soviet cosmic passenger space ship.

He laughingly jostled his old

European Reds Shocked About Fall of Nikita

LONDON (UPI) — European Communists were still shocked, confused and even angered Saturday at Nikita S. Khrushchev's sudden fall from supreme power in Moscow.

In a striking demonstration that foreign parties no longer dance unquestioningly to the Kremlin's changing tune, Communist newspapers made it clear they want no - nonsence answers about the Moscow upheaval.

The effects were profound on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

In Budapest, the Hungarian Communist party newspaper Nepszabadsag pledged to continue with Moscow along the "Leninist road," following guideiines for which, it said pointedly, "comrade Nikita Khrushchev, too, deserved great credit."

East European radio stations and newspapers, clearly caught unprepared by the switch of Soviet regimes, responded slowly. Early reports to the public were generally confined to repetition of the official Moscow pronouncements. By late Saturday no "satellite" commentator had tried to dispute or confirm outcast Albania's brash declaration that Khrushchev was ousted because of his anti-China policies.

Diplomatic sources said offi-

Farmers to Be Paid for Hunting Land

DENVER (AP)—Farmers in Yuma and Washington counties in eastern Colorado are ready to begin an experiment —how to turn surplus crop acreage into land which will attract pheasant hunters.

The Colorado counties are two of 101 in the nation participating in a pilot program. The Colorado farmers will receive $757,000 to help pay their costs in the experiment.

Farmers who take acreage out of feed grain and row crop production and convert to trees and grass, water storage, wildlife habitat or recreational use will receive between $30 and $45 an acre over a five-year period.

Up to 50 per cent of the costs would be borne by the federal government.

Plane Wreckage Is Sighted in Aspen Area

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Big game hunters reported Saturday night they had sighted the wreckage of a plane which officials believe may be the craft missing since early last summer with four persons aboard.

The wreckage was reported seen in the rugged Spruce Creek area high in the Rocky Mountains southeast of Aspen. The hunters, not immediately identified, said they were unable to reach the wreckage and did not see any bodies. They said the plane did not burn.

Sheriff Lorin Herwick of Pitkin County said descriptions of the plane indicated it was the Cessna 310 missing since it left Aspen June 28. The Civil Air Patrol listed those aboard as:

William Evans, 38, McAllen, Tex., the pilot, and Ed Gorman, 38, Dallas, Tex.; Gus Theoklis, 29, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Edna Allison, about 45, of Nassau, Bahamas and Williamsport, Pa.

Roads Planned In Colorado's Oil Shale Area

DENVER (AP) — A move is underway to plan carefully for highways into the oil shale areas of Colorado's Western Slope, State Resources Coordinator Richard T. Eckles said Saturday.

He disclosed he has met with officials from the Colorado Highway Department, Rio Blanco and Garfield counties, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management and the oil industry to discuss the problem.

Charles E. Shumate, chief Colorado highway engineer, was picked to coordinate roadbuilding plans.

Eckles said only a dirt road now goes into a major part of the area.

The resources coordinator said he hopes that only necessary roads will be built and that they be built to standards sufficient to handle the shale transportation problem when the oil industry develops.

Harriman Says Nikita Told About Retiring

MUNICE, Ind. (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, former U.S. Ambassador to Russia, says Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told him last year he would step down after he reached 70 and even named his successors.

The only surprise is the manner in which it happened, Harriman told a Ball State College audience last night. "In my opinion, his downfall began with the Cuban crisis," he said.

"The Red Chinese called him a coward for backing down."

Harriman, now undersecretary of state for political affairs, said that in 1963, when he last met with the Russian leader, Khrushchev mentioned his approaching retirement and named Alexei Kosygin and Leonid Brezhnev as likely successors.

Luci Johnson Is Booed at Football Game

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — Luci Baines Johnson was greeted by loud boos Saturday from students attending the Georgia-Florida state football game.

Luci, appearing here and in Atlanta on behalf of her father's campaign, was escorted to the President's box shortly after halftime and it was announced she was on hand for the last half of the game.

Boos erupted from the student section which was heavily plastered with Goldwater-Miller signs and a banner or two supporting the Republican ticket.

When it was announced President Johnson's 17-year-old daughter was accompanied by Gov. Carl Sanders the booing resumed.

Earlier in the day, Luci, wearing a Kelley green suit and a wide smile, charmed 2,000 young Democrats at a hootenanny in Atlanta and used the lyrics of folk music to tell them why her father should stay in the White House.

'Close' Congressional Election Battle Forecast

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The election campaign battle for Congress is shaping up as much closer in the calculations of the professional politicians than the race for the presidency.

There is no landslide talk at Democratic headquarters. The Democrats are confident they will retain control of both the Senate and House. But they're not so sure that President Johnson's coattails can bring any sizable gains, even if the Chief Executive wins by a landslide.

At one time the Democrats figured they would be satisfied if they held their own in the Senate which they now control 66 to 34. This was when several Democratic seats were in serious trouble. But now they have upped their sights, primarily because of the size of the Johnson landslide they expect. They say a net gain of four seats is possible, the way things are going.

In the House the story is different. The Democrats have a majority. But, because of southern defections, control is an on and off matter. The fact is, the Democrats now have 25 fewer seats than they did four years ago. Twenty-one were lost in the close election which put John F. Kennedy in the White House. Four more were lost in 1962.

The Democrats would like to recapture those seats to give the President greater support in the 89th Congress, which convenes January 3. But the pros are realistic. They see very little chance of it, even if there is a Johnson landslide.

Early in the campaign, they had been talking about picking up five or 10 seats. Lately, they've set their sights on a possible 15. They say it will have to be a real landslide, perhaps a record breaker, to bring in 20.

One big reason is that the Democrats do not expect Republicans who vote for Johnson to break away from the party's candidates for Congress.

The GOP effort in many states now is to encourage ticket-splitting. In state after state, the Republican candidates for Congress are conducting what they call "independent" campaigns — that is, independent of the Barry Goldwater presidential campaign.

The Republican pros also see the congressional races as much closer than the presidency. And some are confident of defeating a number of Democratic incumbents unless there is a Johnson landslide of record proportions.

One GOP politico said gloomily that a 60-40 vote against Goldwater could even carry down to defeat Sen. Roman L. Hruska of Nebraska. The GOP regards his seat as the safest in the Senate.

St. Joseph Hospital Drive Is Short of $30,000 Goal

Although the local hospital drive is not completely wrapped up pending contributions from several large industrial concerns, the board of St. Joseph hospital, sponsors of the current building drive, have reported that funds collected to date total $23,115.99.

Jerry Sandell, drive chairman, told members of a board at a special meeting that although the total drive funds have fallen short of the $30,000 goal, the real disappointment has been noted in the overall lack of participation.

"Of the total collected for the proposed new hospital, only 642 families out of a total of 1,823 in this trade area participated," Sandell announced. "This represents only 35 per cent participation and it was the participation total we were primarily interested in," he added.

He was high in his praise for the residents of Rockvale and Coal Creek where participation in the drive was extremely high. He noted that in Rockvale, 66 out of 99 families contributed to help build a new hospital here. In Coal Creek, 45 out of 52 families gave something for the hospital drive.

Florence residents fell far behind in the percentage bracket with 476 families out of 1,304 donating to the drive.

"The fact of the drive becomes obvious after close checking of receipts," Sandell stated. "Of the total funds collected, the bulk came from some 51 donors who contributed $100 or more."

Sandell told the board that action on the crucial Hill-Burton federal aid funds have been delayed but should be announced later this month. St. Joseph hospital remains high on the priority list for funds which could total as much as $450,000.

Barto Babitz, president of the board, praised Sandell for his outstanding work as drive chairman and expressed pleasure with the financial results of the drive.

Cuba to Regain Freedom, Says U. S. President

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson expressed confidence today that the Cuban people will regain their freedom from Communist rule. He did not say when this might be—simply "one day."

Johnson made the remarks in a statement accompanying his signing of a bill to permit about 4,000 Americans to record claims totaling $1.5 billion for property seized by the Fidel Castro regime.

The new law allows U.S. nationals who lost property and money to validate their claims through the U.S. Foreign Claims Settlement Commission.

Johnson said in signing the legislation that this will make it possible for those people to establish a permanent record of their claims while the evidence and witnesses are still available. They would not be paid unless the United States reached a settlement with a new government of Cuba.

Knous Award Presented to Circuit Judge

University of Colorado law alumni honored U. S. Circuit Judge S. Breitenstein of Denver and formally met John W. Reed, new law school dean, at a breakfast Saturday.

Breitenstein received the CU Law Alumni's fifth annual William Lee Knous Award, and Reed delivered an address at a breakfast at the Broadmoor Hotel held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Colorado Bar Association.

Breitenstein was honored as "a distinguished graduate of the University of Colorado School of Law who has distinguished himself in his chosen field." He is a 1933 law graduate and has been a federal judge since 1954. As a practicing attorney in Denver from 1934 to 1954, Breitenstein represented the State of Colorado in several well-known water law cases. He was named a U. S. district judge in 1954 and was elevated in 1957 to the U. S. circuit court bench.

Breitenstein was given a Norlin Award in 1957, the highest honor given by the CU Associated Alumni, and in 1952 he served as president of the Colorado Bar Association.

The award has been set up in honor of the late William Lee Knous, a 1911 CU law graduate who served Colorado as legislator, governor, state supreme court justice and U. S. district judge.

Reed, in his first formal address since becoming CU law dean Sept. 1, spoke to the breakfast on the topic "But a Law School's Work is Never Done."

JEAN S. BREITENSTEIN

Reed said the school has obligations to the entire legal profession, as well as obligations to its students, to the University, to the alumni, to the state and to society at large.

"Obviously a lawyer's education does not end when he leaves law school," Reed said. "We feel an obligation to the legal profession to help lawyers bridge the jump from academic law to actual practice, to help practicing attorneys develop knowledge and skills in specialized depth areas to help them keep abreast of new developments in the law."

James T. Bayer, Denver attorney and president of the CU Law Alumni Fund, presided at the breakfast.

New Ski Trainer Aids Beginner in Getting Sea Legs

A Scottish firm is making a water ski trainer that allows a beginner to stand up in the water and find his "sea legs" before trying to water ski unaided.

The trainer is built on two molded fiverglass hulls which support a platform with railings on either side.

The craft is towed by a speed boat by two ropes locked to the insides of the hulls and releasable by a mechanism on the platform. The speed boat's towbar sites across the training craft's side rails, in a rest.

The learner puts on his skis and, accompanied by an instructor, sits on the platform with his skis in the water between the hulls. When the speed boat starts towing the craft, the novice stands up in the water, at first supporting himself by holding on to the platform's side rails. When ready, he tranfers his grip to the towbar in front of him and lifts it from its rest. He and the training craft are now being towed through the water independent of each other but at the same speed, with the training craft's platform only a few inches behind the skier's legs.

If the skier begins to lose his balance he drops the towbar. Only the training craft is then being towed. The edge of its platform catches the skier behind the knees so that he falls and sits down on the platform, the edge of which is cushioned.

When the learner is ready to try to ski on his own, the instructor presses a plunger on the platform to release the training craft's two ropes. The learner is then towed clear.

Should he fall immediately, there is no danger of his being hurt by the training craft, according to the designer: the extra speed of the towing boat due to the loss of the training craft weight will pull him well clear.

The training craft is fitted with with a recall radio. Craft dimensions are: overall length 10 ft., overall width 6 ft., overall height 2 ft. 9 in. Draught, carrying two people is 5 in. The platform is 3 ft. 4 in. long by 5 ft. 2 in. wide. Distance between the two hulls is 3 ft.

Costing about $570 at the factory, the trainer should be attractive to water ski clubs and instructors.

The manufacturer : The Lander Group of Companies, 6-10 Playfair Street, Glasgow S. E., Scotland. Telephone: Bridgeton 3816.

Two Sentenced For Slayings in White Slave Ring

SAN FRANCISCO DEL RINCON, Mexico (AP) — Two sistrs were found guilty Friday of slaying at least 80 girls in the operation of a white slave ring in central Mexico.

The sisters, Delfina Gonzalez Valenzuela, 56, and Maria de Jesus Gonzalez Valenzuela, 39, were given the maximum sentence, 40 years in prison.

Severad hundred persons gathered in front of the court house in this small, isolated town as Judge Timeteo Lozano pronounced his verdict. The trial began last January and brought forth details of starvation, beatings and death.

Nineteen other persons were convicted of being members of the ring and given sentences ranging from 1 to 35 years.

The prosecution contended the ring had been operating for at least 10 years and the girls who were slain had tried to resist discipline.

The Gonzalez Valenzuela sisters admitted operating houses of prostitution but denied guilt for the deaths.

At least 21 bodies had been discovered by the time the trial began.

By MARY SHIRER

For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

No country, no race, in fact no type of civilization, moves steadily forward or backward. All make progress at some periods, stagnate at others and at certain times actually move backward. This is also true of individuals and of species of plants and animals. We are progressing in leaps and bounds in some lines and yet moving backwards in others. All history since the beginning of time has been a record of pulsations and the great task of history is to explain why nations undergo such pulsations. Man has powers far beyond those of animals yet he is not essentially different from his fellow creatures in his relationship to heat, cold, moisture, rivers, plains and seas. We can never know how much effect to ascribe to conditions until we have been isolated from cultural environment. Religion, education, industry and government have much to do with progress of a country and yet with all these, somehow they come to decay at some period.

There is a little rodent known as the lemming, a cousin of the mouse best known in Norway where it inhabits the cold highlands above the limits of the evergreens. There it grubs for lichen, moss and gnaws the tender shoots of dwarf birch. The lemming is a restless little creature and when brought to bay will sit up hiss and bite. It propagates rapidly and must be held in check. For some reason they travel in the same direction steadily across hills, even mountains and across rivers and swim across large lakes.

Wild animals devour them in large quantities. The ones that survive keep going until they reach the sea and bravely swim until they perish but never turn back. Their strange wandering has puzzled peasants for generations and later a scientific study was made in the belief they were acting in obedience to an inherited instinct from the Miocene Age. The plunge in the ocean was for the purpose of seeking the submerged continent Atlantis to which their ancestors supposedly migrated when driven from their homes by overpopulation and scarcity of food. This same condition existed in the days of early settlers, a continual migration from one part of country to another in quest of greater opportunites. The Indians moved around in search of better hunting ground, good water, and protection from enemies. Sometimes like the lemming, they plunged into destruction. The ancient Cliff Dwellers disappeared from their dwellings and went to parts unknown, perhaps from overpopulation and scarcity of food.

Recurrences of cycles seem to be the law of organic life. We have cycles in business, reach their zenith in times of great prosperity, high prices, abundant work and then fall to great depression. We have weather cycles, wet and dry, which affects progress of our country.

Snow Closes Two Yellowstone Gates

CODY, Wyo. (AP)—A heavy snowstorm in northwestern Wyoming has closed two of the major entrances into Yellowstone National Park.

A foot of snow fell on Sylvan Pass just inside the east entrance Friday morning. The east gate, which is 53 miles west of Cody, was closed during the afternoon when the snow started coming down again.

Park Service officials said that the east entrance would be re-opened if the weather permits.

The northeast entrance which leads in from Cooke City, Mont. was closed in the morning after heavy snow clogged Beartooth Pass the previous night. It was indicated that the northeast gate might remain closed until spring.

English Is Used in Celebration of Mass

DENVER (AP)—For the first time in Denver, the English language was used in the celebration of a Catholic mass Friday night.

The mass was celebrated as part of the workshop of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, holding a weekend meeting here. The celebrant was the Rt. Rev. Gregory Smith, pastor of St. Francis de Sales Catholic Churc and vicar general of the Denver archdiocese.

Besides the use of English in part of the mass, several other new liturgical forms were followed. The congregation received communion while standing rather than kneeling. The priest faced the people from behind a portable altar during celebration of the mass.

Another mass in English will be celebrated at 5 p.m. today. The two masses are a preview of the liturgy that will be used in all churches of the archdiocese beginning Nov. 29. High mass, however, will continue to be sung in Latin except for English in the Epistle and the Gospel.

In his sermon, Msgr. Smith noted that the forms being used were among those authorized by the Vatican Council and Pope Paul.

Fatal Accidents Cutting Into U.S. Labor Force

Accidental loss of life is getting more severe each year, especially among the men who represent the major part of the nation's labor force, statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company have reported.

About 45,000 men between the age of 15 and 64 were killed in accidents in the United States last year, compared with 42,600 the year before, and there is no immediate indication that the upward trend is slackening.

According to the statisticians, it is significant that a relatively small proportion — one - fifth— of the fatal accidents occurred on the job or from causes for which employment was considered responsible. By far, the majority of death - producing mishaps have occurred off the job.

Accidents, alone, are a much greater menace to the lives of adolescent and young men than all other cuases of death combined. This applies to men at ages 15 to 24, when accidental injuries account for more than three times the combined loss of life from cancer, homicide and suicide — the causes of death that rank next in order in that age group.

Motor vehicle accidents are the major source of accidental fatality throughout the main working ages. At ages 20 to 24, motor vehicle mishpas account for 70 percent of the total, and at none of the other age groupings under review does the proportion fall below 40 percent, the statisticians said.

The types of accidents that rank next in order for the entire working group are falls, drownings and fires, and machinery, firearm and aircraft accidents.

Accidents also are responsible for a heavy toll of non-fatal injuries among men at the prevalent working ages, the statisticians report. In the course of a year, about 15 million men at the ages 15 to 64 sustain injuries which curtail employment activity or require professional medical attention.

Children Inoculate Each Other in Play

ALTOONA, Pa. (AP) — Police in this western Pennsylvania town say that at least six children of elementary school age "inoculated" each other with hypodermic needles they found in trash cans.

Police said Thursday the needles had been discarded by doctors after being used for flu injections. None of the children has suffered any ill effects. Police said it was doubtful the children actually inserted the needles under the skin and probably only made scratches on each other.

Navy Offers New Training To Youths

Under a program established by the Navy Department many local youths will be attending the Navy's Class "A" Schools which in the past have been reserved strictly for Regular Navy Personnel.

These Class "A" Schools are very similar to Civilian Vocational Trade Schools and run in lengths from 12 to 38 weeks.

Captain Jack D. Baird, U. S. Navy, Commanding Officer of the U. S. Naval Reserve Training Center, Colorado Springs announced that all qualified Naval Reservists are now guaranteed the opportunity to select a technical school of their choice, within 27 different fields prior to being ordered to active duty.

He went on to say that the program not only applies to men already in the Naval Reserve but is also guaranteed to the new recruits as well.

The program which offers maximum schooling with minimum active duty is designed to provide the Navy with many potential Petty Officers in the Critical Rating fields.

Anyone interested in further information on this program are invited to visit the U. S. Naval Reserve Training Center, on Prospect Lake or call 632-3382.

ADC Adopts New Technique To Reduce Air Accidents

A new twist in reducing aircraft accidents has been adopted by the Air Defense Command.

It consists of a "do it yourself" study technique geared to give ADC aircrews added knowledge of subjects which are not usually included in flying school, flight manuals and tactics programs.

The self study handbooks cover specific subjects which accident investigations have found that pilots lack knowledge of. To put it simply, the home study courses help prevent accidents by teaching pilots the "why" -question" of flying procedures.

According to the project officer, Capt. James A. Aikman of Ames, Iowa, the new self study plan called "Programmed Instruction" is a bridge between formal technical training and the "in cockpit" applications. Knowledge gained of aerodynamic flight techniques and procedures not only increases combat capability of pilots but also results in a beneficial fallout in operational excellence—i.e. safety.

Programmed instruction technique is simple. Information is presented in short easy - to-digest installments called "frames." Each frame is presented in logical sequence, gradually developing the subject matter so that the student is hardly aware of the increased difficulty of the topic.

Afer leaning the information in each frame, the student is required to answer a question — also a part of the book — on the subject. He compares his answer with the correct one and if its is correct, he goes to the next frame. If his answer is incorrect, he receives additional information and returns to the original page for a second chance.

A wrong answer in the unique home study method does not necessarily hamper the student's learning; in fact, his knowledge of the subject is expanded because of the way it is presented.

The home study course is self-pacing. The student works at his own pace, thus absorbing the material at his best learning rate.

This new study technique has cut learning time up to one-third over old methods. In addition, the student obtains a uniform grasp of the material since he must learn one portion of the manual before proceeding to the next question.

This system has been so successful with pilots that the ADC Interceptor Magazine staff, publisher of the manuals, now is developing home study courses for maintenance technicians as well as driving safety manuals for all military and civil service personnel.

Since the program began just one year ago, seven self teaching books covering different facets of flying from "Aerodynamics of Sink Rate" to "Ejection Procedures" have been put in the hands of the ADC aircrews to study.

The Interceptor Magazine staff, headed by Maj. Monroe E. Blaylock of Sonora, Calif., Mr. Roger Crewse of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Captains Stanley Pytel of Chicago, Ill., and William J. Richards of Gilbert, Minn., require approximately three months to put one manual together as an additional duty to their magazine.

Exhaustive tests, research, and studies are conducted before a text is written. The final product is put together only after it has been completely fense Command and in industry. checked by experts in Air Defense Command and in industry

Col. Stanton T. Smith, ADC Chief of Safety, said that ADC is the first major air command to apply programmed instruction techniques to improve its flight safety program and is now recognized as the leader in formulating and developing safety materials for the Air Force.

The programmed instruction manuals are receiving wide acclaim from other commands, the Royal Canadian Air Force, and civilian educational and flying agencies.

The RCAF Central Flying School, Naval Aviation Safety, Air Training Command, Tactical Air Command, the Flight Safety Foundation and other civilian and military flight interests are among those complimenting and seeking further information on the ADC program.

LeadersEndorse Chenoweth For Reelection

in support of Chenoweth represented many community leaders who have sought aid from the Congressman in securing the military establishments for the Pikes Peak Region as well as passage of the Frying Pan-Arkansas Project and other measures.

Chenoweth was a freshman legislator when community leaders went to Washington to get Camp Carson in Colorado Springs. The camp was made a permanent military establishment and named Ft. Carson during Chenoweth's tenure of office. One of the notable achievements was assistance in securing the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, the group states.

Robert H. Burghart, former president of the Colorado Cattlemen's Association, summed up the feeling of the community in stating, "These other boys don't know what they're talking about when they question Chenoweth's effectiveness in Congress. I had to make a lot of trips to Washington and I found out that Chenoweth, sitting in his office in Washington, knew more about what was going on in his district that any other Congressman."

Many of the supporters in signing the advertisement made similar remarks that "I've always worked for the Judge," using Chenoweth's title from his judgeship days. They concurred that "Chenoweth's always worked for us."

The advertisement concludes on a statement that became possible after passage of the Frying Pan-Arkansas Project. Chenoweth introduced the original measure for the trans - mountain diversion project and has voted consistently for water projects for the west. Under the project, Colorado Springs will receive domestic water and farmers in the Arkansas Valley will get irrigation and water storage rights.

Several of the signers suggested that a list of "more than a thousand names" could be secured if someone called on the "little people" Judge Chenoweth has assisted in their problems with the government. It was pointed out that Chenoweth works until late hours almost every night in Washington and answers every letter.

The concensus of those endorsing, is that the accomplishment during his term of office is proof of leadership. Chenoweth is listed as the "best friend El Paso County ever had in Congress."

Those who listed their names in support of Chenoweth include: Jasper Ackerman, A. B. Armstrong, Frank Arnold, Vincent F. Assaiante, Mrs. William C. (Mildred) Bailey, B. Howard Baker, William A. Baker, Armin Barney, Dr. E. James Brady, Dr. Paul Brown, Mrs. J. A. (Katherine) Bills, Mrs. G. Franklin (Dorothy) Brown, Robert A. Burghart, Mrs. Griffin (Margaret) Caldwell, G. A. Cheney, P. G. Nikita Defended Himself Four Hours, Report Says

crony, President Anastas I. Mikoyan, over taking turns speaking to the spacemen.

But Krushchev had been careless.

He was operating out of his vacation retreat of Pitsunde on the Black Sea. Also on holiday was his personal aide and son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubei. His aide, Mikhail Kharlamov, chairman of the state television committee, had flown to Oslo to arrange a television exchange. Editor Pavel Satyukov of the party newspaper Pravda, a loyal lieutenant, was visiting Paris. Other members of the Kremlin brain trust had left Moscow on various errands.

No one was minding the store.

His critics — those high-ranking Communists grown weary of a bragging, boastful, earthy leader who dared make off-the-cuff pronouncements to the world without consulting the party central committee — felt their time had come.

The other members of the 11-man central committee's presidium—that most powerful Soviet body—had gotten into the habit of meeting in the Kremlin without Khrushchev. Tuesday, the black Chaika limousines — the status symbol of Soviet power—rolled up tree-lined Staraya Boulevard and stopped at No. 4.

There, in the central committee headquarters, a mile from the Kremlin, deputy party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, First Vice Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, party ideologist Mikhail Suslov and the others looked toward Mikoyan Mikoyan, the only old Bolshevik who has survived every Kremlin power play in 40 years took the chair. The subject was Khrushchev.

The men in No. 4 Staraya recited the faults of Khrushchev. They talked of advice ignored, Khrushchev's use of the word "I," and the nepotism involving Adzhubei, all that publicity about his family.

They talked and they voted Khrushchev out.

The presidium decided to summon the 330 - member central committee to back them up. Out went the call. Most members lived in or near Moscow. But some, the ambassador in New Delhi, the envoy to Paris, the head of the science academy in Novosibirsk, lived far away. And one, Nikita S. Khrushchev, was at Pitsunde.

Khrushchev, with the rest, got his summons for the Wednesday meeting.

From his cosy house at Pitsunde—you hear Russians now talking about "those American toys he had sent there for his grandchildren" — Khrushchev began mustering his forces. He had little time.

Wednesday morning only a few hundred Russians knew the drama being acted out against the background of a Moscow preparing for the cosmonauts' welcome. The newspapers bubbled about the cosmonauts. But Khrushchev already was being downgraded.

Khrushchev's name did not appear in Wednesday's editions of Pravda and Izvestia. His name vanished from Moscow radio and television.

Suslov, that tall, gaunt, cool strategist of Communist ideology, spoke for the presidium. He read off the indictment. Khrushchev must go. Suslov spoke a reported five hours.

Khrushchev replied, speaking four hours. He defended his record. Was it not he who destroyed Stalinism and its evil work? Was it not he who gave Russians the greatest measure of material goods in Soviet history? Was it not he who devoted his entire life to the good of the party?

Khrushchev's critics acted. According to reports, they laid down a set of "ground rules"—no calling in secret police, no force, everybody must abide by the vote, majority rules, and as good Communists, all must bow to the will of the party.

The central committee members agreed.

The vote came. It was not unanimously "granted" Nikita Brezhnev, Khrushchev's political lieutenant, was chosen as party leader. Kosygin, Khrushchev's government chief aide, took the premiership. Late Wednesday, word was reportedly flashed to all Communist capitals, including Peking.

Mikoyan presided over a supreme Soviet (parliamentary) presidium meeting Thursday to make everything legal. They ununimously "granted" Nikita Khrushchev's desire to retire because of "old age and deteriorating health."

Barry Charges Johnson With One-Thumb Rule

about whose finger is on the trigger," he said. "I want to talk about whose finger ought to be on the country, whose thumb.

"Do you want one man's thumb on your country instead of yours?

"I'll defend your right to strike," he told labor. "There's nothing good about compulsion."

Too many people think there is something magic about the federal government, he claimed, but the government can't "create productive jobs."

Free enterprise will have to produce the five million jobs a year that are going to be needed "to take care of these young people out there." He said this on the University of Akron campus.

Goldwater said he was not "overly impressed" with China's explosion of a nuclear device.

"It doesn't mean that tomorrow she will become a nuclear threat," he asserted, because China doesn't have the capability to deliver a bomb.

Goldwater said he believed that unless they have help it would take 25 years for China to develop a nuclear weapon and the means to deliver it.

The senator defended himself in part against the charge he is "trigger happy" and might start a war.

"I'm not worried about Goldwater's thumb," he said. "I'm worried about whose thumb the Russians have on the button.

His Ohio swing climaxed a hectic week of trying to sew up the Midwest vote. At Sioux Falls, S.D., Friday he delivered his major farm speech of the campaign, and Friday night in Chicago talked about civil rights.

Chenoweth Says U. S. Must Not Let Guard Down

MANITOU SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, R-Colo., said Saturday the United States "must be ready for anything" in view of developments in the Communist bloc.

"We must not let down our guard or give them a chance to get pushy," Chenoweth said in a talk to Manitou Springs Republicans.

The Trinidad congressman is seeking re-election in the 3rd District.

He described his district in southeastern Colorado as "now the most important defense area in the United States." Expansions have been authorized for the Air Force Academy, Ft. Carson and headquarters of the North American Air Defense Command.

Red China's testing of an atomic bomb and the ouster of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev were linked by Chenoweth, who said the Russian had "aroused the ire of Red China with his peaceful co-existence policy."

The outcome of the U.S. presidential race could not curtail the Fryingpan-Arkansas water diversion project in southeastern Colorado, Chenoweth said.

He said Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican nominee, is from a Western state that badly needs water and is a sponsor of the billion - dollar Central Arizona Project.

Essay Contest Winners Named

At a dinner given by Council 582 of the Knights of Columbus Saturday, three elementary school students were honored for submitting winning essays in response to the question, "What Columbus Day Means to Me."

First prize, a $25 savings bond, was won by Paul Romero, a fifth grader from Pauline Memorial School. Neil McKillips, a Sacred Heart sixth grader, took home $15 in cash for second, and Kervin Davis Grade five at Corpus Christi school, won third prize money of $10.

The contest included all school districts in the city.

Principle speaker at the affair, in which the parents of the three winners were also honored, was Monsignor Montcalm, Chief of Chaplins at the Air Force Academy.

Arthur Tafoua, Grand Knight of Council 582, and John Scupp, Deputy Grand Knight, hosted the affair and approximately 200 persons were in attendance.

Soviets Follow Nikita's Policies Despite Ouster

pledged to remain true to the policy guidelines laid down by Khrushchev at party congresses that approved de-Stalinization and economic policies aimed at raising living standards.

One of the first planks in the statement concerned the military, whose budgets Khrushchev persistently sought to cut for investments in the civilian economy. The statement emphasized that the party and government "have taken and are taking all measures to safeguard the integrity of its frontiers and the security of the entire socialist community."

The editorial emphasized that the new leadership would continue to "oppose the ideology and practice of the personality cult." This appeared to be a tacit assurance to the Russian people that there would be no return to repressions and discipline of the Stalinist terror.

Although Khrushchev's removal would appear to clear the way for a new approach to the Communist Chinese, the policy statement said the Kremlin would continue to push for the world Communist party meeting that Peking opposes and refuses to attend.

Pravda also appeared to be pressing the tough anti-Chinese line Khrushchev adopted last year by publishing sharp criticisms of Peking made by the Italian and French Communist parties.

The Chinese, flushed with the success of Friday's test of their first atomic explosive device, greeted the new Soviet leaders with a restrained protocol message of good wishes.

vised profit-sharing plan were disclosed Saturday in a joint news conference held by AMC and the union.

Under the simplified new formula — depending on the level of profits—AMC workers could receive an extra week's vacation pay above the additional week gained by the union last month in three-year contracts with the automotive Big Three — GM, Ford and Chrysler.

But sharing the risk, the union agreed to give up both extra weeks' vacation pay in any year the company's profits decline appreciably.

Unlike the historic profit-sharing agreement in effect the past three years, no provision is made this time for a distribution of AMC stock to the employes.

New improvements included in the economic package negotiated this year with the Big Three include higher pensions, increased wages, additional holidays and early retirement incentives.

Air Terminal Planning to Get Underway

the project will involve the development of a new city terminal, hangars, aircraft ramps, and taxiways, utilities and access roads on the west side of the existing new north - south instrument runway. This will provide the city with civilian facilities completely separate from the Air Force installation at the local field. The United States Air Force, Federal Aviation Agency and Civil Aeronautics Board have worked closely with the City in facilitating the move.

M. R. Pearce, Director of Public Works and Stu Wandell, Airport Manager, will coordinate the project with the architect - engineers. The first phase of the development will be completed by October 1 of next year.

Both architectural and engineering firms retained by the city have done extensive airport planning, architectural and engineering work throughout the United States, including Peterson Field. Higginbotham - Nakata & Muir are presently under contract to Headquarters Air Defense Command for master planning on air bases in the states of New York, Florida, Texas and Colorado. The firm's recent architectural work includes the Space Tracking and Detection Facility at Ent Air Force Base, a Bowling Center for Ft. Carson, an Airfield Dining Facility at Butts Field, the Pikes Peak Mental Health Clinic, the Plant Engineering Complex for the Bureau of Standards in Boulder, Colorado, and the National Bureau of Standards Advanced Research Facility, also in Boulder, Colorado. The firm has been established in Colorado Springs for three years. Higginbotham, Nakata and Muir are graduates of Princton University, The University of California, and the University of Illinois, respectively, and are all corporate members of the American Institute of Architects.

The engineering firm of Karich & Weber has accomplished numerous paving and utility projects throughont Colorado and Colorado Springs. This included work in Cortez, Durango, and Wray. In the Colorado Springs area they accomplished work on the Austin Estates, Prospect Park, and Stratmoor Valley Subdivisions. On the local military installations they provided engineering services for the Battalion Maintenance Shops at Ft. Carson, family housing at Peterson Field, and engineering for the Runway Extension at Peterson Field.

The firm has been established in Colorado Springs for three years. The principals are graduates of the University of Colorado and the University of Nebraska, respectively, and are both members of the National Society of Professional Engineers.

The local offices of Howard Dutzi, structural engineer, Walter Langebartel, mechanical engineer and Ken Kolstad, electrical engineer, have been retained by the above firms as professional consultants. They have had broad experience in all phases of architecture and engineering on many projects throughout the Pikes Peak region.

Pike Foresters Fighting Fire In Medicine Bow

Eight U. S. Forest Service foresters from Pike National Forest are helping to supervise the battle to contain an uncontrolled forest fire in Medicine Bow National Forest.

The fire had burned through 350 acres of heavy lodgepole pine and timber slash by late Saturday afternoon.

Control of the fire, 40 miles southwest of Laramie, Wyo., is expected sometime this morning.

On the fire line are 325 men, eight bulldozers, six TBM bombers converted to drop 600 pound loads of a "slurry" mud - water mix, and a helicopter for aerial reconnaissance.

The Eastern Slope of Wyoming is included in a regional forest district with Colorado, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

A B-17 converted bomber filled with slurry is standing by at Peterson Field for possible use in Pike National Forest or other areas of Colorado.

Fire danger in Pike National Forest is "very high," according to the local supervisor's office.

Hunter - started fires are predicted on the Western Slope as the deer and elk season there opens this weekend.

No Men Are Needed With Do-It-Yourself Robot

Imagine a small package of materials landing on the moon, suddenly building itself into a house, then repackaging itself when no longer needed.

Such a "do - it - itself" automation, which shows promise of becoming one of the space age's more industrious robots, has been created by engineers at the Astronautics division of the General Dynamics Corp.

The automation is a self - building mechanism that could automatically construct pre - fabricated structures in space.

It could assemble itself into nearly any pre - planned shape- from space station to lunar shelter — then disassemble itself back into a small package once its job was finished.

The automation concept has been under investigation here for two years, and a model has been developed to demonstrate its feasibility.

It is called RATIO, for radio telescope in orbit, one of its possible applications.

Basically, it consits of stacks of panels, which are the building materials, and automatic equipment to maneuver the panels into desired locations to form the intended structure.

Potential applications of the RATIO concept are being investigated in a company-funded program at the Astronautics division.

Design engineer Paul Slysh, who developed the RATIO concept, said the size of structure it could assemble is limited only by the amounts of building material that could be placed into space.

By use of an orbit rendezvous technique wherein new materials could be rocketed into space to join with materials previously placed in orbit, there is "no theoretical limit to the size of a RATIO structure," spherical shapes.

The technique permits in-space fabrication of larger, more efficient structures than are possible with other deployable methods, he said.

If RATIO were used for a lunar shelter, he said, it could be sent to the moon in a relatively small, compact package. It then would build itself into the desired shelter and be ready for use when its occupants arrived from earth.

Citing other possible applications, Slysh said that a RATIO - built orbiting antenna 100 feet in diameter, would weight less than 2,000 pounds including 200 pounds of automatic assembly equipment.

For an antenna, the entire unit would be packaged for launch with the panels fastened to each other in stacks. The stacking technique would make the panels self - reinforcing to withstand shock and vibration during liftoff and ascent.

Antenna components, such as steering devices, sun - seekers and other systems, would be mounted directly on the panels, and then would be positioned in proper locations as the structure assembled itself.

When the packaged antenna arrived at the desired location in space, the automatic assembly equipment would remove the panels one at a time from the stacks, then assemble them in pre - planned order.

Slysh said the automatic equipment would use five basic motions to build a 100 - foot antenna, and that assembly would require four to five hours.

He said the automatic assembly equipment consists of linkages, and actuators powered by six stepping motors and four solenoids.

Mershon Gets Ft. Carson Assignment

A former merchant mariner has been assigned as motor sergeant for the 5th Administration Company at Ft. Carson.

Sgt. Uldean E. Mershon, formerly a wheeled vehicle mechanic in the 67th Evacuation Hospital, entered the mechanical field in June 1952 and was trained at Ft. Jackson, S. C., section. He moved to the 67th, from the Purchasing and Contracting section.

The motor sergeant joined the merchant marine in 1944 and traveled to England, Russia and South America. He received a Presidential testimonial letter from former President Harry S. Truman, congratulating him on a job well done, as a member of the Merchant Marine.

In November 1945, he joined the Army and was a member of the 78th (Lightning) Division, when it was chosen as the division to occupy Berlin, Germany.

During the Korean War, Mershon was with the 304th Signal Battalion in Korea.

Mershon is the winner of three Bronze Stars, United Nation, Korean Service, European, American Campaign, National Defense and World War II Victory and Occupation Medals.

Since World War II, he has seen duty in two overseas areas — France and Germany with the 97th Engineers and 3d Infantry Division Artillery, respectively. He came to Fort Carson from Germany in August 1963.

Mershon lives with his wife, Dorothy Faye, and four children at 311 N. Prospect, Colorado Springs.

Top Music at Navy Ball Commanders Will Provide

How do you like your music? . . . brassy and loud, soft and slow . . . care for jazz, swing, dixieland, popular rhythms? . . . like to do the fandango, polka, rumba, shimmy, the Highland fling, twist, swing out country style, or just plain ole waltz . . . You'll get all of this and more when you dance to the music of the NORAD "Commanders" orchestra and the "Noradaires" at the Navy Relief Ball.

The Navy Relief Ball will be held at the Broadmoor International Center, Saturday evening, October 31st. Appearing from Hollywood, Jackie Cooper . . . and our own Sverett Conover will emcee this social highlight of the fall season.

A full evening of dance music mixed with 'show-time' specialties is being planned under the direction of Lieutenant Colonel Mark Azzolina. As maestro and officer-in-charge of the internationally famed 90-piece "Calvacade of Music" Band, he has blended together 20 instrumentalists to form the nation's top military dance band — the "Commanders."

The "Commanders" orchestra expresses the good old days when the big name bands with the 'big sound' toured the country playing one nighters.

The "Commanders" are considered one of the finest dance show's today. They have attained unprecedented popularity and honor in the U. S. and Canada. This military dance group has been acclaimed by the American Federation of Musicians as the "Honorary Best New Band" — no other military dance band holds this award.

A rich collection of popular orchestrations and original compositions have been given to the "Commanders" from the biggest names in the dance band business — Sam Donahue, Paul Weston, Les Brown, Frank DeVol, Larry and Les Elgart.

As a special feature to the Navy Relief Ball, the "Noradaires" will make their debut appearance. Composed of 13 musicians, the "Noradaires will sound-out a different flare in dance music . . of what they call sophisticated jazz, light and danceable. Strictly instrumental, the "Noradaires" have been selected from the NORAD Band. Captain John Nalezny, leader, promises a real treat in their style of dance music.

Current and past members of the "Commanders" and "Noradaires" have come from a list of "name" bands that read like "Who's Who' of the music world . . these include Welk, Hunt, Kenton, Miller, McKinley, Dorsey, and even from the BBC Orchestra.

As part of the NORAD "Calvacade of Music" Band, the "Commanders" have appeared on the Bell Telphone Hour, at the Hollywood Bowl, on Today's Show, Tonight's Show, at the New York World's Fair, in Carnegie Hall, on the Steve Allen Show, and have been on the Mutual Radio Network weekly with the "Partners in Defense" Show for the past four years.

Making up the entire NORAD Band, including the Commanders and Noradaires, are selected musicians of the U. S. Army, Navy, Air Force, and Royal Canadian Air Force.

Tickets for the social event may be obtained at the Naval Reserve Training Center at Prospect Lake, Blick's Sporting Goods, the Palmer House, Swiss Chalet and from Helen Atwater at the Broadmoor Hotel.

Great Western Sugar Payments Hit Record

DENVER (AP) — A Great Western Sugar Co. payment of $6,708,000 to beet growers in five states Oct. 24 wil bring to $77,140,000 the total 1963 crop payments to growers—the biggest in company history, officials said.

Frank Kemp, company president, said the final return combined direct company payments of $65,400,000 and Sugar Act payments — returned to growers through taxes on the company— of $11,740,000.

The total, Kemp said, represents "the highest combined payments in the beet - growing history of the area." Combined payments average $14.78 a ton.

Kemp said final payments will average $1.28 per ton for Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, southern Wyoming and Montana, and $1.31 a ton in northern Wyoming.

The payments are on sugor sold by the company during the marketing year that ended Sept. 30, 1964.

About 40 per cent of the 1964 beet crop has been harvested. First Great Western payments will be made in November. The new crop is estimated to be 5 million tons.

Happy Ordered To Surrender Her Daughter

By ROBERT HOLTON

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller was under court order to surrender her 4-year-old daughter today to Dr. James S. Murphy, the man she divorced 18 months ago to marry the governor.

The transfer of Malinda Murphy from the Rockefeller estate near Tarrytown, N.Y., to the swank Manhattan residence of Dr. Murphy and his new wife was directed Friday by state Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Gagliardi.

Malinda went to live with Mrs. Rockefeller when Dr. Murphy remarried last June.

This was part of a complicated blueprint of visiting rights granted Mrs. Rockefeller, who lost a suit last month to gain custody of her four children by Dr. Murphy.

The visiting rights were arranged by Justice Gagliardi after attorneys for Mrs. Rockefeller and her former husband of 15 years were unable to reach agreement on how the parents should share time with their children — James, 13, Margaretta, 11, Carol, 8, and Malinda.

The schedule allows her temporary custody of the youngsters during parts of the major holidays of the year, for two months during summer vacations and on alternate weekends during the school year.

300 Casualties Reported in Viet Nam War

By JOHN T. WHEELER

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Government troops battered the Viet Cong from the northern border to the southern Delta region, inflicting more than 300 casualties on the Communist guerrillas, sources said today.

The Vietnamese victories came in three major battles Friday in what was described as one of the worst days of the war for the Communists. One American was slightly wounded.

The most decisive fighting took place in the southern Delta region, near Pac Lieu where 89 Viet Cong died and 17 others were captured in an eight-hour battle. Airborne Rangers in U.S. Army helicopters raked the area with rockets and machine gun fire while the Vietnamese air force dropped explosives and bombs on a force of 200 guerrillas in rice paddies.

The government lost 6 and 25 others were injured, including an American enlisted man grazed by a bullet. He returned to duty after treatment.

In a second engagement 25 miles from Saigon, more than 100 Viet Cong were killed or wounded when two government columns encountered a battalion of Communists. The Viet Cong destroyed one U.S.-made H-24 tank and damaged two others that were part of a platoon accompanying the troops.

The flight also showed that such a stream of highly charged particles could produce thrust, NASA said.

U.N. May Seek To Avoid Russian Clash

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Delegttes predicted today the General Assembly will postpone its opening at least two weeks in an effort to avert a clash between the United States and Russia's new regime over U.N. peacekeeping dues.

The word spread after the United States switched its stand and made known it would agree to postpone the Nov. 10 opening if someone else proposed such a move. It was believed a group of Asian or African nations would broach the idea and the Communist bloc would agree.

In a statement late Friday, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said, "While no one has yet proposed postponement of the General Assembly, in view of recent developments, the United States is open minded."

The dispute results from the Soviet refusal to pay General Assembly assessments to finance the Congo and Middle-East peacekeeping operations. The Russians are two calendar years behind in their U.N. dues. The United States and Britain have said the Russians should lose their assembly voting rights under U.N. Charter Article 19, which provides that those members two years behind shall have no vote.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

Mrs. Elsie H. Walton in locking over some old papers which had been kept by her late husband for years came across this article in a charming little booklet which included several pictures of Helen Hunt Jackson, her grave, both on the Mountain and in Evergreen Cemetery. The author of the article was Frank S. Thayer. A young man from the East who had come here for his health but either died or returned home, I don't know which. We will let the Pioneer Museum have the booklet since it was written in 1885 and belongs to history.

The following is Helen Hunt Jackson's story:

Bold in outline and grandly massive Cheyenne Mountain is one of striking interest to strangers, whether seen from Colorado Springs, or from Manitou, ten miles distant. It is cleft by two yawning chasms, forming the North and South Cheyenne Canons, into the deepest hollows of whose perpendicular jagged walls only the noonday sun can shine. South Cheyenne ends in a "round well of granite, down one side of which leaps, slides, foams and rushes a series of waterfalls" — the lovely "Seven Falls" of Cheyenne Mountain.

Facing this magnificent outguard of old Pikes Peak, at Colorado Springs, was the home of Helen Hunt Jackson. Its grandeur was her daily pleasure, to penetrate its vast ruggedness a choice delight, and back to it, by her own request, she was brought for burial. The following from the pen of Mr. Crawford, graphically describes her grave.

"In Pine Hill Forest, on the northern slope of Cheyenne Mountain looking to the east where the first soft rays of sunlight linger lovingly and at last flood with light and warmth on the last day of a soft October, was laid away for her final rest Helen Hunt Jackson. One can imagine as she lay upon that couch of pain from which she never arose, that her heart must have turned longingly to this restful, favored spot. Sheltering the higher parts of the mountain circle around, rising behond the cannon into fantastic crags, jutting red pinnacles and shadowy ascending ravines with an edging of silver fir, giving the mountainsides a look of hoary old age. Down over the dizzy point of rocks from the blue distance of Cheyenne Canon, rises a musical murmur and rush of water to mingle with the low sighing of the pines. From her grave one may look down through the parted trees upon her embowered earthly home among the gracefully sweeping hills with the stretch of yellow plain beyond, rising to the horizon. At the foot of the slope wells out a spring of pure, limpid water into a basin that was covered with golden autumn leaves, then over the edge of it and with a headlong rush, down the gorge to seek Cheyenne Creek.

"Down the slope and through the pines come the last slanting rays of the western sun and linger longest upon the resting place of this gifted child of nature. The ground is covered with a soft carpet of pine needles and the trailing kinnikinnick. One might almost imagine the wild flowers she loved so well in life crowding closer to her grave, and by their bright procession giving expression to the immortality of a beautiful life.

"And has she not high honor,
The hillside for her pall,
To lie in state, with stars for tapers tall!
And the dark rock pines like
Over her grave to wave?"

"Gently, reverently, we picked from the newly made grave of one whom we knew only in the thoughts she breathed upon the printed page, a spray of the kinnikinnick with which it was covered, and thought of her own lines that seemed as if inspired by this chosen spot:

"Dear hearts whose love has been so sweet to know,
That I am looking backward as I go,
Am lingering while I haste, and in this rain
Of tears of joy am mingling
tears of pain:
Do not adorn, with costly shrub,
or tree,
Or flower, the little grave that shelters me.
Let the wild wind-sown seeds grow up unharmed,
And back and forth all summer, unalarmed
Let all the tiny, busy creatures creep;
Let the sweet grass its last year's tangles keep:
And when remembering me you come some day
And stand there, speak no praise, but only say,
'How she loved us! It was for that she was so dear.'
These are the only words that I shall smile to hear."

Helen Maria Fisk, the daughter of Nathan and Deborah Fisk, was born at Amherst, Mass., Oct. 18, 1831. She was educated at Ipswitch Female Seminary, and at Rev. J. S. Abbot's private school in New York. During her school life, beyond a natural aptitude for her studies, she showed little signs of the genius of after years. In the fall of 1852 she married Captain (afterwards Major) E. B. Hunt, a distinguished military engineer. In the second year of her married life Mrs. Hunt lost her first child. Her husband was killed in October 1863, in an accident while experimenting with one of his marine inventions; and less than two years later, the second child, a boy of rare gifts and great promise, died at his aunt's home in West Roxbury. Most of Helen Hunt's early elegaic verse blossomed out of this heavy experience and sorrow. Two years later after his death she wrote her first poem, "Lifted Over." It made its way by force of natural law to the heart of all mothers in the land. Up to this time her life had been absorbed in domestic and social duties. Her real literary career — if we expect some juvenile ventures — began when she moved to Newport in the winter of 1866. Her first successful poem, "Coronation," appeared in the "Atlantic" three years later, and was the commencement of a long and faithful connection with that magazine. Later on she contributed to the "Century," the "Nation" and the "Independent." The years 1868-1870 were spent in Europe, in travel and literary work, furnishing material for the charming "Bits of Travel" which was the first collection of her writings published in book form. In 1872 she visited California for the first time. A year afterward she was compelled by a bronchial infection to winter in Colorado, which, after her marriage to William S. Jackson, of Colorado Springs, in 1875, became her permanent home. It was not until 1880 that Mrs. Jackson's attention was drawn, with a serious concern, to the Indian question, but from that date, throughout the last five years of her life, filled as it was with various literary tasks, she gave it her constant and principal devotion and support. A "Century of Dishonor" which appeared in 1880 was a sketch of the United States Government's dealings with the Indian tribes, and holds up to the public eye a series of startling pictures of Indian wrongs during a century of American history. From the concise report rendered by Mrs. Jackson and Mr. Kinney, the attention of the Government and the people was first drawn to the wanton persecution of the Indian race. When four years later, "Ramona" her Indian novel was published, many people called it the American novel, long watched for and now come, and the Camulos ranch, where the scenes of the story are laid, has grown to be a spot of world-wide fame. In the summer of 1884 her labors in the cause were interrupted by a severe fracture of the leg, which on her removal to California, was succeeded by an attack of malaria and later by the cancerous affliction of which she died at San Francisco, August 12, 1885. At her request she was bought back to Colorado Springs and laid to rest on the side of Cheyenne Mountain, where "the wild windsown seeds grow up unharmed" and "the dark rock pines like tossing plumes over her grave wave." In the spring of 1892, however, it was thought best to remove her body to peaceful Evergreen Cemetery, where she now sleeps.

The bibliography which follows is as complete, possibly as it can be made, exclusive of magazine articles:

VERSES, 1870, enlarged edition published in 1874; BITS OF TRAVEL, 1873; BITS OF TALK ABOUT HOME MATTERS, 1873; SAXE HOLM'S STORIES, 2 vols., '73 and '78; BITS of TALK FOR YOUNG FOLKS, 1876; MERCY PHILBRICK'S CHOICE, a novel, 1876; HETTY'S STRANGE STORY, a novel, 1877; BITS OF TRAVEL AT HOME, 1878; NELLIE'S SILVER MINE, 1878; THE STORY OF BOON, a poem, 1879; LETTERS FROM A CAT, edited from her mothers MS, 1880; THE TRAINING OF CHILDREN, 1882; THE HUNTER CATS OF CONNORLOA, 1884; RAMONA, 1884.

Personally we children felt a warm admiration for H. H. as my mother always called her, as the two women were friends. Mrs. Walton has kindly allowed us to keep the booklet and use this article in my column.

Communists Gain Votes in Britain

LONDON (AP) — The Communist Party increased its share of the votes in Britain's general election. The party had twice as many candidates as it did in 1959.

The total throughout Britain for the Communist Party was 46,532 votes compared to 30,897 in the 1959 election when the party contested 18 seats. This year it had 36 candidates in the field.

The Communists did not win a seat in the House of Commons either time.

Junior Achievers Open New Bank Here Oct. 12

BANK OFFICERS—Some of the officers of the new Achievers Exchange Bank of Southern Colorado lay the groundwork for their operation. Seated are Judy Pratt, executive vice president, and Jim Kueber, president. Standing are Steve Hawk, cashier, and Star Stiner, vice president.

A new Colorado Springs bank was chartered, and opened its doors for business on October 12 — the Achievers Exchange Bank of Southern Colorado. The new bank will be directed by Jim Kueber, president, a Wasson High School sophomore; Judy Pratt, executive vice president, a Palmer High School senior; Star Stiner, vice president, a Palmer senior; Steve Hawk, cashier, a Palmer senior; Lois Foster, assistant cashier, a St. Mary's High School sophomore; Virginia Richey, assistant cashier, a St. Mary's School senior; Mike James, asstant cashier, a St. Mary's sophomore; and Jim Gillen, auditor, a St. Mary's sophomore. Another member of the company not present for the organizational meeting was Sharon Shamburg, a sophomore at Palmer.

The board of directors voted to capitalize a' $18, each member buying one share of stock at $1 per share, and selling nine additional shares at the same price.

This new organization will serve the banking needs of all Junior Achievement companies in Colorado Springs and these progressive and enthusiastic new officers are looking forward to a successful year.

The bank's Public Relations Department, headed by Judy Pratt, executive vice president, will promote and distribute a unique item this year. This item is not only useful to every householder in Colorado Springs, but nost attractive — a file for canceled checks. It will be on sale in the very near future as part of the marketing program of this Junior Achievement company.

Local Junior Achievement enterprises, under the direction of Executive Director, Bill We'zler, meet one night a week. The Achievers Exchange Bank, however, is open every night in order to save the banking needs of its customers. There are 17 other Junior Achievement companies in Colorado Springs consisting of high school students of the area. Each "junior" enterprise is sponsored by a local business firm, the Achievers Exchange Bank being sponsored by The Exchange National Bank. Nine members of the bank staff act as advisors to these "junior bankers." The Junior Achievement Center is located at 539½ East Pikes Peak Avenue in the Santa Fe building.

The Junior Achievement program is simply the reflection of the American business system in operation. No detail except that of size differs from that found in any American corporation. This program operates on a yearly basis beginning in September when thousands of young people are recuited in high school assemblies across the nation, and ends in May when Junior Achievement companies are dissolved and annual reports submitted to the stockholders. Some 78-87 per cent of the companies redeem their stock and pay dividends.

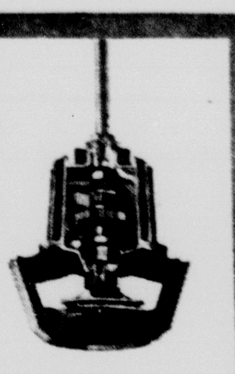
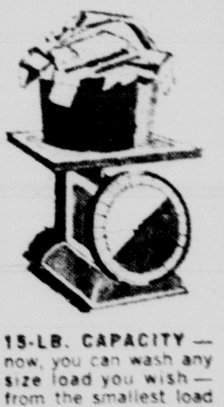
NEW WESTINGHOUSE HEAVY DUTY 15 WASHER: ENGINEERED TO PREVENT COSTLY REPAIR BILLS

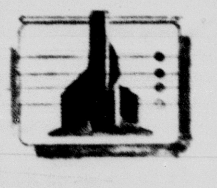


BIGGEST TRANSMISSION OF ALL—We built the transmission (the cause of costly repair bills) half again as large as those found in other automatics. It has what it takes to run this trouble-free, heavy duty washer.

DOUBLE-ACTION WASHING — Thorough Yet Gentle — specially engineered Westinghouse agitator draws clothes in one direction through hot, sudsy water. Ribbed wall tub turns in opposite direction for a second washing action.



15-LB. CAPACITY — now, you can wash any size load you wish — from the smallest load all the way up to a big 15-lb. load. And with Westinghouse you get really thorough washing action regardless of the size of the load.



COLOR-KEYED LOAD MARKERS save hot water and detergent. Load markers inside the tub are color-keyed to the size of your wash load. Pack clothes into tub, lightly and evenly, see how far up they come. Now set the Water-Saver to the proper load size. Automatically, you have exactly the correct amount of water—never too much, never too little.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Kingman Brewster Jr., president of Yale University, doesn't think it's a good idea for the government to support research in the humanities as it does in science.

"The search for truth in the areas of taste, ideology, and belief can never safely be made dependent upon a fedral 'chosen instrument' of financial support," said Brewster in his annual report, issued Thursday.

Increased Re-2(J) Budget Calls for 3.5 Mill Hike

A budget of $602,028.70 for the school year 1964-65 was approved by the board of education of school district Re-2 (J) in a recent meeting, it was announced this week by Barto Babitz, superintendent of schools.

The budget, which represents an increase of $15,401.05 over the 1963 budget of $586,627.64, calls for a possible mill levy increase of an estimated 3.5.

"The mill levy increase, which is contemplated, is due to many factors," Babitz noted. Basically, there are five main reasons for the anticipated tax hike. They are:

"1. Increased costs of instruction due to meeting the requirements of our salary schedule.

"2. Failure of the state to implement transportation and special education (transportation $7,080 and special education $2,586).

"3. Lack of increase in assessed valuation — the district has lost $75,000 in the last five years. Meanwhile there has been an increase in the operating budget of $119,000.

"4. The percentage of state support has not increased to help offset the increase in the cost of operation in spite of the fact that the district is operating with 10 less teachers, and the transportation budget has almost doubled in the last five years.

"5. While the cost of instruction has increased, our salary schedule is still below the average for districts of our size."

The school administrator noted that three factors have accounted for the decrease in the district's assessed valuation, namely (a) successive five per cent decreases in the assessed valuation of utilities; (b) drop in personal property tax on inventories; (c) complete depreciation of the old Portland plant.

"The board and the administration are well aware of the increased burden on property and feel that money from some other source must be forthcoming.

"This increase is reflected in practically every school district in the state to a greater or lesser degree," Babitz stated. "The state will have to assume its fair share by increasing its percentage of support, or find a new source of revenue for schools if the property taxpayer is to survive."

The school superintendent remarked that he recently completed a survey of finances in the district which he considers "most disturbing."

He explained that the district's budget increased by $117,000 during the past five years, while the number of teachers and principals has decreased from 75 in 1960 to 65 in 1964.

"Our special mill levy has increased from 16 mills in 1960 to 26.65 in 1964-65," he said, "and special education has dropped from 50 to 25 per cent.

"Our enrollment is increasing and teacher load increasing in order to hold the line, and our salary schedule is below average and we are having a difficult time getting teachers. . as well as holding what we have," he declared.

"In spite of some dollar increases from state sources, increased costs of operation are placing a heavier burden on local property. With reorganization some interesting things happened:

"1. Our transportation costs more than doubled because we had to consolidate schools and transport the children to larger centers.

"2. We lost a classroom unit because the ratio was changed to a straight 1 to 25 students in average daily attendance instead of 1-15, then 1-20 and 25 thereafter.

"3. We were no longer able to get C.R.U.'s due to the sparsity factor because school centers had to be at least 15 miles apart.

"4. Sales ratio went into effect hurting the rural areas as far as state monies were concerned.

"5. Assessed valuation took a drop or failed to increase due to loss of reappraisal of public utilities, inventories, and the complete depreciation of a part of the old Ideal Cement plant at Portland."

In concluding the summary of school board action on the budget, Babitz added that the bond levies will be the same as last year with the following decreased noted:

Coal Creek will receive a decrease of 3.01 mills this year, and Penrose a decrease in 1966 of 1.90. In general, he reported, there should be a substantial increase in valuation in Re-2 in 1966 when the reappraisal program is in full swing and new construction is added to the present valuation. Any increase in state aid should also help to hold the line in the future.

READY FOR CLASSES—Looking over some of the material to be used in teaching adult citizenship and literacy classes here are three of the people behind the program. From left are John Cameron, industrial, vocational and adult education director for District 11; Mrs. Lawrence Reibscheid, coordinator of the Colorado Springs Adult Literacy and Citizenship program, and Donald King, administrator of the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado.

Literacy Classes Slate Registration Wednesday

Registration for the free literacy and citizenship classes offered by School District No. 11 and the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado will be held Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m., in room 113 of Palmer High School.

The school is located at 301 N. Nevada, and those who come to register are urged to use the Weber Street entrance.

Mrs. Lawrence Reibscheid, coordinator of the program, called for the cooperation of individuals and agencies throughout the Pikes Peak area in her effort to contact native as well as foreign born illiterates who would benefit from this program.

"Because the people we are trying to reach cannot read," she said, "we have to rely on others to inform prospective students and get them to register. We know from an earlier survey that there are at least three thousand native born functional illiterates in this area and, as a result, the one hundred we have taught to read each year only has made a slight dent in the total. Teaching people to be literate not only helps make them more effective citizens, but it often helps them obtain and hold better jobs."

Class sessions will start the week of Oct. 26 at the high school and will continue weekly through May. Courses are organized according to the needs of the enrollees, but consist of basic English, reading, writing, speaking, and citizenship training. The latter course is part of the program, according to Mrs. Reibscheid, because a number of the students who enroll are foreign born and want to become citizens. Some also cannot read, write or speak English.

Members of the volunteer faculty for the program who were recently recruited will have an orientation session on Monday, October 26 at 8 p.m. at 406 North Weber, School District No. 11 vocational education offices.

This is the sixth year for the program, and enrollment has grown from 26 in 1958 to about one hundred for each of the last three years. During that time the program has had a one hundred per cent success in transforming illiterates to literates except for a few dropouts. No person who has taken the citizenship course ever has failed his citizenship examinations. The foreign born are not allowed to take the citizenship course until they can read, write, and speak English. Some of them, as a result, have to participate in the program for two years.

Further information about the program can be obtained by calling Mrs. Reibscheid at 632-4519.

Several organizations have been active in helping Mrs. Reibscheid organize and conduct this program. These include the Colorado Springs Federation of Women's Clubs, Future Teachers of America at Wasson High School, the Fort Carson Education Department, and the Colorado Springs section of the National Council of Jewish Women.

Stamp Club Schedules Workshop

The Colorado Springs Stamp Club will hold a "Special Workshop Session" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA.

This program has been designed particularly for those who have just entered the hobby of stamp collecting or those who have only contemplated collecting postage stamps and have not made the plunge.

This one-time program is offered as a special service to the public and parents are urged to accompany aspiring junior collectors who are also invited to attend the session.

Informational talks will be presented by veteran stamp collectors on "Why collect stamps?" "How to start," "Tools of the Hobby," "Maintaining the Luster, and "Pitfalls to Avoid." A question and answer period will be conducted following the talks plus a stamp swap and exchange period.

The public is invited to attend any of the regular meetings of the Colorado Stamp Club which are held twice monthly on the 1st and 3d Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the YMCA.

WSC Budget Is Approved

The Board of Trustees for State Colleges approved next year's budget request for Western State College at $2,094,952.

The action taken at the last Friday meeting in Gunnison represents an increase of $347,562 over the 1964-65 budget.

Western State College is currently operating on a $1,747,390 budget, based upon an anticipated enrollment of 1750 students. Actual enrollment this fall was 1930. The new budget request is calculated on an expected average enrollment of 2100 in September 1965.

By way of comparison, Western State has asked for an increase of 19.89 per cent in funds while it anticipates a 24 per cent jump in students.

The increased budget, if approved by the Colorado Legislature, will cover cost of 16 additional faculty members, an increase in salaries, and an increase in funds for general supplies.

Alcoholism Council Sets Meeting Monday

The El Paso County Council on Alcoholism Inc., an affiliate of the National Council on Alcoholism, will hold its October meeting Monday at the City-County Health Building, 501 N. Foote.

The Board of Directors and Council Members Meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. At 8 p.m. this United Fund Agency's program will consist of a colored film: "To Your Health." This 11 minute film is one of the films shown to Schools and Youth Groups throughout the local School Systems. A Special Invitation to the County P. T. A. association and all of the local P.T.A. Presidents or Program Chairmen has been extended by the Council's Chairman, Mr. Sam Mummery. The Council wishes the Parents and Teachers to see the modern type of Alchol Education that is recommended and various films available for their own meetings through the new Alcoholism Information Center—a free Community Service.

Audience participation discussion will follow. Members, friends and interested citizens are cordially invited.

AdAmAn Club Gets New Set Of Mortars

When the AdAmAn Club this winter, for the 42nd time, presents a New Years fireworks display on Pikes Peak it will be using an entirely new set of mortars to send its 8, 12, 16 and 24 - inch bursting shells high above the 14,111 - foot summit.

As the old summit house was razed, after completion of the new one, the AdAmAn Club's mortars were thrown away by the wreckers as junk.

But a new set has been provided by Tom McLaughlin of the Colorado Interstate Gas Co. It is necessary that they be made of a kind of very strong steel, such as the gas company uses, and so McLaughlin came to the rescue of the mountaineers. Jim Bates of the club has arranged to have the mortars taken up the mountain.

The AdAmAn Club is beginning to make arrangements for the New Years climb. It will hold its annual meeting for election of officers and the one new member it enrolls each year some time in December.

Former Grace Rector Gets Praise as Honolulu Bishop

An article entitled, "The Biggest Diocese" with sub-title, "Its Head is Episcopal Bishop Harry S. Kennedy," by A. E. P. Wall, Sunday editor of the Star-Bulletin and Advertiser of Honolulu, in the August 16, 1964, issue, is like ringing church bells to Colorado Springs residents.

The Rt. Rev. Harry Sherbourne Kennedy, Episcopal Bishop of the Pacific, for eight years was rector of Grace Episcopal Church of Colorado Springs. He was active in affairs here. It was a surprise to him when, after he had served as a chaplain in the Eleventh Army Division, he was called to a meeting of the House of Bishops in Cleveland and told he had been elected Bishop of Honolulu. His wife, in Colorado Springs (at that time they had three sons, 8, 12 and 13 years old) was frantic. But he made his way to Honolulu on a freighter and later Mrs. Kennedy and the children followed. Enthronement ceremonies for the Sixth Episcopal Bishop of Honolulu were held in April, 1944. The three sons the couple had when here are now all Episcopal priests, Bruce in Monterey, Mexico, David in Ewa Beach and Paul in Guatamala. And they now also have twin sons, Mark, attending Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., and Joel, attending Colorado College.

Wall begins his article by saying that somebody has said the sun never sets on Harry Kennedy. With his interview with the celebrated churchman is published a portrait of Bishop Kennedy with St. Andrews Cathedral in Honolulu for background.

The article relates how Bishop Kennedy presides over an area larger than the United States of America, extending from Honolulu west to Okinawa and south to American Samoa. He was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., Aug. 21, 1901, and attended Colorado State College, did graduate work at the University of Southern California and completed his religious education at St. John's Theological Seminary in Colorado. He was ordained into the Episcopal priesthood at Christ Cathedral in Salinas, Kan., in 1926. While in his second year in Kansas he met a Colorado girl, Katharine Kittle, whom he married after he had been in the priesthood a year.

Much of Wall's interesting articles has to do with replies of Bishop Kennedy to questions asked. He was asked if he felt the churches are meeting the needs of the times. His reply was:

"They are adjusting their programs and thinking to meet the needs of the modern-day man on the go. We realize that mission work is not confined to rural or overseas areas, but that it includes the great urban centers of America and the college campuses."

Asked if he thought the churches ought to express themselves on important public issues, he said:

"I believe the Church has a moral obligation to speak up on all such issues — civil rights, gambling or whatever they may be. People who say that a church must be a church, whatever that means, don't know what they are talking about. We can no longer be spectators."

Right-of-Way Violators Take 72 Lives to Date

Beware of taking the right-of-way. According to Attorney General Duke W. Dunbar, Chairman of the Colorado Highway Safety Council, 72 persons were killed in 67 accidents this year just because they violated this rule.

Give up the right - of - way to the inept driver, help him stay out of trouble and avoid accident producing situations that may involve you. When you encounter another vehicle on the street or highway, remember that he is probably not as good a driver as you, grant him the right - of - way. You may be delayed a half a second or so, but you will be safer.

He said 85 per cent of all accidents and fatalities could have been avoided by observing simple rules of the road.

Far greater safety on the streets and highways can be maintained by driving by the golden rule and extending normal courtesies.

REPEAT PERFORMANCE—For the second time in her six-year old life, Black Tuba (not seen) has produced a litter of 13 pups, 10 of which are males, another unusual part of this birth. Black Tuba, a registered standard French poodle owned by Mrs. Ted Keeling, 2020 Mesa Rd., gave birth to the puppies, all black, on Friday. This was her third litter; there were eight in the first, and 13 in the second. Father of the three litters is Black Pete, 6, also owned by Mrs. Keeling. He has a German background, Mrs. Keeling says, adding that his grandfather was a champion in Germany. The pups, all healthy and fat, will be looking for homes soon. In the meantime, they're busily rotating dining hours. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Carew Calls For New Traffic Safety Laws

A local attorney proposes a law which would allow motorists to help police themselves on Colorado streets and highways.

William Lamont Carew, candidate for the State Legislature, told the Colorado Student Nurses Association at Memorial Hospital this week that there are simply not enough police, sheriff deputies and state patrolmen to handle the increasing traffic, and it will get worse. "Meanwhile," he said, "the death toll of children and adults grows with the problem."

Carew proposes new legislation to deal with passing at speeds beyond the full speed limit. "The idea here is to end the eternal road race, and it would do so by allowing the motorist being passed the reassurance that positive legal action would result."

He admitted that not all motorists would take the trouble to report speeders, "but some of us with children, and others who just like the idea of safety and life - saving on the highways, would be glad to reduce the hazzard with a report to the authorities."

The growth of the state, Carew concluded, is outstripping law enforcement, "and the people are going to have to help police themselves."

Carew also believes a "presumptive" state law is needed to obligate the owner of a car involved in an accident to identify the person who was driving it if it was loaned. "This does not mean a car owner could be convicted of an accident he didn't cause just because his car was involved in it, but it does mean that there would be a far greater chance of identification of the person who was at the wheel." As it is, the owner of a car cannot be called as a witness unless he was actually present when the crash occurred.

These laws are among those Carew plans to instigate if he is elected.

PIKES PEAK HOMESTEAD CABIN—This is a picture of the hut Dr. Alfred G. Lewis of Manitou Springs built when he homesteaded the top of Pikes Peak back in the 1880's. The old photograph was found among her belongings by Miss Anna Kloepfer, 87-year-old pioneer, and taken to W. S. Crosby, pioneer historian. Crosby, thus has pictorial proof for his story of the Pikes Peak homestead. He always believed audiences were unconvinced his account of the long-ago oddity in region history was true.

Believe It or Not, Someone Once Homesteaded Atop Old Pikes Peak

By BYRON AKERS

Homesteading atop Pikes Peak!

The idea was so absurd that whenever W. S. Crosby, pioneer storyteller of the Pikes Peak Region, recounted the early-day episode he felt his audience was skeptical.

"Nobody ever came right out and said he doubted my veracity," Crosby said. "I suspect about everyone who heard my homestead story figured my imagination had jumped the track. Now I have proof to back it up."

Proof came last week when Miss Anna Kloepfer, 944 S. Cascade Ave., brought Crosby an old photograph of the homestead cabin set amid the boulders on the summit.

Like Crosby, Miss Kloepfer is a region pioneer. Eighty-four of her 87 years have been spent in Colorado Springs. For many years she lived on Costilla and latter moved to 944 S. Cascade Ave. Her recollections of pioneer days are as vivid as if the events happened only yesterday.

She doesn't recall exactly when the photograph came into her possession but she believes it might have been while working in the curio store of her brother - in - law, C. Casser, on Ruxton Avenue in Manitou Springs. She was 15 at the time.

The photograph substantiating Crosby's oft-told story carries this notation: "Homestead shanty on Pikes Peak, Alt. 14,147 Ft. Photo by Heistand."

Pikes Peak, now officially 14,110 feet above sea level, hasn't shrunk in the intervening years. At that time, before the time of accurate surveys, the altitude was listed as 14,147 feet.

The photographer, J. G. Heistand, was official photographer for the Cog Road in the early 1890's, soon after the famous railway began operation. He would take pictures of Cog Train passengers on the climb up the peak and get orders for them on the trip down. Heistand was proprietor of the Ute Iron Springs Photo Gallery in Manitou Springs.

The picture Crosby was so delighted to see shows a small log hut with walls buttressed by heavy rocks and the roof held down by stones. At the right of the photo appears a corner of the old Army Signal Corps weather station with the chimney rising out of the roof.

Crosby surmises Heistand took the picture soon after the Cog Road started passenger service in 1891. The hut was abandoned about 1889 when the Cog Road got a 99-year lease on the summit and the homesteader was ousted. No trace of the shanty remains today.

"The homesteader was Dr. Alfred G. Lewis, a friendly, popular Manitou Springs resident who later became the town mayor," Crosby recalled. "Dr. Lewis is never practiced medicine in Manitou but engaged in several ventures and was active in politics.

"He built a 20 room hotel on the present site of the Grapette Bottling Co. plant at 1308 Manitou Ave., and called it the Mineral Springs Hotel because the spring there was one of the finest. The hotel, later burned and Lewis never rebuilt it.

"The doctor filed for a homestead on top of the peak. There was only a trail to the summit at the time. Logs for the homestead cabin had to be hauled by mule or horses back up the trail from below timberline."

Construction of a house was part of the requirements in getting a homestead patented. Dr. Lewis further supported his claim by undertaking farming on the soilless upper reaches above timberline.

"Doc and his assistant Harry Dauchy, an early Manitou resident, hauled dirt up the peak on horseback and spread it in sheltered, sunny areas among the rocks.

"They planted such things as corn, wheat and potatoes. The corn and wheat grew a few inches high, but, of course, never matured. The potato plants leafed out but no tubers developed.

"At least, the homesteader was carrying out his obligation to farm the tract. The land office back in Washington probably didn't know whether Pikes Peak was a mountain or a hole in the ground, and presumably assumed that whatever Pikes Peak was it was suitable for agricultural purposes."

Was the Manitou Springs doctor a bit crazy in homesteading Pikes Peak? Not at all, in Crosby's opinion. Behind his genial front, Lewis was shrewd.

"I think he recognized the tourist possibilities of the peak," Crosby explained. "There was a trail from Manitou to the summit with the toll gate where the Cog Road shops are now.

"Every summer day, a hundred or so would pay $2.50 to ride horseback to the top. The ladies rode sidesaddle. It was a rugged trip. A lot of other folks walked up.

"Doc realized the peak travelers would want something to eat when they got to the top. So he arranged for use of a part of the old Signal Corps Weather station after it was abandoned and served coffee and doughnuts there. With homestead rights to the summit, he was in a position to make a good thing out of the tourist business. I don't call that crazy. It sure beat farming on the peak."

Lewis operated his homestead lunch counter five or six years, according to Crosby. When Zalmon Simmons, mattress maker whose product is still preeminent, decided to build the Cog Road he found himself thwarted for a summit terminal by Lewis' homestead.

"Doc demanded $25,000 for his rights to the summit. Simmons countered with a $5,000 offer which Lewis rejected. Simmons then sent his attorney, the late Judge Horace Lunt of Colorado Springs, to Washington to investigate the homestead. The result was Lewis lost his claim to the top of Pikes Peak, and the Cog Road negotiated a 99-year lease with the government for the terminal facilities."

Such was the Pikes Peak homestead story that Crosby related in talks before various groups over the years. The next time he has occasion to mention it, he will have supporting evidence in the picture another pioneer found among her possessions.

District 11 Dropout Rate Lower Than U.S. Figures

Only 3.6 per cent of the male pupils and 3.4 per cent of the female pupils in District 11 secondary schools became dropouts in 1963-64, Dr. Arthur R. Olson, deputy superintendent, and Dr. Barclay H. Watson, director of special services, reported to the Board of Education.

The local dropout survey was made as part of a long range study conducted by the Colorado State Department of Education. The study group includes District 11 and 37 other districts in the state.

Preliminary findings by the State Department show that for all 38 schools the per cent of female dropouts was 3.4 per cent, the same as the local percentage, and the per cent of male dropouts was 4.7 per cent, slightly higher than the local figure, Dr. Watson said.

Over the six-year period, the director said, District 11 can expect to lose 20.4 per cent of its male pupils and 19 per cent of its female pupils. He pointed out that this is considerably less than the commonly accepted estimate of 33 per cent for the nation.

Dr. Watson defined a dropout as any student who leaves school before graduation for reasons other than death or transfer to another school.

The most likely time for boys or girls to drop out of school is in the eleventh grade; the second most likely time is in tenth grade. By the time a pupil reaches grade 12, the chances are 95 in a 100 that he will graduate. The dropout rate for all pupils in the senior year is about half that of the junior year.

In speaking of the dropout problem nationally, Dr. Olson emphasized each dropout is different from every other dropout, and the reasons for leaving school may be different in every case.

Although educators are not in complete agreement regarding the principal causes of school dropouts, Dr. Olson cited low reading ability, a record of school failures, and dislike of school, and, in some cases, teachers as probable causes.

School dropouts are not necessarily doomed to a life of unemployment according to the deputy superintendent. He said some do find jobs and lead full and satisfying lives. He added, however, that the great need today is for trained workers and the average dropout is a poor candidate for most available jobs.

Dr. Olson told the board the problem will, in part, be solved by the individual efforts of teachers giving personal attention to individual students and through an expanded educational program.

Thunderbirds At AFA Game On Oct. 21

The Thunderbirds, official Air Force aerial demonstration team, will perform Saturday, Oct 31, over the Air Force Academy's Falcon Stadium.

Hundreds of children attending the Academy's first Young American Day will see the thrilling, high speed performance.

Scheduled to attend the Falcon - University of Arizona game are Academy Young American football teams, newspaper carriers, and a large number of Boy Scouts.

Under the direction of their commander, Maj. Edwin D. Palmgren, the Thunderbirds demonstrate the teamwork, coordination, discipline, and precision flying ability required for effective combat capable airpower.

The team averages nearly 100 missions or performances a year, traveling up to 175,000 air miles to fulfill their schedule.

Each man on the team is a volunteer — from the commander to the lowest ranking airman—and all are dedicated, professional airmen.

During the Academy performance, which will start at 12:20 p.m., the Thunderbirds will demonstrate their skills with a sequence of loops, rolls, whifferdills, corkscrews, changeovers and cloverleaf turns — climaxed by their world famed "bomb burst."

He Mixes Basketball And B-52s

Basketball and B-52s seemingly may not have much in common but the two diverse items are closely allied for Capt. Basil Ciriello of the Air Force Academy.

Capt. Ciriello is now assistant coach of the Academy varsity basketball team but prior to joining the athletic staff last year he was a B-52 navigator.

For his service with 768th Bomb Sq. (SAC), Captain Ciriello has been awarded the Air Force Commendation Medal.

Between Dec. 23, 1957 and June 30, 1963, the captain showed outstanding professional skill, knowledge, and leadership. . . aiding immeasurably in the 768th's mission.

Captain Ciriello graduated from George Washington University where he lettered four years in basketball.

Since joining the Air Force he has logged 2,300 hours flying time.

In his first year at the Academy, the coach led the freshman team to a 9-3 record — equaling the all - time best win - loss percentage.

Market Cofes Through With Slight Loss

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week was beset by an unusual assortment of unsettling news events but managed to come through with only a slight loss.

Prices were on a strong uptrend as the week ended.

Wall Street had to digest the following:

—The replacement of Nikita Khrushchev as the leader of Soviet Russia.

—The Labor Party victory in Britain.

— The scandal involving White House aide Walter Jenkins.

— The explosion of an atom bomb by Red China.

After routine movements for the first three trading days, the market broke sharply on Thursday under nervous uncertainity over the first three pieces of news.

When prices were at their worst, stocks were undergoing their worst selloff since the assassination of President Kennedy last Nov. 22.

Late Thursday afternoon, however, various brokerage houses advised clients to buy stock at the cheaper levels and the market began a turnabout which continued on Friday.

The list was rallying on Friday when the news of the Red Chinese bomb came over the wires. The stock list faltered, but only momentarily. Prices strengthened again and recouped a good deal of the losses taken in the previous session.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week declined 4.54 to 873.54.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week declined .8 to 328.4.

The loss on average was quite little, and the week's trading ended on a strong note of optimism.

The strike at General Motors was entering its fourth week as trading ended and the stock took a loss of 1⅝ at 100¼ during the five trading days. Progress was reported on settlement of the many local issues which have prevented a return to work, and GM stock was recovering on the final session.

Volume was 25,896,020 shares compared with 25,183,790 the week before.

The week's trading was dampened by the semi-holiday conditions prevailing on Monday when many banks, insurance and commodity exchanges were closed.

Nixon Will Talk Behind Closed Doors

DENVER (AP) — A Denver speech by former Vice President Richard Nixon, originally scheduled for a major GOP fund-raising affair, will be held behind closed doors, party officials reported Friday.

Nixon will talk next Thursday afternoon to Republican party workers at a South High School cafeteria banquet. GOP officials and workers will be the only ones to hear the speech.

Robert E. Lee, Denver Republican chairman, said GOP officials were unable to work out the details in time so that Nixon could address a major GOP affair.

Lee said, however, that the GOP workers "all need a shot in the arm to keep us going through the last days of the campaign. I think Nixon will give us the drive needed to carry us over."

Nixon will fly in from Tulsa, Okla., and will leave immediately after the meeting for a speech at Casper, Wyo.

NEW GEM BUILDING — The Gem Towel and Linen Supply Company's new building at 3410 N. Prospect St, features 15,640 square feet of office and equipment space and a 45-car parking area. Officials of the company have expressed faith in the growth of Colorado Springs and feel they should grow with it in both size and service efficiency. (Gazette Telegraph Photo.)

New Gem Towel Building To Provide Finest Service

The Gem Towel Linen Supply Industrial Service is now operating out of its new building at 3410 N. Prospect St.

Owners of the business, David W. (Bill Stark, Earl C. Stark Jr., and J. J. (Jack Mickle, vice president and general manager, said that construction of the new building was necessitated by the increase of business due to the city's growth. "It was necessary for us to expand into larger facilities in order to continue to provide the best in service for our customers," the officials said.

Construction on the 15,640-square foot building was begun in May of this year by Earl Fraizer Construction Co., and will be virtually complete today, the owners announced.

The building features three offices, an asphalted parking area that will accommodate 45 cars and a new hot water heater that will heat 2,700 gallons of water per hour to a temperature of 187 degrees.

The steel and concrete building will be enhanced by evergreen shrubbery and possibly natural wood and rock designs at a later date.

Future equipment plans for the company include the installation of automatic folding machines.

The firm, which supplies table clothes, napkins and other items for commercial uses, including service stations, garages, hotels, restaurants and factories, was first formed in 1904 by Earl G. Stark Sr., in 1904.

It became a corporation in 1957. The company started its operation on North Tejon Street and later moved to 332 W. Bijou where it remained for more than 50 years.

The company, which services only its own equipment, (towels, linens, etc.) is to be distinguished from the home laundry service of a domestic nature. The Gem company leases its equipment to commercial firms only and provides laundry service for only its own items.

In addition to the towel and linen supply, the company also handles Scott paper lines and Lilly paper cups and plates. It now has five linen routes in an area including the city and a 50-mile radius.

The company now employs and has an annual payroll of $75,000.

Other features of the new building will include a ventelation system that changes the air every six minutes and a brick wainscoating on the exterior front of the construction.

President of the corporation Bill Stark, is a native of Colorado Springs. He attended local schools and is a veteran of U.S. Air Force service in World War II in the Pacific War Theater. After his military discharge in 1946 he joined his father as a partner in the business.

He is a member of the Junior and Senior Chamber of Commerce, Elks Club, American Legion, Colorado Springs Executive Association and the First Christian Church.

He lives with his wife Evelyn and two children at 32 Friendship Lane.

Secretary and Treasurer, Earl Stark Jr., also a native of Colorado Springs, is a graduate of Cheyenne Mountain High School. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church, the Elks and Lion Clubs, the Colorado Springs Country Club and the Colorado Springs Executive Association. He is married and lives with his wife Imogene and two children at 1632 N. Cascade Ave.

Vice President Mickle, a native of Colorado attended the Woodman Valley School and is a graduate of the then Colorado Springs High School.

He first entered the laundry business at the Woodman Valley Sanatorium and started with the Gem Company in 1941.

Mickle is a veteran of World War II and served in both the ETO and PTO war theaters. He is married and lives with his wife Ruth Ann at 3209 Jon St.

Florence Plans No Increase In Mill Levy

Topping the agenda of the Florence city council Monday night will be the adoption of the 1965 budget by resolution, it was reported this week by City Manager Frank Carochi.

The bulk of the proposed agenda is routine in nature but more discussion is expected on the water improvements at Pioneer Park, the street sealing program, and the purchase of a new fire truck.

The meeting Monday night has been advertised by the council as a budget hearing. Public protests, if any, will be formally registered at that time.

Since the city council at its last meeting agreed to set aside capital improvement funds for the construction of a municipal swimming pool once a fire truck has been purchased, it was indicated that little opposition is expected from the public. The council plans no increase in the city's traditional 19.8 mill levy.

Although the city has not increased its mill levy for over a decade, city councils have hiked water, sewer, garbage, and license fees during this period. The cigarette tax, now earmarked for capital improvements, was added to the city's revenue source in July.

C of C Queried On Area Health Facilities

At least 10 per cent of the 38,000 letters received each year by the Chamber of Commerce ask questions related to health, Norman Coleman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, told members of the El Paso County Medical Society this week.

The healthful climate of the Pikes Peak Region and its facilities for medical care are important to this group of potential residents or visitors, according to Coleman. He was soliciting new members for the Chamber from the 200-member Medical Society, one third of which are already members of the Chamber.

"We are bery proud of the medical profession in Colorado Springs. It's intrest in the community was demonstrated during the K-O Polio mass immunization program completed last winter," Coleman said.

He commented on the expansion program of the University of Colorado which was announced at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce last week. He emphasized the possibility of important developments in the field of medicine and quoted Dr. Joseph Smiley, University president, who said, "In addition to classroom instruction, Cragmor will be used for adult education conferences and institutes, including medical conferences. Other possible uses which are being studied include nursing education and research by the School of Medicine."

At the conclusision of Coleman's talk, Dr. Wayne Stevens, member of the round up committee of the Chamber of Commerce, distributed membership applications.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

New Dentures Are Painful? May Be Allergic Reaction

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE DDS
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR DOCTOR: I am a woman in my 70's and have been wearing dentures for many years. About two weeks ago I had a new upper denture made. At first the roof of my mouth smarted as though it was scalded. It's getting worse. Now my entire mouth is inflamed and my tongue and lips swell on occasion. Is this cancer? —Mrs. M. C., Miami, Florida.

ANSWER: What you describe so well seems to indicate an allergic reaction to the plastic material your new denture is made of. But secondary infections often complicate allergic reactions. Systemic or general conditions such as diabetes, insufficient vitamin intake, blood diseases and menopausal changes may also affect local mouth lesions. Therefore, a differential diagnosis must be made by a dentist only after careful examination.

This type of allergy is called contact allergy. It's not uncommon. Some gum tissue cannot tolerate a particular type of plastic resin. Redness, burning, swelling, itching and ulcers may result. The area involved is usually limited to the outline of the denture.

Removing the denture will give some immediate relief. Mild mouth washes such as baking soda in warm water offer some comfort. Antihistamines are helpful but should be used only on recommendation of your dentists or physician. Remaking the denture, using a different material, usually effects a cure.

There is a report of a recent case with symptoms quite similar to those of allergic reaction. Although never definitely established, the possibility was considered that the denture was too tight. It fit too well. Too much pressure may have been exerted on the roof of the mouth in areas where the soft tissues receive their blood supply. The case was further complicated because the patient was diabetic. The tissues of diabetics are often easily inflamed and slower to heal. This patient was helped by relieving the pressure areas on the denture.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Federal Tax Tips

By ROGER E. WARD
Administrative Representative
Internal Revenue Service

ATTENTION EXEMPT ORGANIZATIONS: All tax exempt organizations in Colorado that have received questionnaires from Internal Revenue, requesting data as to their current status, are urged to complete and submit these questionnaires without delay. The service needs this data for up-dating its records prior to conversion to automatic data processing. All organizations not responding to the questionnaire will be presumed either to be inactive or no longer interested in maintaining their exempt status. They will, therefore, not be included in the official roster and listings of exempt organizations soon to be issued. In addition they may be required to file Federal income tax returns. The mailing of questionnaires to exempt organizations that file Form 990 or 990A information returns has been completed. Mailing of questionnaires to exempt organizations that do not file 990 or 990A returns will commence shortly. The exempt organizations — charitable, civic, educational, labor, and so on — are asked to provide current information as to name, address, employer identification number, purpose, and nature of activities. Artef verification from the questionnaires, Internal Revenue's records will be established on magnetic tapes preparatory to electronic computer processing of information, such as has been developed for business and individual taxpayers.

WITHHOLDING TAX: The second stage of the 1964 tax cut which will become effective January 1, 1965, should end the underwithholding problem for many taxpayers. Personal income tax rates will range from 14 to 70 per cent for 1965 compared to the 16 to 77 per cent range of 1964. The 14 per cent withholding rate on wage and salary payments adopted in 1964 will remain the same in 1965. Some taxpayers will be underwithheld on 1964 tax payments because the lower withholding rate went into effect earlier than the final tax rate reduction. Withholding on wages and salaries is designed to put the majority of texpayers on a "pay-as-you-go" tax basis. For middle and upper income taxpayers, increased withholding, or quarterly payments of estimated tax, are generally necessary to keep

Chenoweth Again Takes Issue With Supreme Court

By SUE LOEWINSOHN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Introduced to the members of the Downtown Rotary at a luncheon at the Acacia Hotel Friday as a Congressman who is "up in the air most of the time," J. E. Chenoweth focused his remarks on those matters which seem to concern him most vitally, the problems of re-apportionment, the situation in Viet Nam, the school prayer issue and the rift between Congress and the Supreme Court.

Chenoweth began his remarks by explaining that being "up in the air most of the time" was a literal, not a figurative description, due to the phenomenal amount of airplane travel he is required to do commuting between Washington and Colorado.

As a member of Rotary, Chenoweth said, he tries to live up to the Rotarian motto, "Service Above Self" in Washington as well as in his private and local life.

"You can all feel better now that Congress has adjourned," he said, "nothing will happen to you."

He repeated remarks he has made in recent weeks that the Supreme Court, a body of judicial officials appointed for life terms and not elected by popular vote, seems to want to usurp the function of the legislative branch of the government.

"The decisions of the Supreme Court are not sacrosanct," Chenoweth said. "They can be subjected to criticism."

He mentioned that some of the literature coming to his office opposing obligatory school prayer would seem to indicate, he said, "that there is a conspiracy behind the prayer issue." He stated that he felt more exposure to prayer might help certain delinquents who would never hear the word "God," except profanely, if they were not exposed to it in the schoolroom.

Obligatory prayer might alleviate what J .Edgar Hoover calls "the complete lack of respect for law and order by the youth of this country," Chenoweth said.

Chenoweth said that he didn't know what effects the recent world upheavals — i.e. the Chinese Bomb and Kruschev's replacement — would have on American politics and the election, but he said it didn't really matter because "peaceful co-existence" is a hoax because Communists want to take over the world.

It is important for us to remain strong, he said, because "there is only one language the Communists understand and that is force, extreme force."

Chenoweth made a few optimistic remarks on the future of Colorado Springs as a space research and engineering center, although, he said, he didn't know what men would do on the moon once they got there.

Chenoweth remarked that we are making "a pretty substantial effort in Viet Nam" but, he said, "one of these days we will decide whether we will have a decisive victory or not" and that "we are not going to be pushed around any longer."

Chenoweth then said that he really regretted that fear had been injected into the national presidential campaign and that the threat of nuclear war is just "nasty campaign stuff" and amounts to "washing dirty linen in public."

Chenoweth closed with a few remarks deploring the raising of the national debt limit.

"In 1940 we were running the entire government on what is now just the interest on our present national debt limit — about $11 billion."

The fullness of the skirt started from a deep yoke and ended in the chapel train. The sleeves were envelope style and wrist length. Her veil of imported silk illusion was floor length, and with a bouffant fingertip veil gathered to a crown of aurora borealis and seed pearls with rhinestone band. The bouquet was a white English orchid in a cascade of stephanotis and English ivy.

Miss Rita Ryan of Denver was maid of honor and wore an aqua silk organza A-Line gown of street length, fashioned with a rose at the bodice. The headpiece was aqua maline caught to a white silk rose, and styled as a Dior veil. The Misses Beverly and Jessa Lee Rasmussen of Ogden, Utah attended as bridesmaids and were attired as was the maid of honor. Their colonial bouquets were of white carnations and lilies of the valley.

Miss Cindy Foltz, cousin of the bridegroom was flower girl. She was dressed in a white with multi-tiered skirt, bow head dress, and carried a basket of white rose petals. Jeffrey Porter, was the ring-bearer.

Advice Helps Car Pools to Run Smoothly

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (UPI)— Where no school bus service is available a car pool in which mothers rotate driving youngsters to school is a solution that saves time and money for all concerned.

However, there are problems to consider if you join such a pool, cautions Norval P. Goelzer, senior vice president of State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co.

"First, if you're driving other people's children in your car regularly, you should consider raising your liability coverage," says Goelzer.

He said that the $20,000 or so most people carry to cover personal injury claims can disappear quickly in case of a serious accident involving a number of people, especially children.

Medical payments coverage, a good investment anytime, becomes even more so if you are driving in such a pool, he added.

This kind of insurance pays for the medical expenses resulting from an accident, regardless of who is at fault, thus assuring that you can meet your moral obligation to the children you carry.

Another coverage especially important for pool drivers is uninsured motorist insurance. Available at low rates, this protects you and your passengers in situations where a motorist with no insurance — or a hit - run driver — is responsible for an accident.

In this situation, your own insurance pays the amount (up to the limits of the coverage) for which the person at fault is liable. In most cases, this coverage does not apply to damage or destruction of property.

"These problems out to be thoroughly discussed when you are setting up your car pool arrangement — it's not a bad idea to have a qualified insurance agent sit in, if possible, Goelzer said.

A few other tips for getting those youngsters to school,

— Make sure the children know that whoever is driving is the boss; forbid rough-housing that can distract the driver.

— Have seat belts in every car in the pool and make the children use them. This also will help cut down on horseplay.

— Keep your temper and pull over to the curb to deal with any commotion.

cream on a stick concoctions

—Forbid any candy or ice cream on a stick concoctions that might hurt children's mouths or eyes in case of sudden stop or swerve.

—Mix older children with the little ones, and make the older ones responsible for keeping order.

A new baby soap contains hexachlorophene, an anti-bacteria agent that helps fight staph and other harmful skin germs. The manufacturer reports the soap gives baby's body an invisible protective film that fights germs between baths. Routine use of the soap means that baby will be better protected against the discromforts of diaper rash, impetigo and other common skin infections.

Button Pushing Earns Living

NEW YORK (UPI) — Button, button, who's got the button isn't so much a riddle to Emanuel Ress, of New York.

He makes campaign buttons and he knows that most of the donkey buttons are being worn by Democrats and most of the elephant buttons are being worn by Republicans.

But in this current campaign, with all the switching from party to party, the fact isn't so plain to the casual observer.

"Frankly, I don't care who wins," said Ress, of Emress Speciality Co., a firm that makes its living sticking buttons on people who order them.

"The more a party buy, the more partisan I become," he added.

His firm turned out 50 to 60 million buttons during a presidential campaign year. This year, they've added beagle buttons.

How's a button made? In case you ever wondered, here's how, said Ress.

The first step involves printing the message or picture over and over on large sheets of coated paper stock.

The stock, still in sheet form, is then laminated onto a transparent acetate sheeting such as kodacel. The laminating process gives the buttons a smooth, almost enameled - looking appearance.

After the laminating, individual buttons are chopped out of the sheet and the little discs are put into a machine that attaches each one to a circular metal backing. Finally, the pins are inserted by hand, and the buttons are ready for shipment to party stalwarts nationwide.

When the election's over, Emress goes on with business as usual. Ress has been promoting fun pins for years, including one that reads "relax" — in a script that looks like it was fashioned from bolts of electricity.

Cook's Tour

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) —It's easy to see why cargo vessels got a reputation for good food.

All you have to do is examine a typical two week menu for a cargo line, then talk with its superintending steward, who does the shopping and meal planning for 18 ships.

John L. Stewart of the United Fruit Co. said that homemade bread, rolls, pies and pastries are served throughout each trip. So is fresh milk, even though the longest voyage may run 18 days. Fifty per cent of the milk supplies are frozen aboard, then thawed as needed.

Top quality steaks and roast beef are served regularly, along with such international specialties as arroz con pollo (Spanish-style chieken with rice), Swedish meatballs, duckling in ium vakgballs, duckling in orange sauce, Cantonese pepper steak and red snapper creole. Snapper and tropical fruit such as pineapple, papayas and mangoes are picked up in tropical ports of call, said Stewart.

He added that the international flavor is not a response to passenger requests. The vessels, which carry only 12 passengers each are basically in the banana business, Stewart added. The highly perishable fruit, which Stewart calls "green gold," is boxed in the tropics, then picked up and delivered to southern, eastern and West Coast markets in prime condition for retail sale.

It's the officers and crew for whom menus are tailored, he explained. Highly-seasoned dishes such as chili con carne and spicy sauces for fish are served aboard ships with crews largely of Spanish background.

"Norwegian crewmen like salted fish. We've a lot of Scot engineers who want finnan haddie and kippered herring for breakfast. Southern crews eat a tremendous amount of hominy. Two ships may leave on almost the same trip but with totally different stores."

Fresh bananas always are available," said Stewart, "but the passengers seem to want them more often than the crew does."

The menus also contain Stewart's suggestions for substitutions when ships are in the tropics where they can pick up local items. The ships' schedules are even more flexible, he added.

"You never know exactly when one is going to sail or return." Any one may be diverted without advance notice to get a cargo at a crucial moment. This has led to many passengers getting 10 to 12 extra days free because of unforeseen delays during a voyage, since the line contracts to return passengers to their port of origin.

Stores aboard are equal to such emergencies, but Stewart recalled one wartime incident when a shortage of one item occurred. The incident happened aboard a passenger ship chartered to the Navy as a troop carrier. Stewart, then chief steward, said:

"About five or six days out of San Francisco, we discovered that all the dry cereal was gone — all the corn flakes, bran flakes and so on. Then we found out that a junior engineer had built himself a beautiful still in the engine room and was using the cereal to make whiskey."

Launder corduroy garments wrong side out to prevent lint pick-up. Add fabric softener in the final rinse water.

The longer fresh vegetables are exposed to heat and air the more vitamin C they lose. Serve vegetables assson as possible after cooking.

Adult flies are sometimes still present two weeks or longer after a dog or cat has been in a building. The insects readily feed on humans in the absence of pets or rodents.

It takes 10 pounds of milk to make a pound of chesse, 21 pounds to make a pound of butter and 15 pounds for a gallon of ice cream.

It's better to boil potatoes in their skins to start such dishes as hash-brown potatoes or potato salad. The jackets help retain the nutrients.

When a chocolate stain is in a washable fabric, sponge or soak and spot in cool water, then wash with a synthetic detergent. If a brown stain remains after washing and rinsing, use a mild bleach. But first test the bleach on the hem or other inconspicuous place for colorfastness.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Let Him Enjoy It, Lady!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a college instructor. He's wonderful in almost every respect, but he's nuts on sports. He's 27 and I'm 26. He was raised on a farm and his dad never let him go out for sports in school because farm chores came first. He's on two softball teams, and when he isn't playing he's practicing. When saftball season is over, it's football. Arter that basketball. (He plays golf in between, and he's good at everything.) He likes hockey, too. Don't tell me to find myself something to do. We have two boys. One is two years old and the other is three months. I try to be a good kid and go to watch my husband whenever he plays. I sat in the bleachers at a hockey game when I was a week overdue with my second, and chased my 18-month-old all over the gym.

Someone called my husband to be on a bowling team and I overheard him say, "My wife is unreasonable when it comes to sports!" I ask you . . . WHO is unreasonable — SPORTS WIDOW

DEAR SPORTS: Your husband! Be patient. Time will sideline him soon enough, and then he'll learn you're the best sport he has.

DEAR ABBY: I was glad to see your apology for lambasting the clergyman for asking the bride if she were pregnant when she and her fiance came to him to discuss their marriage plans. This is a standard question now, and I am sure the clergyman meant no personal offense. If a priest learns that the only reason a couple is getting married is to give a child a name, he will recommend a civil ceremony rather than a religious one. —INFORMED

DEAR ABBY: You disappointed me when you "begged forgiveness" for criticizing the clergyman for asking the bride if she were pregnant.

If a clergyman had asked ME such a question in the presence of my fiance, my fiance would have asked him to take his collar off and step outside. When an innocent person is accused of shoplifting, and is subjected to the humiliation of a search, he has a case against the store, you know. I am not a thief, and no one has the right to ask me to prove that I didn't steal something. The principle is the same. —ST. LOUIS WOMAN

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have been kissed quite a lot. My problem is when a fellow kisses me for the first time, should I pretend I don't know how to kiss very well, or should I let him know that I do?

I don't want him to think I have had too much experience along this line, and then again, I don't want him to think I haven't had any. Can you help me? —SIXTEEN

DEAR SIXTEEN: Just do what comes naturally. But don't overwhelm him in the first act or you'll have nothing to do for an encore.

DEAR ABBY: A psychiatrist once told me that a man who beats his wife was probably beaten by his mother (or a female figure of authority) when he was a child. If more mothers knew this they wouldn't be so quick to hit their sons. —EX WIFE-BEATER

Uncle Sam Advises Sitter Who Likes to Sleep

WASHINGTON (UPI) —There you are, Jane Doe, all-American baby-sitter.

You've subdued the goblins the youngsters declared they heard outside the bedroom. You have gotten the little rascals off to slumberland with sleep time stories that were so convincing.

So much so, in fact, that there you sit in the quiet of the living room, fighting off the sandman. If the parents return, they'll find you sleeping on the job.

What to do? It's simply. Just turn to page 41 of a new opus from experts in Uncle Sam's Children's Bureau.

On Page 41, there begins instruction seldom mentioned in a baby-sitter's guide — "how to stay awake."

"Although a few parents will not object to a sitter sleeping on the job — especially late at night — it's not such a good idea," the Children's Bureau cautions in the guide.

"Imagine how you would feel if anything went wrong while you were asleep."

Here's the government-approved strategy designed to keep a baby-sitter alert.

Do something. Studying is good. It means you have to concentrate to keep your at- (So this just isn't a plug to help you develop your mind.)

But if that doesn't work and you find yourself slumbering, try some other activities.

Samples: splash cold water on your face, wrists, or neck; eat or nibble at something that takes heavy chewing. Fingernails don't qualify. Better: peanut brittle.

What else is good: taking a slow walk through the house.

If all these activites don't keep you awake, try to whistle, sing or recite poems to yourself. If you don't know any poems, try making up some.

Talk by Taste Is Aid for Handicapped

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Talk by "tasting" may help handicapped children speak normally.

Eugene T. McDonald, research professor of the speech and hearing clinic of the Pennsylvania State University, is advancing oral stereognosis, the identification of shapes in the mouth. These tests are being given to cerebral palsy victims and "normal" children.

Penn State scientists are exploring the theory that articulation is controlled by patterns of sensations arising from sound, touch and feeling of movement.

McDonald's book, to be published this fall (Stanwix House, Inc.), explains that "defenctive sensation and perception in the oral cavity (mouth) is very likely an important cause of poor speech."

He wrote that crippling conditions such as cerebral palsy can impair the ability of sensation.

For the tongue-testing, McDonald uses three-dimensional plastic stars, triangles, half-moons and circles smaller than a dime. The designs also include other familiary shapes such as a ball, a square, a cross and a horseshoe.

Copies of the 25 objects are placed on a black cloth before the child. McDonald or one of his graduate students selects one of the originals at random.

A sterilized form, attached on a short piece of wire to prevent swallowing, is placed in the child's mouth without allowing the child to see it. The child is then asked to identify the form from the way it feels on his tongue.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Gals:

I want to mention something that perhaps might surprise you, and is probably something you hadn't thought about:

"Before" you wash a window that has not been washed in months, look at it (you only have to look through one side!) and "see" if it has an accumulation of dust on it "before" you put any kind of cleaning liquid on it.

If it does . . .

"First" pick up an old cloth, whisk broom, brush . . . or a piece of crumpled, "dry" newspaper . . . and wipe the window, thus eliminating a mud cumulated soil!

Here's what you are going to find:

Dust is dust . . . you can wipe most of it off and it will fall to the bottom of the window, thus eliminating a mud pile, such as you would have if you put liquid on it first. The liquid would mix with the dust and you would have a "bigger" mess to clean up!

If you wet a rag and then put any application on a dust-filled window (whether inside or outside) it's awful. Let's face it.

Wipe the "dust" off "first", then proceed with whatever washing method you are using. Saves time, water and "energy"! —Heloise

Letter Of Laughter

Why don't they make a fizz can with nothing but air in it so we can blow all the dust away instead of polishing with rags, etc.? —Wondering

Dear Heloise:

When hanging clothes out on a cold day, wear a pair of rubber gloves over your winter cotton gloves. You will have no more cold hands.

If one just wore regular cotton gloves, the gloves would become damp and therefore one's hands would tend to become colder. However, by putting the cotton gloves on underneath the rubber gloves they are protected from dampness. —S.M.

Dear Heloise:

I have found two good methods for removing starch which sometimes accumulates on the bottom of my iron.

I either dip a damp sponge in baking soda and polish the bottom of my "cold" iron, or I dip a dry washcloth in pure vinegar and wipe a barely warm iron. Then I use a clean, damp cloth to wipe the iron. —KAY

Dear Heloise:

I use waxed paper sandwich bags for storing small amounts of leftover foods in the refrigerator.

One bag will hold three or four pieces of fried chicken or a plain boiled potato . . . or any reasonably dry vegetable.

I dislike washing dishes and fail to see why I should transfer leftovers from a vegetable dish to a refrigerator dish, which will have to be washed eventually, too.

Also the bags take up less room in the refrigerator. —Mrs. Peter Schenk

Dear Heloise:

Maybe most of your female readers don't have the same trouble I have with my penmanship and aching fingers.

My writing is not good to start with and after writing some, my fingers hurt and seem to cramp where I hold a pen or pencil. This makes my handwriting worse than ever.

My hands are rather large and the pens and pencils seem small to me.

One day in my office, I wrapped a wide rubber band around a pencil near the end where I hold it. The band kept my fingers from hurting, and, I believe, helped my handwriting. Also, the pencil was much easier to hold.

I have to move the rubber band every time I sharpen the pencil but it is worth it to me. —Mathew M.

Dear Mat:

This would also be good for small children learning to use a pencil and for people who may have a partially crippled hand. Thanks. —Heloise

CHEROKEE, Kan. A few weeks after the fairs closed, the "hen" was not laying any eggs. With good reason. "She" is a rooster.

Spath-King Vows Read In Calvary EUB Church

Altar vases of gold and bronze pom pons, candelabra with lighted tapers, baskets of bronze and gold mums formed the background for the marriage Sunday, Sept. 20, of Miss Marilyn Sue King and Robert William Spath II, in Cavalry Evangelical United Brethren Church. The Rev. Edward J. Ness performed the 3 p.m. ceremony.

Miss Naoma Reed, organist, accompanied Dwight Wenger as he sang "Wedding Prayer," "Walk Hand in Hand," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. King of Colorado Springs. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Spath, of Fayetteville, W. Va.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Norris W. King. She wore a floor length gown of imported silk peau de soie with a Sabrina neckline, fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves. Appliques of Alencon lace detailed the front of the gown. The skirt, fashioned with pressed pleats at the sides and back, swept into a chapel train. A cascade of silk illusion fell from a queen's crown of seed pearls and she wore a single strand pearl necklace. Her bouquet was a white orchid with streamers of stephanoits, white feathered carnations and ivy on a white Bible, a gift from the bridegroom.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Joan Eberhard as matron of honor; Miss Carol Wenger and Miss Charlene Miller as bridesmaids. They wore gowns of autumn - gold silk taffeta styled with Sabrina necklines, cap sleeves and full skirts. Each wore a matching Dior bow and veil, and shoes of peau de soie. Their crescent bouquets were of gold and bronze pom pons.

Monica Sue Eberhard was flower girl. She wore a gown similar to the bride's attendants and carried a gold princess basket of bronze and gold pom pons with gold streamers. Justin Lee Ingram was ringbearer. He wore a white dinner jacket, black trousers and bow tie.

Stanley Ostwinch was best best man. Ushers were Matthew Dillinger, Ervin Peterson, Ian McMeeking and Robert Sonnenberg.

A reception was held in the church. The bride's sister - in-law received the guests wearing a dress of candlelight lace and satin with matching hat, bronze shoes and gloves. The bridegroom's mother wore a teal - blue brocade dress with black accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

Miss Shirley Shaffer was in charge of the guest book; Miss Margaret Sorensen was at the gift table, Mrs. Stamon Smith, Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. William Wittich, Miss Diane Dodson, Mrs. M. A. Wofford, Mrs. Dwight Wenger, Mrs. John Profitt, Mrs. Mildred Saunders, served.

Following a wedding trip to the Northeastern States and Canada, the couple will make their home at 1221 N. Corona St. The bride's traveling ensemble was a three piece brown Italian knit suit with a tweed jacket, beige accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Guests from out of town include the bridegroom's parents from Fayetteville, W. Va., Mr. and Mrs. Stamon Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith, Miss Pamela Swigart, all of El Dorado, Kan.; Mrs. Jack Foster of Wichita, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Murel Shellhammer and Linda, Merl Smith and William Shellhammer of Kimball, Neb.; Mrs. Bonnie Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walker of Ft. Collins; Mr. and Mrs. William Wittich of Westminister.

Test 'Killer Light' In War on Insects

COLLEGE STATION, TEXAS (UPI) — The lure that a flame has for a moth is well known. And many a suburbanite trying to relax at night in his backyard — or camper before a night fire — has wished the local insects didn't insist on swarming in clouds around any light.

But scientists at Texas A&M University are trying to put this built-in insect weakness to work — and develop a light that will lure insects to their deaths like an electric Lorelei.

University researchers and U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists are cooperating on the project. They have been testing all waves lengths of light, from "black light" — the invisible illumination used by photographers in the darkroom — to the equally invisible infrareds at the other end of the scale.

So far, they said, most night-flying insects tested seem to prefer the ultraviolet "black light." But the boll weevil, curse of the cotton fields, generally heads for blue-green light if given a choice.

Researchers are concerned primarily with destructive crop pests, but haven't forgotten the suburbanite and the camper.

Right now, insect traps built around the light bulb lures are rather inefficient.

But as their design is improved, said project leader Joe Hollingsworth, they should not only destroy fields full of crop nibblers, but prove perfect for "attracting insects away from outdoor recreation areas, buildings, and other places where bugs create a nuisance problem."

Odds Are Favorable For State Hunters

DENVER (AP)—The odds appeared to be with the hunted today as Colorado opened another deer and elk season.

Lack of snow has left the mountain country dry. This means it will be harder for hunters to keep from cracking twigs or snapping bushes as they move through the timber lands.

It also means having to go higher for game since there hasn't been enough snow or cold to drive deer to lower altitudes.

The U.S. Forest Service warned that fire danger is high and urged hunters to use great care with campfires and cigarettes.

Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Department officials predicted 150,000 hunters will go into the hills before the season ends Nov. 5. Hunting in eastern Colorado opens Oct. 24 and closes Nov. 1.

Gallagher Says U.N. Vital To Our National Interest

The United Nations, though far from perfect, is vital to our National interest and we should continue to work towards improving and strengthening it, according to John F. Gallagher.

Gallagher, speaking before a meeting of the Senior League of the Pikes Peak Region, said that criticism of the UN is based on misconceptions about the organization and not on a fair measure of its competence.

"The question," said Gallagher, "is whether or not the world today is a better place for the UN having existed." The answer, he said, is obvious, since the UN has contributed greatly to World peace and stability by providing technical assistance aimed at improving the lot of people living in the "so-called under - developed countries of the world."

Gallagher said the facts are that the United Nations has been more often than not successful in such places as Iran, Palestine, Suez, Lebanon, the Congo, and to an extent, Cyprus.

He said there are two main ways the UN attempts to keep the peace. First, by pacific settlement of disputes, or preventive diplomacy. Second, international policing for the purpose of containing violence and preventing a conflict from widening into Global War.

He said the original hopes for the judicial settlement of disputes through the international Court of Justice have not been successful because few countries have been willing to accept without reservation the compulsory jurisdiction of the Court.

He continued that the reason for this is that there are relatively few disputes which both parties are willing to have settled on the basis of existing law. "The dispute between the Soviets and the West over Berlin is an example of one nation challenging the status quo as it is upheld by existing law," Gallagher said.

The chief means of pacific settlement in the United Nations has been through non-judicial means, such as the achievement of a cease fire in Kashmir in 1948, Gallagher said.

In the policing phase of the United Nations' peace efforts, the most notable was the authorization of the defense of South Korea against communist aggression in 1950, he continued. The direction taken was not forseen by the framers of the charter of the UN, but the primary instrument has been action by the Security Council in calling upon members to supply forces on an ad hoc basis with much of the responsibility for directing those forces resting with the Secretary General, Gallagher said.

He continued that one of the common misconceptions about the United Nations is that it costs the United States too much money to belong to the organization. Gallagher said that for calendar year 1963, the total of all United Nations budgets was $536 million, and that of this total the share contributed by the United States was $200 million.

This amounts, he said, to one quarter of one cent of each United States tax dollar, or less than one dollar for every American citizen. He continued that our total United Nations contribution is less than the cost of one B-70 bomber. "Looked at in this light, surely it cannot be said to be too costly an investment," he said.

He continued that even if the United States does pay substantially more than any other country, "I believe our share of the budget is not excessive. he said the United States accounts for two - fifths of the world's national income, and that per capita income in the U.S. is twice that in the industrial nations, and twenty times that in the non - industrial nations.

Gallagher concluded that "even with its shortcomings, the United Nations is an extremely valuable institution for the United State and for the survival of civilization."

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

What I have recently written about historic runaway trains, in Ute Pass and on the Rock Island Railroad, resulting in terrific wrecks, has attracted much attention. Or so I would think from the response I have had. There is another story about a runaway Colorado Springs street car. It seems to me I have written about this some time. But maybe not. At any rate it fits in with these runaways on rails.

This runaway has to do with O. E. Rickerson, former clerk of the Colorado State Supreme Court in Denver. Before he became the custodian of dockets and acquired wide learning in legal Latin and the way of continuances of trials he was a street car motorman.

One day the brakes failed to hold and a car ran away down the South Nevada Avenue hill. There were no passengers aboard the car at the time, as I have heard the story, and the conductor must have jumped off. All I know is that down the hill went the car, Rickerson tugging vainly at the brake, and clanging the bell as a warning for pedestrians and others to et out of the way. But this car was not wrecked. A leveling off of the hill brought it to a stop harmlessly, although there were some narrow misses.

It was not so with the old runaways of teams of horses. In these cases there was almost always a crackup. People would stand on the sidewalk and watch the driver sawing the reins trying to stop the team. They knew, and he knew, that he was liable to be badly hurt at the end of the run. But as the speed was slower than that of runaway trains and street cars the suspense was longer drawn out and fear for the unfortunate driver more keenly felt.

Self - Medication May Produce Symptoms

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Are you sore at the boss — but don't dare show it? Maybe you've got statis medicamentosa.

Says Dr. C. W. Wahl, of the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute:

"Self-medication with aspirins, tranquilizers, laxatives, cough syrup, sleeping pills and what-have-you often produces a bizarre set of symptoms hard to diagnose because they are different for almost every individual."

They include headaches, rashes, muscle spasms, tingling fingertips, dizziness and faintness.

Among the important causes is frustration created by suppressing ill-feeling toward the boss, Wahl told the Industrial Health Conference yesterday.

He didn't say what to do about it — but you could quit.

88 WINS WERE LOW

LOS ANGELES (AP)—When the Los Angeles Dodgers won the 1959 National League pennant with an 88-68 record it was the lowest victory total ever registered in the NL during a 154-game schedule. The Dodgers gained two of their victories in the playoff with the Milwaukee Braves.

Teams in both the National and American Leagues now play a 162-game schedule.

NEW PLANT TO OPEN—Hewlett-Packard Company's new $2.5 million plant in Colorado Springs will be officially opened with a dedication ceremony and open house on Saturday. The 137,000 square-foot plant, located in Pikes Peak Industrial Park, will be open to the public during the afternoon, with guided tours being conducted from noon to 4 p.m. The new facility is devoted primarily to the production of oscilloscopes, one of the most important products in Hewlett-Packard's broad line of electronic test and measuring equipment.

Hewlett-Packard Visitors Will See Science World at Work

By DICK MOORE
Gazette Telegraph
Business Editor

Persons who attend the open house following the dedication ceremonies at the new Hewlett - Packard plant Saturday will step into a science world where modern factory methods combined with technical research make this company the leader of its field.

Located on the Garden of the Gods Road in the Pikes Peak Industrial Park, the $2.5 million, 137,000 - square foot building is devoted primarily to the production of oscilloscopes.

Here the visitor can walk through the well - lighted, spacious offices housing finance, marketing, purchasing, production control and personnel departments into the sections of the two - level building where the actual manufacture, research and assembly operations occur.

The oscilloscope is an electronic instrument which displays various electrical waveforms on the face of a cathode ray tube and is the most widely used test instrument in the nation's electronic industry today.

In the plant's research and development laboratory, 75 technicians, design engineers, are constantly at work developing new ideas or innovations in the instruments, from the idea stage through pilot run.

Long rows of tables in the lab section are filled with intricate equipment being readied for testing. This department is a vital link in the company's ability to maintain its leadership in the oscilloscope field.

In the model shop, craftsmen stand ready with the proper tools and equipment for formulating format designs submitted by design engineers in the inception of initial creations.

In one of the upper level bay sections, workers employ lazy susan assembly tables while piecing together the multiple parts of pulse generators, electronically perfect instruments used to test the efficiency of the oscilloscopes.

Nearby other assembly operations include those of high frequency and plug-in type oscilloscopes, closed circuit boards including the use of a soldering fountain.

In the manufacture of circuit boards, the company employs an etched chemical process to establish the circuit basis for oscilloscope equipment installation Later the boards are assembled with wires, condensers and electronic equipment after which the entire assembly is soldered in one operation when the connections on the bottom of the board are brought into contact with a molten aluminum fountain.

Robert Deitz, manager of the department, states that this new improved circuit etching process is much superior to outmoded methods including circuit wiring by hand.

After the oscilloscope is assembled it is subject to a quality assurance inspection which is again assembly line process. The units are placed on roller-equipped platforms and transported through the various test departments with a technician in attendance.

In the cathode ray tube division, visitors can learn of the step-by-step process employed to bring the tube into existence as an electronic perfect instrument for providing an oscilloscope means of exciting luminescent material of oscilloscope measurement.

Nick Broderick, manager of the tube department, reports that continual research in this department by the Hewlett - Packard Company as resulted in an upgraded tube that provides greater brightness, image sharpness, increased frequency which adds up to the top sensitivity tube in the industry today.

Supplementing the plant's commercial operation is a medical department with a registered nurse on duty during working hours. The department is complete as a nurse first aid station and contains facilities for emergency treatment such as the use of a resuscitator and oxygen. There are two beds in the department. There is also a medical technician on duty at the company's sheet metal plant on Winters Drive. Company physicians include Dr. Joseph Diffee and Dr. Sam Brown.

The new plant was designed by the Denver architectural firm of Mooore and Bush, with the Olson Construction Company serving as general contractor. The building, located on a 50-acre site, is primarily of reinforced concrete and steel construction. It has glass walls on the north and south sides, and Colorado native moss rock on the east and west facades.

Dave Packard and William B. Hewlett are co-founders of the firm which today is among the world's largest manufacturers of electronic test and measuring equipment. Hewlett - Packard, with headquarters in Palo Alto, Calif., has 14 plants, including one in Loveland, Colo., and a total employment of more than 7,000. Its annual sales volume is approximately $125 million.

The company is a major designer and manufacturer of electronic test equipment. This equipment is used by engineers, scientists, medical personnel, and production workers to measure various electrical quantities (voltage, current, frequency, etc.) and certain other physical and physiological phenomena with utmost precision. The company and its affiliates currently produce more than 1,000 different instruments and accessory devices.

The company's Colorado Springs Division was started in 1962, when the firm leased a small manufacturing facility on Winters Drive.

The local plant at the present time employs 326 persons including 52 engineers, 235 manufacturing employes and 39 in administration.

Cort Van Rensselaer, general manager of the Colorado Springs division, anticipates the employment growth of the company to be approximately 425 people by the first of the year. People to be hired will be in the manufacturing area and will be mostly local personnel

The local payroll of the company is approximately $2,500,000.

Company officials report that presently in the total market field of the general range of oscilloscopes, growth has been tabulated at five per cent per year.

This growth is sharply contrasted to that of Hewlett-Packard's which is 20 to 30 per cent. Company officials report that Hewlett-Packard technical capabilities and research are responsible for their leadership in the field.

The outlook for the company for the coming year is excellent with the acquirement of a $1 million contract from the Air Force and good possibilities of obtaining the bids of several other commercial contracts.

Officials have said that the reception received from the local people in Colorado Springs for Hewlett - Packard employes has been a very warm and gratifying experience. The assistance rendered and the fairness of the local people is appreciated by all company personnel.

Golbey to Speak To Women's Trust Forum

The second and final meeting of the First National Bank's Women's Trust Forum will be held at the Fine Arts Center Theater on Tuesday, A near-capacity crowd attended the meeting last Tuesday.

Because of the interest shown in joint ownership of property by husbands and wives, Tuesday's meeting will include a talk by Frank A. Golbey, estate planning specialist of the First National Bank Trust Department, on the various forms of joint ownership, and their problems and pitfalls, such as gift taxes, etc.

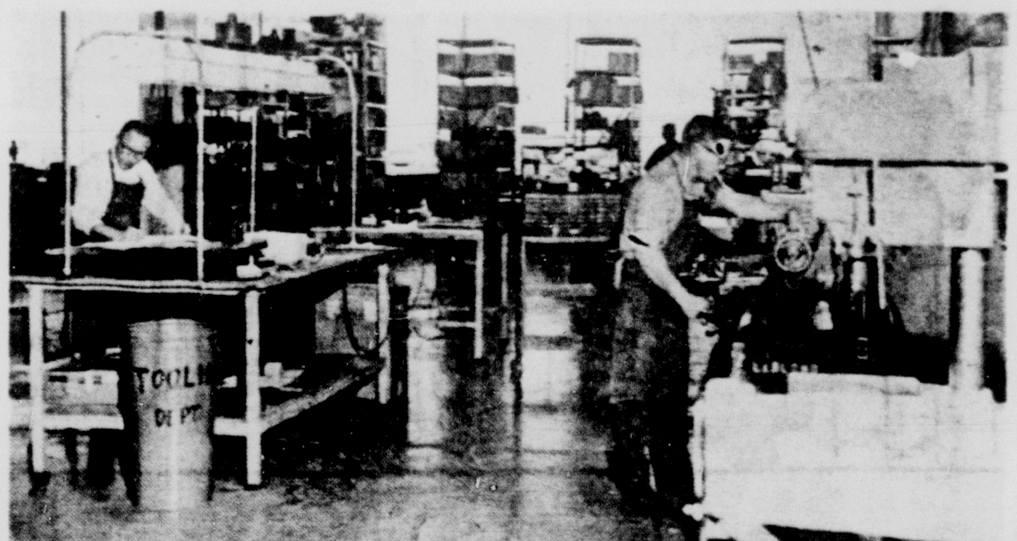
Another talk to be given by Thomas Moon, Trust Officer, will discuss the attractiveness of common stocks to buy.

Coffee and cake will be served in the lobby of the Fine Arts Center at 9:30 Tuesday morning, and the meeting will convene promptly at 10.

Guest speaker for Tuesday's program will be Dr. Richard C. Bates whose talk is entitled "How to Have a Heart Attack." Although the talk is humorous, the subject is a serious discussion of ways to preserve every family's most valuable asset — its health.

Admission to the forum is by ticket only because of the limited seating capacity of the Fine Arts Center theater. The tickets are free, and a very few are still available on request from the First National Bank Trust Department.

String empty cereal boxes, the small size, between the bars of your baby's playpen. The boxes will keep the baby amused for long periods of time.



FORMAT DESIGN—Craftsman in this department make up basic designs submitted by researchers. The designs may eventually form construction bases for new equipment if it tests satisfactorily.

African Chiefs Seek Rhodesian Decision

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP) — African leaders appealed today to Britain's new Labor government to honor pledges rejecting a unilateral declaration of independence for white supremist Southern Rhodesia.

The appeal was made in a communique issued after talks here between President Julius Nyerere of the United Republic of Tanganyika and Zanzibar and Prime Ministers Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya, Milton Obote of Uganda and Kenneth Kaunda of soon-to-be independent Northern Rhodesia.

The four men said the pledges at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' conference on Southern Rhodesia were that the British territory would proceed speedily toward independence adhering to the principle of majority rule.

Mesa Villa Apartments Near Completion

The Mesa Villa apartment-residences at 5200 Kissing Camels Dr. in the Kissing Camels Estates will be shown to members of the Garden of the Gods Club next Saturday and Sunday according to today's announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Byron Church, owners.

The decorating firm of J. Marshall Morin, Interiors will demonstrate one residence-apartment plan. Other units will also be open.

Described as Colorado's finest, these luxury residence-apartments are available to members of the Garden of the Gods Club for permanent residency. They are designed to provide the comfort and amenable qualities of private homes, plus the convenience and freedom of modern luxury apartments.

Among the unusual features in the Mesa Villa is the provision of two carport or garage spaces for every residence-apartment, if desired. There is also an equal amount of convenient guest parking.

The two-story buildings are in a campus layout within spacious professionally landscaped grounds, and are oriented to the classic views of the Garden of the Gods, Pikes Peak and Cheyenne Mountains, and overlooking the lights of the City of Colorado Springs.

This unique residential-apartment is on a finger of land extending into the famous Kissing Camels Golf Course, within the Kissing Camels Estates. It is the only apartment-residence development within a luxury-home district in Colorado.

Church reports that every practical idea was employed in the Mesa Villa for developing the maximum in privacy, comfort, and luxurious care-free living. The units include private gardens, fireplaces, over-sized tubs and up to five-foot long showers, oak cabinets, 2 and 2½ baths, complete sound-conditioning, separate furnaces and air-conditioners for individual control, decorator quality fixtures and custom interiors. Private detective protection is part of the services.

Mesa Villa was designed by Walter Miller, architect of Colorado Springs. Construction is by Raymond Whitlock, Colorado Springs builder. Landscaping is by Rick's Nursey. Management is by Mr. and Mrs. Church living in one of the residences.

Leases are for one to five-year periods, with occupancy beginning Nov. 1.

ADC Adopts New Computer System

Headquarters Air Defense Command has established a tank group at Peterson Field to design systems and programs for a newly approved computer system called Punched Card Equipment.

PCE Computers will replace major items of punched card accounting machines presently installed at Air Force bases and will provide for a reduced cost of equipment and personnel with greater efficiency and responsiveness.

ADC will install PCE at 21 of its bases. Initial manpower savings are estimated at $160,000 annually, with additional savings anticipated in equipment rental. The initial base to install equipment will be Peterson Field in November.

Other ADC bases will start receiving the equipment in March 1965 with the 21 installations to be completed by October 1965.

Talk of Steel Price Increase Being Watched

NEW YORK (AP) — Talk of a possible steel price increase mounted this week.

The speculation was heightened by a few small, selective boosts.

In some quarters the discussion centered on when — before or after election — not if an increase will come.

Meanwhile, the General Motors strike droned into its fourth week with its effects beginning to spread to other industries.

The United Auto Workers went on strike against American Motors Corp., idling 26,000 workers. Shortly after the strike began at midnight Thursday the negotiating parties agreed to retain American Motors' unique profit-sharing plan but local grievances still were to be resolved.

The steel price increase talk was spurred by a statement by Logan T. Johnson, president of Armco Steel Corp., that a need for a price increase exists now.

He told a news conference that even before the added cost of any new labor settlement "we have quite a few steel products on which our margin of profit isn't as good as it should be."

He mentioned some grades of plate, some grades of sheet and bar products. Products needing price increases cover more than half of Armco's line, he added.

Earlier, top executives of U.S. Steel Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp. and Inland Steel Co. had expressed dissatisfaction with profit margins.

Price increases on steel reinforcing bars were raised by four major producers, U.S. Steel, Armco, Inland and Youngstown Sheet ⅞ Tube Co.

Bars, which account for about 4 per cent of over-all steel product shipments, are used to strengthen concrete in construction work.

Spread meringue on a hot or warm pie, not on a cold one. Meringue will not slip when spread on the hot or warm filling. Always spread the meringue to the very edge of the pie.

PRE-ENGINEERED BUILDING FRANCHISE AVAILABLE

The dramatic growth of the pre-engineered steel building market in this area represents an unusual profit potential for an individual or organization experienced in building construction. Stran-Steel Corporation, a unit of National Steel Corporation, will select a Franchised Builder in this territory to represent our complete line of buildings. The choice will be made within a few weeks.

Complete knowledge of all phases of building construction is essential. If not a general contractor, the prospective Franchised Builder must have the ability to sell a complete building "package," and then coordinate the sub-contracted construction.

The principal requirement of the Franchised Builder would be the development of a full-time, hard-hitting sales organization. Aggressive merchandising would be required to produce maximum sales volume in all phases of the market.

Sufficient managerial capacities and capital backing are required to sustain a number of separate projects, simultaneously, without diluting new business efforts. No large storage and handling facilities are necessary as there is no inventory; factory-produced, pre-engineered buildings are shipped direct to the job site. The Franchised Builder selected in this area can expect a fast return on his capital investment.

Stran-Steel produces the most complete line of high-quality, pre-engineered steel buildings for commercial and industrial use. A program of national and local advertising is geared to help sell and to produce inquiries for immediate follow-up.

Justice Tire Co. Opens Brake Service Dept.

Virgil Justis, owner of the Justis Tire Service, 222 E. Cucharras St., has announced the opening of a new brake service department complete with the latest Ammco portable brake machine.

The new portable machine, purchased at a cost of $1,800, is equipped to provide complete brake shoe and drum service for all makes of cars and trucks.

The work turned out by the machine and the workmen who use it will be guaranted by Justis and this includes drum repair service equal to or surpassing state law standards, Justis said.

The new machine also is able to handle the new disc brakes with which some of the 1965 model cars are equipped.

In addition to brake, and all other types of front end suspension service the company now offers its customers, the new shop carries a complete line of Wagner - Lockheed brake shoes and parts.

"We can now offer service to hydraulic brake sections including replacement of parts," Justis said.

World Leaders Stunned by Nikita's Fall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sudden fall from power of Premier Khrushchev stunned world leaders and men on the street around the world. The abrupt shakeup triggered reactions ranging from calm to alarm.

Speculation was widespread among government officials, diplomats and in the press over the new leaders, Communist party head Leonid I. Brezhnev and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin. Would they follow Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence or steer the country on a new, radical course?

Much of the speculation, both in the East and West, centered on the feeling that at the heart of Khrushchev's removal was the bitter Chinese-Soviet conflict and a resulting loss of Soviet prestige in the Communist movement.

"He accepted an open breach in the Communist front rather than subscribe to China's theory of the inevitability of war," said the London Daily Express.

Observers in Tokyo believed the change could pave the way toward some form of reconciliation between the Soviet Union and Red China. It was felt that Chinese Chairman Mao Tze-tung would regard the development as a personal victory, leaving him as international communism's most authoritative figure.

But Red China reported Khrushchev's removal with no immediate comment. The Peking People's Daily carried the story under the headline "Khrushchev steps down."

The Japanese news agency Kyodo reported in a dispatch from Peking that a series of conferences began in the Chinese Foreign Ministry soon after 8 a.m. today. The Kyodo correspondent reported that the general reaction was that Khrushchev's departure represented a victory for Mao.

The Asahi paper's correspondent in the Chinese capital reported that observers there are united in the view that Khrushchev's fall will result in a boost to Mao's leadership of the Communist movement.

In Taipei, Formosa, capital of Nationalist China, the consensus was that Moscow would still reject Peking's view that communism should risk nuclear war for world domination.

Italy's Communist party, the largest in Western Europe, warned in a communique in Rome that it would not support any return to hard-line Stalinist tactics by Khrushchev's successors.

In Yugoslavia, whose President Tito has been pro-Khrushchev, there was dismay among people in the streets of Belgrade.

GAZETTE-TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

High School Students And Their Ambitions

There is no question about juvenile delinquency. There is a great deal of it and it is deplorable.

Also, without a doubt, the influences leading to delinquency arise in parental neglect, matched by government dominance. They arise in conforming and aggressive school influences inescapable in government-managed and financed institutions, and in the shifting mores of our times. These influences downgrade private ownership of property and elevate sexuality to the kind of attention usually reserved for new inventions.

Having made due note of this juvenile delinquency situation, we were considerably heartened the other day to find some statistics respecting the relative normalcy of the bulk of today's high school crowd. Certainly it is true that some fast-moving boys and girls often capture the spotlight and make us think that young people are different than they used to be.

But the University of Pittsburgh recently did a study of attitudes and practices of high school students in more than 1,300 high schools across the land. And the picture their research induces is something far removed from the giddy, overheated drama, leading inevitably to delinquency and worse, that might have been expected.

Actually, from the study, if the figures are to be trusted, most of the high school students of today are conservative and hard-working. Better than 56 per cent are active in churches or other social or charitable groups. Almost 44 per cent of the senior boys and about 30 per cent of the senior girls earn from 70 to 100 per cent of their own spending money. One third of the seniors save a definite amount of money each month with positive goals in view.

Most of the boys and girls say they don't want to establish credit accounts but anticipate paying cash for what they want. And they are willing to save to get what they want.

What are their objectives? About 43 per cent of senior boys and 35 per cent of senior girls indicated that they were saving their money to go to college. Next most important goal was marriage, which ranks quite high even among high school students. Cars and new clothes were next in the line of goals.

After they had completed their educations, 46 per cent of the senior boys and 58 per cent of the senior girls indicated that marriage would then be first. Some also talked of furniture and a home, and there was a surprisingly large amount of talk concerning investments that would be made.

Here was a most encouraging note. About 80 per cent of the young men indicated they wanted to work for themselves. At least 50 per cent would "like very much" to own their own business. Also, there was a surprisingly high percentage who insisted that the work they would undertake would have to be important to them and not merely a good earning job or one that offered security and few challenges.

We have no way of knowing just which high schools were selected in this survey nor just how wide a cross-section was used in tabulating these findings. But if we may assume a broad band of inquiry and reasonable objective analysis, then we would be able to say that these figures indicate that some of the criticism heaped upon government schools in the past several decades may have done some good.

Of course, there will be no way we can cure the malady caused by government management of schools until such management departs. Even dedicated teachers, instructors and administrators come up against the problem of government ukase and political objective. Government is force. And government schools are run on force. Compulsion is employed to compel students to attend. Compulsion is used to get the money from taxpayers so that the bills can be paid. And with these instances of compulsion in vogue it must follow that some measure of compulsion will taint and color the government school instruction however efforts are taken to prevent it.

When we decide that our children should be educated instead of merely schooled in a compulsive manner, then we may be able to provide the kind of market place school that can teach moral law and freedom and can also be objective about political procedures. Government and the church have long been separated. Government and schools should also go their separate ways.

It Follows

When some men are rewarded for not working, it must follow that other men who work and earn rewards will not receive what they earn.

A Matter of Power

One of the important, if not the most important, distinctions between a person who loves liberty and a person calling himself a conservative, is that the lover of liberty does not seek political power and the conservative does.

This is a matter of major importance.

Conservatives, by and large, favor a return to power of conservatives in government. They want government to be run by conservatives. They believe, with great sincerity, that government managed by conservatives will be a more frugal, better run, more efficient, less dangerous kind of government than one run by political liberals.

But the person who loves liberty does not seek power; rather, he seeks liberty. And this means that he is not attracted to the idea that "good" men in office are the proper people to run his affairs for him. Rather, he believes that each person should run his own affairs and no others.

Those who love liberty will tell you that each man seems to have a little less than all the intelligence he needs to run his own affairs. Therefore, running one's own business is going to take about all the talent and all the energy he has to spare.

Since this seems to be universally true, it follows that no man, whether a political conservative or a political liberal, has enough intelligence to do more than mind his own business successfully. The assumption that some men, by means of political success, can somehow acquire sufficient skills and talent to run the affairs of others is wholly invalid. It cannot be done.

Therefore, the lover of liberty does not seek power for himself or for others. He is distrustful of ANY man in power of any political persuasion. For he knows that this man WITH POWER, is in a position to exert his will harmfully upon some people. In fact, he knows beyond any shadow of doubt that the liberty of some will be impaired by the power held by another.

It is easy to understand why political liberals fear political conservatives. It is easy to understand why political conservatives fear political liberals. Each of these groups seeks power and the advantages that power can bring.

Therefore, each of these groups sees the other group as one which might conceivably deprive it of power. And since each group wants to exert power to restrain and control the other group, a loss of power is viewed as a threat and a deprivation.

But those who love liberty do not love power. They do not favor any kind of person with power regardless of his political affiliation.

But the curious fact is that conservatives and liberals (in the political sense) both seem to fear the lover of liberty. Somehow, they seem to imagine that regardless of deep philosophical convictions to the contrary, the lover of liberty wants power after all.

Actually, all that the lover of liberty tries to do is to convince as many as possible of any and all political convictions that we can manage our affairs without having a policeman or a commissar standing by to force people into line. People manage their own affairs when they are free to seek the kind of satisfaction each one wants. You don't have to force people to line up to get what they want to get. They'll line up by themselves.

But the tendency of trying to compel all people into a given mold (any mold) invariably deprives some people of their liberty. Thus, the lover of liberty is an enemy of monopoly control. He favors self-control and recognizes it as an ever-present fact of life.

Political conservatives and political liberals are both alike in one sense. They imagine that men are basically evil and must be forced into decent behavior. And both of them aver that if men are good, there would be no necessity for using force on them.

But the dilemma induced by the assumption that men are basically evil is seen when we consider granting power to men who are basically evil. And this is the proposition forever arising from politically oriented behavior. If men are evil, then power is far too dangerous for them to have. If men are good, then power is unnecessary.

Whichever is true, the fact is that the lover of liberty does not seek power. It's a good thing to keep in mind.

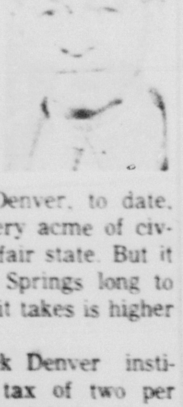
The Next Move

By RUFUS L. PORTER



If, as Chief Justice Holmes once said, "Taxes are the price we pay for civilization," Colorado Springs, is well on its way of becoming a very highly civilized place, indeed. The State of Colorado itself is about the eighth highest civilized state in the union, if taxes spell civilization. And Denver, to date, has been the very acme of civilization in our fair state. But it won't take the Springs long to catch up, if all it takes is higher taxes.

A while back Denver instituted a sales tax of two per cent and collected it in all the surrounding counties in order to prevent people from leaving town to save money. They even tried to get Colorado Springs merchants to collect Denver sales taxes on the theory that many Denverites were driving all the way down here to escape the tax. And they may have been mad enough to do it, after they started collecting the tax in Arapahoe, Jefferson, Adams, Douglas and other counties surrounding Denver, if there are others.

But this bit of skullduggery didn't last long. The state supreme court ruled such shenanigans unconstitutional. Denver sales taxes, it said, could be collected only in Denver County. But all the loot already taken in was kept. The taxpayers were so numerous and the payments so small and no records existed as to who paid how much, so the City of Denver just pocketed the several hundred thousand dollars of illegal tax. I was among those who got gypped in this little deal. I purchased four-bits worth of typewriter paper in Littleton and they taxed me one cent for the state and one cent for Denver. I hollered bloody murder, but I never got my penny back. I had to have the paper or I wouldn't have taken it at all.

It wasn't the penny, it was the principle of the thing.

But, unless I am misinformed, the state legislature has, or at any rate is going to, make it possible for any large city to gobble up as much of the surrounding suburbs as it thinks it can digest. One of the chief arguments the realtors use to make the subdivisions sound attractive is that their clients will be moving away from the "high-city taxes." So they move to the suburbs, set up their own tax programs, often higher than they were paying in the city, and then have the city take them in and sock them anyhow.

Now that Colorado Springs has passed the proposed two per cent sales tax, either downtown Colorado Springs is going to be badly hurt, or the city will have to grab up all the suburbs. There is already talk of including all of El Paso County within the city limits. As soon as the tax goes into effect the rush will start to the outlying shopping centers and the cry of the city fathers will be heard in the land. But the cry won't be for tax reductions. No, indeed. It will be for gobbling up the county so that no matter where we shop, we will pay their sales tax.

So many who have been saying "downtown Colorado Springs is dying" are apt to prove to be good prophets, unless the city can extend its boundaries, and soon after the sales tax is passed. Otherwise, the downtown area could be used for a new airport in a few years, with the new Antlers Plaza remaining as the only business building left standing. Fine hotels are usually needed near fine airports, and the downtown area should make a good one.

The law of diminishing returns should start taking effect shortly after the new sales tax does. Then, if the city's next move is to annex all the county, my next move will be out of here.

On the 10 o'clock TV news I heard that the city council had this day passed the sales tax ordinance, and the talk is already on to make the tax cover the "metropolitan area" as the "only fair way" to administer it.

Adam Lyre says: If the price of civilization is all you've got, it ain't worth it.

Human Values

By FRANK McDONOUGH

There is an odd quirk among men who have outstanding abilities or influence, that is that they will, on impulse, sacrifice the future accomplishment of an entire lifetime. I have in mind three such men.

Recently there was an important, but not crucial baseball series between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati. Bob Friend over careful years had become the head of the Pittsburgh staff and with the care that he had always taken of himself could well have retained that leadership for many years to come. During his recent series he was hospitalized with a dangerous virus and was running a fever of one hundred and four. On impulse he left the hospital and pitched a masterful game. He risked his entire future for no really important reason.

There was "A Man Called Peter" of wide influence among the people of his community. He was warned by his physicians to slow down and thus retain his great influence for many years to come. Instead, he threw himself into additional work. He lost his life and lost the great influence which may have lasted over many years.

When at Gettysburg, Lee ordered his ill-advised charge of Pickett's division in the face of almost rebellious opposition of Longstreet, one of his great aides, General Armistead personally placed himself at the forefront of the charge and lost his life in so doing. The men of that splended division did not need Armistead's personal leadership into the battle but actually would have benefitted more had he directed them from the rear, saved his own life and perhaps been invaluable for years to come. His personal sacrifice served no real purpose except for the impulse of the moment.

It seems a strange human quirk in humans to risk real value on the impulse of the moment. The world could well do without the risk of future loss so that the real value of men such as these might last through future years. Leaders such as these should pay heed to what their value might be rather than give way to the disastrous results of the thoughtless impulse of the moment. We need such men to live for future years of leadership because the world needs them, not just for the moment but for the span of their natural lives.

33rd PSALM

To the Editor:

In my mind's eye I can see many things which give cause for alarm. As a nation we have a national debt exceeding 300 billion dollars and there is no apparent effort to pay if off. Our boys conscripted into military service are stationed in other countries and some of them are losing their lives. All the while their presence is a daily threat to another world war, with greater power for destruction than ever at the disposal of military forces.

There are rioting and rebellion taking place in various places at home. There are many persons who believe that the sign of a good legislature is the passage of many laws. Apparently they do not realize that every law placed on the statutes is a restraint against individual freedom, and can lead only to eventual government control of everything.

A nation of individuals without hope spells doom. However, there are signs of hope, here and there, among Americans. It has been said that where there is hope, a way can be found to solve man's problems.

My hope comes from the Word of the Creator and this morning our Bible study group discussed and meditated on the hope provided in the 33rd Psalm. There is great hope for the individual in the words of this Psalm, especially the 9th, 10th, 11th and 12th verses. I recommend the entire Psalm for the readers' consideration.

AN 'OLDIE'

To the Editor:

FDR said, "I do not believe in communism any more than you do but there is nothing wrong with the communists in this country; several of the best friends I have got are communists," from Congressional record, Sept. 22, 1950.

This story is an "oldie" from Alice, Tex., on cemetery voting. Pedro was sitting on the side walk crying. A friend came by and asked: "What is wrong?" Pedro answered, between sobs, "My father has been dead 10 years and he came back to vote for Lyndon but he never stopped by to see me! That is why I am crying."

I haven't had too much use for Chenoweth but after reading the long list of the things he voted against, I intend to vote for him.

I am sure glad to know there never was any compulsion in any of the farm programs. But someone sure shot a lot of cattle and knocked a lot of pigs in the head during those FDR years of prosperity. No one was hungry, just people.

As "me too" Dewey said, we had 8,000,000 unemployed at the time of Pearl Harbor and it took a war to give them jobs. How about that?

TRICKS OR TREAT

To the Editor:

I remember Halloweens from 1884, when I was three years old. I had one brother three years older than I, and he was afraid of nothing, and I was his victim on this Halloween. He scared me so much and so often that I have been frightened most of the 81 years since that time.

The older boys of those days took a delight in destroying any small property that was movable; they took a special delight in overturning chicken coops, and other small buildings that were a necessity in every backyard in that day or rather night, before the city sewer system was inaugurated. One year I remember (I was not old enough to help) a bunch of high school students pulled a buggy up into the belfrey where the bell was that tolled us when it was time to come to school each morning. How they did it I never knew but it must have taken a long rope and lots of boys to help pull it up to that third-story belfrey.

One year, after I was in the transfer business, I had a lot of wagons and tried to hide them on Halloween eve, but this one wagon was left out. Next day it was gone, and I did not find it until next summer when the creek went dry, six blocks away, and there was my wagon, in a ruined condition, where some kids had put it under the water. Cost me $50. The carrying off of porch furniture and other things is just as much a crime on Halloween as any other stealing. The writing on store windows causes more expense than anyone knows about. To write on a building with lipstick is a permanent injury to a building, as lipstick cannot be removed from a stone or light brick building. I am saying these things, hoping young people may take some less harmful way to have fun. It isn't funny to the ones that are harmed.

Now it's time for tricks and treats. This is a harmless thing to do. If people don't want to supply you with treats, that is their privilege, and you should not worry them. But this communistic UNESCO has had the nerve to saddle the country with the idea that children should go around on Halloween and collect money for the children of foreign countries. UNESCO does not give this money to needy children. They give it to the foreign governments, millions of dollars, and they spend it to help their governments. Our children or your children should never go begging for money to be given to UNICEF, the International Children's Emergency Fund. It has been proven that every cent of these millions collected from our people is distributed to the communistic countries for the help of their governments who can use the money for any purpose they choose. Much of it will be spent to help arm the communists to fight against the U.S.

UNESCO is hoping that the United States Senate will ratify a proposed treaty known as the convention against discrimination in education. UNESCO's proposed new treaty would deliver the entire American educational system into UNESCO international control. It could destroy every private and parochial school in the United States. It would automatically remove education from under domestic law and control. It encompasses every phase and facet of American education. Wake up, America, do something to clear away this U.N. poison in the air. The treaty will be ratified if you don't wake up soon. Who wins the youth, wins the future of America.

We do not have a veto in the United Nations any more, did you know that? Here is the law: 1. If, due to a veto, the Security Council fails to act in a case of military crisis, the General Assembly can hold an emergency session to take up the matter. 2. In such a case, the General Assembly can call on member nations to make available their armed forces for whatever military action the General Assembly may recommend. We are completely at the mercy of a majority vote of that awful mixed-up MOB.

Better get out of the U.N.

64-DOLLAR QUESTION

To the Editor:

It seems to me that not near enough has been made very plain about our greatest need. The question is, do we want to live under our Constitution in FREEDOM, OR do we allow this administration to sell us out to the United Nations? You know the disarmament bill passed and we now, right now, are in great danger of losing our country and our freedom, for an international socialist plan under communist rule. The United Nations, composed of 114 nations, (most of whom are barely out of savagery) and they have 114 votes to our one. Khrushchev has three to our one. Besides, who wants to give up our freedom for a dictator rule?

Congress has more Democrats, two to one of the Republicans, so they have passed so many subversive laws and subversive bills that we have already lost more than half of our freedom. The Civil Rights (wrongs) bill is the very law that will disrupt harmony in our lives and our country.

Johnson continues to spout about prosperity and peace — peace such as we have in Viet Nam, and prosperity under inflation. He, Johnson, fails to mention that 313 billions which we can NEVER hope to pay back.

The sixty-four dollar question. Do we want freedom under our time-tried Constitution, or do we want international law and dictatorship? Be safe, vote for Goldwater.

PROGRESS

To the Editor:

A recent letter by Mrs. Lorraine Burgess drew a response entitled, "Don't Hold Back the Dawn," which somewhat concerns me. The theme of the editor's paper was that progress should not be impeded. I agree. I am for progress too. However, lest we forget, progress assumes many meanings among different groups. Practically all politicians lately have been both liberal and conservative, albeit at different times. Semantics is the bane of too many discussions.

One question Mrs. Burgess raised was the possibility of filtering the smoke from the two rock-crushing plants. The reply was that "the ugliness of. . . . a couple of smoke stacks doesn't add up in our mind to equal the ugliness of men out of work, relief checks, and taxation to the point of enslavement." May I construe this to mean that a filter will cost so much that the plants must close? Honestly, why can't a filter be considered? Just how does filtering a smoke stack impede progress? After all, more jobs are created, for the filter must be manufactured, installed, and maintained. And esthetic value, although virtually worthless at the cash register, would increase for the Colorado skyline, I feel. It appears difficult at best to preserve a skyline as you suggest, because neither you nor I have the wherewithal to "purchase that area and do as we please with it."

I had the opportunity to visit Los Angeles, California recently and view for myself the foremost example of unplanned progress in the country. The September issue of the Sierra Club Bulletin carries a short report entitled, "Beginnings of a new nationwide organization?" The article concerned California State Senator Thomas M. Rees'

Question Box

Question No. 599: "What is a good way of knowing who is worthy of one's confidence?"

Answer: Since one of the most important means to a successful life is knowing who is worthy of confidence, one cannot be too careful in arriving at a way of determining whether a man is worthy of one's confidence.

Since the most important questions are ethical questions, it is important to know what person is worthy of confidence as to what is right and wrong and what will promote the general welfare on this earth.

Of course no one can answer all questions, but a man who is worthy of confidence should be able and willing to answer all your questions, or anyone else's questions, without evasion or contradiction on what he is advocating or believes in. If this man has a double standard of right, you will find that he contradicts himself or by evading when the right question is asked.

Those who have double standards are past masters in evasion. They will not answer direct questions but instead will constantly change the subject. You must keep them to the subject and insist they answer a yes or no and then be able to explain their yes or no answer. Even a question whether a man has stopped murdering people can be answered by simply saying, "No, I have not stopped because I cannot stop something I have not been doing."

A man worthy of confidence should have logical, rational reasons for his convictions and be able to answer all questions on these convictions without evasion or contradiction. Then you could put confidence in that man.

The Dreadful Burden Of Hand-Shaking

By RUSSELL KIRK

Personally, I like to shake hands with folk. But then, I never have stood for public office, except for the exalted posts of justice of the peace and delegate to the county convention.

It is far otherwise with President Johnson.

That unfortunate gentleman has been clutching the mitts of voters the length and breadth of this great land. On several occasions, blood has been seen to ooze from his maltreated fingertips. By this show of cordiality, perhaps the President seeks to dispel the impression that he is a cold, canny fish. But is his game worth the candle?

We are told that the handclasp originated as a proof that neither of two men, on meeting, bore a dagger in his fist. However this may be, Americans long have been passionately addicted to the hand-shake. Visiting English lecturers and dignitaries in the last century, used to complain bitterly of this barbaric ordeal; nowadays, however, they meekly submit to such American folkways. I would that they, and some of our own luminaries, had stiffer backbones, as well as stiffer fingers.

For it pains this commentator to behold an enormous reception-line, with here and there in the crowd not a few of those monstrous specialists in the bone-crusher grip. Mr. Robert Kennedy, they tell me, in his present senatorial campaign, extends merely two fingers — and those extremely supple ones. Though this tactic may not be heroic, it smacks of prudence.

For public men, the eighteenth-century bow was better far. Yet it did not long survive the august mien of President Washington—and even he was accused of being somewhat stiff in his bowing. John Adams might have kept Thomas Jefferson at bay, if he had anticipated the electoral glad-handing of Lyndon Johnson; but he was not fond of Tom, Dick, and Harry.

For my part, out of sheer pity, I abstain so far as civility will allow from clutching the fingers of a candidate for grand office. To bask in the great man's smile suffices me. I would not subject even Kwame Nkrumah or Cheddi Jagan to this torment.

In medieval times, when trial by battle was invoked, a proxy champion was acceptable at law; and even in our own age, marriage by proxy is possible. So why cannot we agree to have candidates' hand-shaking performed by proxy? Then President Johnson and Senator Goldwater might engage the services of professional wrestlers, competent to confound and agonize even the most malignant of hand-clutchers.

Or possibly a version of the military salute might be substituted for this excruciating rite. Failing some such expedient, candidates soon will have to wear steel gauntlets: 75 million voters, bent on a cordial grasp, will reduce the presidency to a splendid misery. And with female aspirants to that dignity, must we not show mercy at last?

Besides, no one nowadays suspects presidential candidates of concealing dirks in their fists. Their armaments are grimmer. A man may shake and shake, and be a villain still.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

proposal on September 15 for the formation of a "Los Angeles Gruesome" committee to hail outstanding accomplishments in uglifying the city. " 'Los Angeles Gruesome' will not give recognition to those heroic few who are beautifying our city, but to those who are outstanding in fouling it up," he said. Competition for the bright awards "would be fantastic." Rees suggested a special category for public agencies for their irrational planning and singularly uninspired designs.

I do not seek to compare Colorado Springs to Los Angeles, at least not yet. Our city has much to offer compared to Los Angeles and many other cities, due in part to the relatively late arrival of "the progress that is reaching, at long last, into Colorado Springs." The progress of the city in many instances is commendable. New industry is arriving, construction is booming, growth is evident everywhere. I feel, as do you, that this is good. However, Mrs. Burgess did not ask for progress to stop, as you imply. She asked for the intrusion of ugliness to stop. As Los Angeles defines terms, there is no difference. And yet, in another context, progress can be defined as the removal of ugliness, whether it be belching smoke or men out of work. That is progress worthy of support, in contrast to the profiteering sort of ugly "progress" you urge us to support.

A very good book depicting progress as it is found today in our country is "This Is the American Earth" by Ansel Adams and Nancy Newhall. This book provides much food for thought for one who will consider the type of progress, indeed the very future, that Colorado Springs wants and deserves.

Please, in our drive for progress, our urge for new growth, new jobs, and far horizons, let us use judgment and consideration. Let us not think only of the last dime of profit, nor necessarily the first dime for every hitherto unsullied area. This is my desire for Colorado Springs progress; I can only hope (since, as you point out, I have no "right" to put my views on progress over on everyone by "force") that the people of Colorado Springs will unite in supporting progress only when it truly is progress.

CHARLES H. HOUSE

Editor's note: We, too, hope that the people of Colorado Springs will support "progress only when it truly is progress." However, since people are individuals, each has different ideas as to what progress is. Undoubtedly, many people of Colorado Springs would not agree with all of Mr. House's ideas as to what constitutes progress and, in cases of disagreement, we have no objection whatever if Mr. House attempts to PERSUADE those who disagree with him to conclude that he is right. The same, of course, goes for Mrs. Burgess.

Our objection comes at the point where individuals such as Mrs. Burgess or Mr. House urge the force of government to inflict their ideas of progress upon those who disagree with them. Mr. House seems in his last sentence to agree that this is wrong. However, he also seems to have a distinct prejudice against profits which to us indicates that he does not appreciate the fact that without profits the rise in living standards which has occurred in the last 100 years would not have occurred. If living standards are to continue to rise or even to continue at their present level, profits must accrue to investors. If they don't, living standards will go down regardless of how much "beauty" is imposed by some upon others.

Insofar as Mr. House's direct questions about filters are concerned, may we comment that whatever time, energy and capital are devoted to providing such filters must be diverted from other areas which those employing them evidently think are more important at the present time or else the filters would already have been provided. We do not know how practical or costly such filters would be. Since Mrs. Burgess and Mr. House are so concerned about them, why don't they find out the practicality and cost and initiate a VOLUNTARY campaign to collect the necessary funds? So long as the funds necessary for such a project were collected voluntarily we would have no objection. We do object to the use of the government force which would be involved if tax funds were used to please Mrs. Burgess and Mr. House.

AN ASSIGNMENT

To the Editor:

Reference your editorial, "A Letter to Bob," of October 1:

The first time in my life that I can recall reading an editorial is just these past few weeks since moving to your city and receiving your newspaper.

Referring to the above editorial, let me compliment you on getting across to us your point; that being, "the principle of getting something for nothing as opposed to the principle of getting something in exchange for something else." You are completely correct in this, and not for one minute would I disagree. . .end of compliment.

Beginning of complaint: The above is all the good I can possibly say for the editorial and its writer.

We are newcomers in your city, having recently moved up from San Antonio, Texas. We are receiving FREE for four weeks your newspaper, prior to purchasing it monthly. Many more such writings as this editorial may make up our minds for us.

While agreeing in "principle" your procedure in our opinion (I say "our" because my husband thoroughly agrees) is absolutely distasteful. Both these boys, Bob Burns and Scott McElligott of Collinsville, Illinois, were simply carrying out an assignment given to them by their teacher. I believe you know as well as I that too few high-schoolers do assignments as is, then to be thoroughly reprimanded as you have so successfully done will, in my opinion, only serve to drive still more students to the "It's no use," "It's not worth it" attitude.

I am concerned about such writings as this from adults, for you see I have a son in school now. Some day he may be asked by his teacher to do some assignment. I expect my son to carry out assignments as required by his teacher. Doing anything less would be a form of rebelling and disobedience. You should not need this sort of information, but obviously you either were not thinking or only concerned with your "principle."

Why did you not write directly to the teacher? You didn't know his or her name You did know the school, grade, city and state; and that he or she was the English teacher! The message you wanted to get across could have in the above manner gotten to the rightful individual.

Put yourself in the place of these boys. Now, how do you feel? My husband and I both did this very thing. Would you care to know what we came up with? We both decided the assignment wasn't worth the rebuff received in reply!

Personally, as a mother and as a person interested that youth learn obedience and have the desire to carry out adult requirements. I am thoroughly ashamed to admit that an adult, and possibly a father, wrote such a thing as this "editorial."

Now, we are going to request one thing of you. Please charge us for two of our FREE four weeks newspapers and send them, with our compliments, on to these two before-mentioned boys. We desire acknowledgment that this request has in fact been carried out. Thank you.

One other thing: Do NOT print this in your newspaper without first asking our permission.

Should you desire not to fulfill our request of newspapers to these two boys, we will then consider seriously, sending copies of this letter to each boy and the teacher involved.

EDITOR'S RESPONSE

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Turnbaugh:

Many thanks for your fine letter. You know, insofar as the impact of my editorial on the minds of the two young men carrying out their assignment, you may be right. At least, I'll go along with the probability that the reaction you suggest will be among the reactions experienced. But I wonder if that will be the only reaction. It seems to me that there are a number of other possibilities, equally likely. The lads will be famous among their classmates. They are not going to resent this. And the lesson of buying what they want instead of asking someone to give it to them will be carried home in a manner they will never forget. Indeed, a letter to the teacher, as you mention, might never have reached the boys at all. So, the young fellows will have a worthy lesson which will stand by them all their lives; they will become heroes to their classmates; and they will have learned another important lesson, too. Whatever we do is done in front of everyone. Actions not only have consequences, they have repercussions in areas tangent to the direct cause and effect route. This is another gain for the young men.

As for the teacher, let us consider again. The teacher, also, will have learned a lesson. Had we written privately she could have and would have ignored it. Further, from that moment she could have let everyone know that the Gazette Telegraph was a pretty poor newspaper, in her opinion. Of course, I imagine this is what she is definitely going to do now. But all who know of this public exchange will be able to see through any attitude of this kind, should it appear.

But there's one other point, and a very big one, which neither of us has touched upon at all. In actual fact I didn't write the editorial to the lads, I wrote it to you and to thousands more of our readers. The young men are not in Colorado Springs and the impact on them, although personal, will be of limited expanse. The principal gain as I see it, is that teachers in Colorado Springs, also engaged in examining newspapers, will have this example for themselves. The entire community can benefit by an expression of these principles, which, you state, you find "completely correct."

Now, let me say that I am not a part of our circulation department and I do not know what it has done in an effort to build circulation. However, I presume by your letter that in an effort to secure you as subscribers, it has offered you a four-week trial subscription at our expense. If it has stated that the newspaper is being delivered "free," the statement is incorrect. We are paying for it. Someone has to pay for it and we are doing so in this case. If you are now motivated to step in and share the paper with others, that is marvelous. If I understand you correctly, you now want half of the two weeks' delivery of the newspaper to go to one or another of the two young men. You feel that because we were delivering the paper to you for four weeks at our cost, we should be willing to deliver it to one of the young men for two weeks at our cost, while reducing your own delivery to two weeks at our cost.

That is not satisfactory. The confusion arises from your supposition that our presentation of the newspaper to you is "free." It isn't. Not only are we paying for the delivery to you, we are doing so for a solid reason. We are hopeful that you will subscribe and become enthusiastic readers of the Gazette Telegraph. Because we believe you will like the paper and especially that you will enjoy the editorials, and because you are local residents, we are willing to go to this expense to interest you.

But we have no hope of interesting the boys nor of securing them as subscribers. Therefore, we cannot send them a part of your introductory offer.

But here is what we will do. We'll continue to complete our introductory offer to you. Meanwhile, at my own personal expense and with a letter explaining my action, and giving you full credit for having inspired it, I will send them a two weeks' subscription to the Gazette Telegraph. But let us understand each other. I am willing to do this, not because I think the young men will ultimately subscribe, but because I am willing to go to this added cost because I hope you will subscribe.

Anyone who can write as fine a letter as you have should be a subscriber to the Gazette Telegraph. If this is agreeable, let me know and I will promise to accomplish this.

Do you have a preference as to which lad is to get it?

You've requested that we not print your letter without your permission. Naturally, we respect your wishes and will not. However, if you do grant permission, we will print your letter together with my response as indicated here. And I believe the young men ought to see your letter and also that they should read my response. Agreed?

One final point: You say that you are interested in having young people learn obedience. And I quite agree. In the lengthy process of growing up, obedience to proper authority is essential. But there is a danger zone here. Excessive emphasis upon obedience can rob the young man or woman of the ability to think for himself. He must have principles in mind so that he can weigh the orders he receives in an effort to discover for himself their intrinsic merits and demerits. On this basis he learns to reason. Understanding and self-reliance are more to be desired than blind compliance. And I have hopes that this exchange will have stimulated this kind of development all the way around.

Thank you for giving me this opportunity to express myself further. Now, whatever your wishes may be, consider us willing to carry them out in accordance with this letter.

ROBERT LEFEVRE

SECOND LETTER

To the Editor:

Just a few days past we received your fine letter dated October 6, 1964. Many thanks to you for your consideration toward us and our letter, in this gracious and thought - provoking manner.

You do have our permission to print our letter, or letters, in your newspaper, after first reading this second letter which contains a correction or two, plus a few added comments.

First of all, reference your second page which states, in part: "If I understand you correctly, you now want half of the two weeks' delivery of the newspaper to go to one or another of the two young men." This statement is incorrect, or else our "typewriter" errored. According to our copy of the letter, the statement referred to by you is this: "Please charge us for two (2) of our FREE four weeks newspapers. . ." It is possible that you misinterpreted this statement. It simply meant two newspapers, not two weeks' delivery. This is just what the boys asked to receive. Reference your editorial and Bob Burns' letter, (in part): ". . .one free complimentary copy. . ."

On page two also, of your letter, you mentioned your willingness to send to both us and the boys or boy, your newspaper. This is most kind of you, but we are still just as willing as before to pay the twenty cents and postage to have one sent to each boy.

As to our subscribing, this we have already done. Last Wednesday, we paid our one dollar and fifty cents for the month of October.

The remainder of your letter (the major part), with just one exception, which we will briefly touch upon, could not have been more kind, more considerate, and more right. However, in defense of our first letter to you, all this, you must admit, was not brought out in your editorial, leaving us room to doubt, to some extent, your motives and reasoning.

The before-mentioned "exception" is this: your persistent reference to the word FREE. Please grant us the intelligence, and possibly those two boys also, to know nothing is really free. Granted, our usage of the word as stated in our letter, possibly was ill-chosen, even though stated to us in this exact manner. However, since you persist, allow us the same. What we really meant, without spelling it out in so many words, was that for four weeks your newspaper was supposed to be FREE of any cost to us personally. Just one added note and then we will consider this particular issue closed. We did not ask for these free (to us) issues of your newspaper, they were offered us and we accepted.

We are in agreement with you that the boys should see both your letter and ours. We have a suggestion if you consider it wise and in order. What about sending one newspaper to each boy, containing these letters and any further comments you might possibly feel need to be added?

Again we repeat, we are sincere in stating that we will, if you will just bill us, stand the expense involved in sending these two newspapers.

It has been a real privilege for us to have received your fine, and long-to-be-remembered letter. Though we do not know you, and may never have that opportunity, be assured that we hold you and your principles, as stated in your letter, in very high regard, and, we might add, with a new respect that we admit to not having prior to your cordial letter.

Can Poverty Be Measured?

By FRED G. CLARK and RICHARD S. RIMANOCZY

I.

The human race has always been fascinated with the idea that "social problems" can be reduced to simple statistics and attacked with complete confidence from a "scientific" base.

In cold fact this approach is not scientific: it is "scientistic" and assumes all sorts of things that are not true.

But such is the magic of arithmetic that, when answers to problems are expressed in numbers, they captivate the mind and influence entire programs.

II.

The most publicized case in point is the "discovery" that every family with an annual income of less than $3,000 lives in poverty.

That has become the magic number in the crusade against poverty.

Let's look at the unreliability of this figure.

Suppose two families living side by side have equal incomes of $2,000, an amount well below the cut-off point.

Family "A" consists of a man and his wife and six children living in a rented house.

They do live in poverty and frustration.

Family "B" consists of an elderly man and wife who own their house and have a savings account.

On $2,000 they live in comfort and security.

Yet, according to statistics both families live in poverty.

II.

The statisticians consider every "spending unit" as a family and many of these are single people — unmarried or survivors of a marriage.

Let's look at two of these whose annual income is $2,000.

One of them is old and sick, without earning power or financial resources.

This is a tragic poverty case with no future.

His frame of mind is deep depression.

The other man is an interne in a hospital who must count every penny in order to make ends meet.

Just before pay day he may have to live on peanut butter sandwiches and powdered milk.

But the frame of mind of this young man is not depression: it is optimism based on the knowledge that in a few years he will hang out his own shingle and become a prosperous and secure practitioner of medicine.

His hardships are temporary and endurable.

Yet he is classified as a poverty case.

IV.

Let's look at two $2,000 families of the same size, both without financial resources.

One of them has "given up" and does not even try to "manage" what money they have and to make ends meet.

The other family has that invisible resource known as pride and self-respect.

They scrape, darn, patch, skimp and "manage."

They would resent being classified among the impoverished because they are determined to improve their lot.

They go hungry before asking for help.

(This brings to mind the fable of the two frogs that fell into a bucket of cream: one said, "Woe is me" and sank to the bottom; the other said, "Let's fight this out" and struggled until he had churned up a sizable pad of butter to keep him afloat.)

V.

Everyone is agreed that poverty is a tragic problem that must be continuously attacked.

But it cannot be attacked with statisics or crocodile tears: it must be solved case by case, according to the true conditions that exist in each case.

Many are hopeless and must be relieved by assistance.

But many are solvable when the true needs are analyzed, and these needs will never be known as long as each case is a punch card pumped into a computer.

There is no substitute for an intelligent, sympathetic, realistic, personal investigation followed up by specific solutions.

This method is possible only through local programs, conducted by local people, with full knowledge of the local problems.

The "scientific," "over - all," "massive," "all-out" attack is dramatic, and is a good vote-getter, but it will not abolish poverty.

PROFILE OF A NON-COM

(This is another in a series of articles portraying Non-Commissioned Officers of the Army Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs. As in other Army outfits, ARADCOM looks to its cadre of NCOs to play an important part in providing experience and leadership vital to fulfillment of the command's mission.)

By S. SGT. VINCE NAYLOR
ARADCOM

Responsibility for the scheduling, clearing, and dispatching of aircraft is only part of a flight operations sergeant's job. In ARADCOM headquarters' Aviation Section this is the job of Sergeant Major Daniel A. Nigbur.

As flight operations sergeant, he must coordinate flight plans with interested agencies such as the Federal Aviation Agency, airways traffic control, control tower, and approach control. He must maintain complete charts on all flights and keep files on flying regulations and navigational aid information up to date. He has to be familiar with weather symbols, cloud formations and be able to interpret teletype weather reports and maps. In general, he must have a working knowledge of all phases of aviation flight control.

Sergeant Nigbur entered the Army in 1943 to serve first with the 26th Infantry Division at Camp Jackson, S.C. In 1944, with the 26th Division, he went to Europe. Wounded just prior to V-E Day, he was rotated back to the States and sent to Schick General Hospital in Clinton, Iowa. In November, 1945, he was released from the hospital and discharged from the Army.

In 1948 the sergeant reenlisted. Since then he has seen duty at Fort Knox, Ky.; Cape Canaveral, now Cape Kennedy, Fla., with a transportation unit that was responsible for hauling missiles from Patrick Air Force Base to the Cape. This was during the time when test firing of the Wac Corporal missile was in progress. Duty with the Wisconsin Military District, on civilian component status, was next.

After a tour of duty in Korea, from 1953 to 1954, and the Aviation School at Gary Air Force Base, Tex., Sergeant Nigbur was assigned to an Aviation Battalion at Fort Riley, Kan. During his stay at the Kansas Post he helped to set up the flight operation sections of four aviation companies.

It was 1960 when Sergeant Nigbur left Fort Riley for his first assignment to the then newly organized Aviation Section of ARADCOM headquarters. He left ARADCOM in 1962 when he was placed on orders for Germany. While in Germany he served as flight operations sergeant for the Aviation Section of the Seventh U.S. Army headquarters. He returned to the ARADCOM headquarters Aviation Section as flight operations sergeant in April of 1963.

Living in Security, Sergeant Nigbur has taken an active part in community affairs with his membership in the Widefield High School Gladiators Booster Club. He is a charter member of the group, which was formed in the community to support all of the school activities. The sergeant is on the publicity committee for the club.

A parishioner of Holy Family Catholic Church in Security, Sergeant is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Sergeant Nigbur and his wife, Winifred, have four children, all boys. The oldest, Tom, 16, is a junior at Widefield High School. Danny Jr., 13, attends Sproul Junior High School. The remaining two boys are Mike, 8, and Mark, 4. Both Tom and Danny play football at their schools. Tom, a fullback for the Widefield Gladiators, was recently chosen as "Gladiator of the Week" by the Booster Club and only last Wednesday was announced as the Gazette Telegraph's sports staff's selection for "Back of the Week."

The Nigburs own a small ranch in Elko, Nevada where they plan to live after the sergeant's retirement from the Army. They now live at 1205 Main St., Security.

CRASH KILLS 40

COLOMBO, Ceylon (UPI)—At least 40 persons were reported killed and 200 injured in the derailment Saturday of a government railway train near here.

Rescue parties and medical teams were rushed to the disaster spot, about 25 miles north of this capital city. The train was en route here from north Ceylon.

Two Teenagers To Be Tried for Threat to LBJ

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Two Casper teen-agers will be tried Nov. 9 in U.S. District Court on charges of threatening to assassinate the President.

The boys, Larry Dean Rush, 17, and Ray Edward Smith, 16, both pleaded innocent to the charges at their arraignment before U.S. District Judge Ewing T. Kerry Friday.

The boys are juniors at Natrona County High School in Casper.

A grand jury indictment against the boys was waived and Judge Kerr said he would require a jury trial even if the boys want to waive that right.

The judge continued their $1,500 bond which was posted after their appearance before U.S. Commissioner Warren Winter in Casper last Tuesday.

Smith and Rush are being prosecuted under the federal juvenile delinquency law for minors. They were arrested in Casper last Sunday night. The following day President Lyndon Johnson spoke in Casper.

The court information charges that the two boys visited the Smith youth's father, Ray L. Smith, in a Casper hospital and in a discussion about the President's visit the next day the Smith boy said "we are going to kill him." The information added that immediately afterward the Rush youth said "you mean assassinate."

The remarks were made in the presence of Mrs. Mary Venable, a nurse at the hospital and wife of a Casper policeman, the information said.

Barry Mahoney of Casper, the youth's attorney, said he had been unable to talk to Mrs. Venable about the incident although she had given her statement to government officials.

Both boys denied making the alleged statements and they said they did not know Mrs. Venable.

Judge Kerr held a 15-minute discussion with the boys and the Rush youth's parents prior to their courtroom appearance.

Civil Service Area Director Dies

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP)—Funeral services for Walter E. Elder, regional director of the U.S. Civil Service Commission, were held at Lakewood Methodist Church today.

Elder, 53, died Wednesday of an apparent heart attack in his office at the Denver Federal Center. He had been civil service chief for seven years.

Veteran Bus Driver Held After Accident

DENVER (AP) — Denver police were holding a 16-year veteran bus driver of the Denver Tramway Co. today for investigation of drunk driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

John E. Woodford, 46, was jailed after a collision in southeast Denver involving a bus and five cars.

Patrolman Bob Heiberger said the bus struck a car owned by Earl E. Matteson. His car was pushed into another starting chain reaction.

Police notified a bus company supervisor, who met the driver at the end of the run—across town in northwest Denver.

Heiberger said Woodford denied drinking and said he knew of no accident.

Woodford took a breathalyzer test which showed a .21 blood-alcohol reading. A reading of .15 is the level at which an individu is considered under the influence of alcohol.

For Those Who Have Read 'A Texan Looks at Johnson'

HERE ARE THE FACTS

At one time J. Evetts Haley was a respected historian and writer. In recent years he has turned his pen to right-wing smear pamphlets, attacking liberals, moderates, Negroes, Jews and Catholics. His book "A Texan Looks at Lyndon" was written in an attempt to help Barry Goldwater win the presidency by defaming President Johnson. He has been an active supporter of Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker. In 1948 he was a Republican candidate for Congress.

Rocky Mountain News—(Sept. 14, 1964)—Republican Governor Smylie of Idaho referred to Haley's book as "smut" and said he would hope there would be no campaigning of this type. He was backed up by Republican Governors Love of Colorado, Hatfield of Oregon and Hansen of Wyoming.

Life Magazine—(Feb. 9, 1962)—"In the category of crackpots, it would be difficult to outdo the destructive mischief of an organization called Texans for America. This is the invention of a wealthy West Texas rancher named J. Evetts Haley, who frankly advocates lynching Chief Justice Warren."

Thomas H. Thompson, Pulitzer prize winning editor of the Amarillo, Tex., Globe-Times—"Haley is a disappointed, embittered and roughshod man with a talent for self-expression. Also he is a frustrated politician, a defeated candidate for governor and a lost-cause man."

WHY Do Great Republican Newspapers Endorse a Democrat?

The New York Herald Tribune, for example has NEVER BEFORE in its history endorsed a Democratic Candidate.

"We Choose for the Presidency:
Lyndon B. Johnson

"We find ourselves, as Americans, even as Republicans, with no other acceptable course.

"Senator Goldwater, for all his obvious sincerity, simply does not have the combination of personal talents necessary for the Presidency of the United States.

No. 1. "The more he discusses foreign affairs, the clearer it becomes that he has no grasp of the infinite complexities of a dangerous, frustrating and volatile world. The constant confusions over what he really means suggest little talent for diplomacy. He has shown himself, in sum, a poor risk for that most awesome of a president's responsibilities, the conduct of foreign relations in an age when survival may depend on his judgment, and his judgment alone.

No. 2 "His thinly veiled equation of Negro rights with violence in the streets is a mockery of the fundamental Republican dedication to equal rights. However pure his heart, his tactics dishonor the heritage of a century. We believe strongly in Republican principles.

But this, in our judgment does not justify making Barry Goldwater president of the United States.

"In Mr. Johnson we are offered a man of vast experience and manifest competence.

"Moreover, Lyndon Johnson's greatest talent is the one needed now as seldom before in our history; that of reconciling the seeming irreconcilable.

"The nation needs a president who can bind up its wounds and let it find its soul again.

"Our inescapable choice -- as a newspaper that was Republican before there was a Republican party, has been Republican ever since and will remain Republican -- is Lyndon B. Johnson."

.CIA Called Shot on China Atomic Test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. intelligence system often has taken criticism for not foreseeing events, but it scored a bullseye in predicting Red China's first nuclear blast.

On Sept. 29, Secretary of State Dean Rusk announced to the world that China was then in a position to detonate its first nuclear device in the "near future."

How the United States got its information on developments behind the Bamboo Curtuin will remain u closely guarded secret.

The most officials have been willing to disclose privately is that it came from a "variety" of sources and that it was confirmed by assessments of other governments.

One source may have been U2 reconnaissance flights. There have been frequent reports — never publicly confirmed here —that such flights have been flown over mainland China by nese regime on Formosa.

Information indicating China was just about ready to conduct its test apparently came only a short time before Rusk's public disclosure.

At this point the Russians were indicating privately to U.S. sources that they now agreed China was on the verge of entering the nuclear age.

U.S. analysts had a fairly good idea of Red Chinese capabilities for producing nuclear materials needed for an explosion. They calculated that the initial test would probably use up most of the supply of these materials. This would indicate it might take China some time to build new devices and make a stockpile of weapons.

SAVINGS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tuesday Weld, swathed in a pony skin coat, strawberry wiglet and dark glasses, picked up $44,433 at the County Clerk's office in Los Angeles yesterday.

The money had been saved for the 21-year-old actress since she was 15 under a court order protecting minors.

Wilson Pushes Ahead With New Cabinet

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP)—Installed in office by a razor-thin margin, Britain's new prime minister, Harold Wilson, pushed ahead today the business of forming a Labor government.

With a probable Parliamentary majority of only four votes, the 48-year-old prime minister will have little leeway to carry out his five-year program.

Wilson's most controversial measures — steel renationalization, government ownership of urban building land and the phasing cut of Britain's nuclear deterrent — are bound to meet powerful opposition after the new Parliament meets Oct. 27.

Friday night's late returns with one result to come gave Wilson's Laborites 317 of the 630 House of Commons seats. The Conservatives of former Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home had 303 seats and the Liberal party 9—an over-all majority for Wilson of five.

The last seat is expected to be held by the Conservatives, reducing the slender Labor margin further.

Wilson moved swiftly to form his administration. Within hours of his call to Buckingham Palace where he met with Queen Elizabeth II on his appointment, the Prime Minister named his first six cabinet ministers.

The key post of foreign secretary went to Patrick Gordon Walker, despite his defeat for a Commons seat at the hands of a Tory candidate.

Gordon Walker, 57-year-old pipe smoking party intellectual, was expected to get a safe Commons seat upon the retirement of one of Labor's elderly rank and-filers.

George Brown, 50, deputy party leader, was named minister of economic affairs and first secretary of state which means, in effect, he is deputy prime minister.

Other appointments were: Denis Healey, 47, minister for defense; Jim Callaghan, 52, chancellor of the Exchequer; Herbert Bowden, 59, leader of the House of Commons and Lord Gardiner, 65, lord chancellor or head of the nation's judiciary.

Outside the cabinet, Edward Short, 52, was appointed chief whip with the role of keeping Labor's hairline majority intact during crucial votes.

Healey's apointment as defense minister came on the same day as Red China's first atom blast and with the looming question of the British nuclear deterrent to be solved. Wilson has said he will let the national nuclear armory slide while renegotiating the Nassau Agreement under which Britain is buying Polaris missiles from the United States.

Wilson may be forced to reach some arrangement with the Liberals, to stay afloat. Liberal leader Jo Grimond made it clear the first move must come from the new prime minister but he indicated he was open to suggestion.

Soe political experts predicted Wilson's administration could last for at least three years, but there were ominous overtones.

Grand Jury Indicts Six -- Four Klansmen

ATLANTA (UPI) — A federad grand jury has indicted six men, including four Ku Klux Klansmen accused of murdering a Washington, D.C., Negro educator, on charges of intimidation and violence against Negroes, the FBI said Friday.

Three of the men were arrested Friday in Athens.

The FBI said the men arrested were Denver Willis Phillips, 24 an Athens garage mechanic; George Hampton Turner, 32, a loom fixer in Athens who lives in Hull, Ga.; and Herbert Guest, 37, who operates the garage where Phillips is employed.

The FBI said they were arrested on two indictments returned by a federal grand jury in Athens.

The first indictment charges that Phillips, Turner, Guest and three other men—Cecil William Myers, Joseph Howard Sims and James S. Lackey — conspired to injure, oppress, threaten and intimidate Negroes.

The second indictment charges Guest with possession of an unregistered shotgun.

Guest, Lackey, Myers and Sims were arrested by the FBI last Aug. 6 on a federal charge of violating the civil rights of Lemuel A. Penn, a Washington, D.C., Negro who was slain by two shotgun blasts as he drove through North Georgia with two Negro companions on July 11.

Myers and Sims were tried on state murder charges in Danielsville, Ga., and were acquitted on Sept. 4. They are free under $25,000 bond on the federal charges.

Mizzou Mauls Falcons in Second Half 17-7

Martin Praises MU For Improved Play

The "near perfect" game by Missouri's muscled Tigers drew praise from Coach Ben Martin in the Air Force Academy's dressing room following the 17-7 decision by the visitors in Falcon Stadium, Saturday afternoon.

"We knew all along they had good athletes at Missouri," the AFA coach said. "Today they just cut out the mistakes they have been making in previous games."

The improved play of Mizzou, after splitting their first four games of the season and looking anything but the title contender they were supposed to be in the Big Eight race, somewhat surprisd the Air Force coaches as well as many of the Tigers' followers in the press box.

Martin said he thought Missouri showed great poise when they traveled 68 yards in 15 plays with only one minor mistake (a five yard penalty) for their third period score which just about wrapped up the game.

"A team has to have a lot of concentration to do that," Martin opined. "We (Air Force) did that once a couple of years ago and it was a career high for us.

"They had better individual athletes than we had — and when they concentrate like they were today you're not going to beat them. I'd say they played ball well enough to beat most teams today," Martin continued.

As for the second half of action and the way Missouri controlled the ball, giving the Air Force the chance to run only three plays and punt in the first 14 minutes of the third period, Martin was a little puzzled at why his team was unable to stop the Tigers.

"We weren't too effective, but they were playing 'smash' ball (running right at the Air Force middle). In that instance you have to count on them making a mistake somewhere. But they didn't.

"But they just aren't supposed to be able to run that way against the defense we used," Martin explained. They made some of their five and six yard gains straight ahead when we were in a 'gap-eight' defense. And that's not supposed to happen."

The Falcons pilot said his team used 16 different defenses to try and stop Missouri along the line of scrimmage. "We were trying everything we had to stop their running game — and boom, they went ahead anyhow."

Martin had little to say about his own team's offense — or lack of same as they again scored only once for the fourth time in five games — but he was a bit surprised that Missouri was as sharp as they were on Saturday.

Every game we've seen them play, their quarterback (Gary Lane) has thrown the ball end-over-end or into the dirt. But not this week."

Lane completed five of six passes in key situations, with the help of some sensational receiving from his teammates.

"In other games they've dropped passes right in their hands. But today they were catching them when we were hanging all over their receivers," Martin said.

"I guess they just played to their potential for the first time this year. And what a day they picked to do that!" Martin concluded.

TONS OF TIGERS — Air Force fullback Steve Amdor (32) tries to make his way for a short gain through a deep pile of Missouri linemen. This was typical of the gang tackling displayed by the Tigers of the Big Eight Conference as they cut down the Air Force offense after a first period touchdown and went on to a bruising 17-7 victory for Missouri's third straight over the Falcons in a series that started back in 1959. MID-AIR COLLISION—Missouri halfback Johnny Roland is upended by an unidentified Air Force Academy tackler as he attempts to cut around end during the game Saturday afternoon in Falcon Stadium. Also helping out on the tackle for the Falcons is center Nate Sanderson (55). The AFA stopped most of Missouri's famed end sweeps, but couldn't cope with the steady play of the middle of the Mizzou line and the straight-ahead plays during the second half. Air Force Drops Third of Season

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Missouri's burly Bengals continued to hold a jinx over the Air Force Academy as Saturday they broke through a tight first half to methodically subdue the battling but out-muscled Falcons, 17-7 before a crowd of 29,351 in Falcon Stadium.

It was the third meeting between the two schools and three straight victories for the Tigers. This marked the first time in the history of the AFA it has lost that many consecutive games to any opponent.

The sagging Air Force offense has now produced only five touchdowns in as many games with two of those coming against a mediocre Colorado State U. team. It brought the Falcons record to 2-3 in what has to be the roughest first half schedule ever and puts them on the short end of the won-lost ledger for the first time since 1961 when the Cadets finished out with only a 3-7 record.

It was Missouri's third victory in five starts, including a 1-1 mark in Big Eight conference games, but things were looking up for the Tigers as they shook off less- than- expected performance in early games to push the fast-fading Falcons around with relative ease during the latter part of the game.

As fully expected, it turned into a tussle for control of the line and Missouri's hard-charging forwards dominated during the second half as the winners marched 75 yards in the third period for the clinching touchdown.

In what was felt Missouri's best performance of the season to date, after a rather erratic start in splitting their first four games with a Big Eight contender's tag because of impressive personnel, they came from behind following a first period score by the Air Force and won going away in the final two quarters.

It turned into somewhat of a thrill-less game despite the low score for the good sized crowd, and short gains through the middle of the line took the majority of the time. In typical Missouri fashion, they played keep-away for most of the second half with two long drives eating up all but about two minutes of the third stanza.

Air Force took the opening lead in the opening quarter with the Falcons marching right in for the score after the initial kickoff. They traveled 55 yards in a dozen plays with halfback Dick Czarnota going the final yard.

But the Bengals closed the gap in the second period on a 27-yard field goal by Bill Bates and then grabbed the lead for keeps with a drive of 61 yards in but six plays with quarterback Gary Lane ripping up through the middle of the AFA defense on a busted pass play that carried the final 20 yards.

The last score of the contest came with 53 seconds remaining in the third quarter as the Tigers put together a sustained drive of 68 yards in 15 plays. Lane pitched to end Bob Ritter on a fourth and goal situation from the five and Bates added his second conversion.

For the Air Force, the key to the game undoubtedly was early in the second chapter when a second drive towards the Missouri goal failed to stay alive and the Cadets had to settle for a field goal try by Bart Holaday from the 32, which fell short.

The Falcons were moving with relative ease against the Mizzou defense to this point on new - found success with a ground attack, sprinkled with short passes by Tim Murphy. But after getting as far as the Missouri 17 and second and four, Murphy was tossed for a fat eight yard loss as he tried to spot open receivers. Another pass failed and the AFA tried the field goal which missed.

From then on the Momentum went to the Tigers and they took full charge for the rest of the contest in a brutal display of disciplined line play and ball control.

It was the passing of Lane—and several sensational leaping catches especially from halfback Earl Denny — that gave the Tigers the spark needed.

Lane flipped a soft pass to fullback Gus Otto on a third and long situation that carried 26 yards to the AF nine that set up Bates' first field goal attempt early in the second period, after rugged defensive work by the Falcon linemen thwarted what looked like a TD drive.

But Mizzou roared back and again it was a Lane pass and a basketball catch of a high pitch to Eddy with three defenders on his back that way the key to to the scoring series. The aerial floated high downfield and Denny jumped far off the ground to pull it down, despite the efforts of nearly the entire AFA backfield tugging away. That gave MU a first down at the 20, and on the next play Lane hustled his way into the end zone.

Air Force actually had the play well covered as far as the secondary pass defense, but the line failed to pressure the Missouri quarterback. He spotted a big hole in the right side of his line, took off through the spread defense, and simply outran the Falcons to the goal flag.

Scoring Summary

Air Force	7	0	0	0	— 7
Missouri	0	10	7	0	— 17

AFA — Czarnota 1 run (Holaday kick)
MU — FG Bates 27. MU — Lane 20 run (Bates kick). MU — Ritter 5 pass from Lane (Bates kick).
Attendance 29,351.

There was but 1:16 left in the half.

Through the first 14 minutes of the third period, the Air Force had the ball for only three plays and a punt, and Missouri gobbled up nearly the entire quarter on two drives. The first was halted at midfield and they were forced to punt, but the second went 68 yards and the final tally.

This time the Tigers were rolling right down the middle of the AFA line with fullback Carl Reese and halfback Charlie Browning eating up most of the yardage. The only pass Missouri threw during the second half was the scoring play, and again it took a sensational catch of Lane's toss.

Left end Ritter, a 6-foot 182-pound senior, cut across the end zone and with safetyman Paul Stein riding on his shoulders he leaped to grab the ball which was thrown right down the middle.

The AFA might have stopped them on this drive except for a gutty play by halfback Ted Saussele. The Tigers had been pushed back to the 14 with goal to go on a penalty, but Saussele took a pitch from Lane around right end and he bulled his way for extra yardage to the six. Three plays later Lane threw his fourth down TD pass.

In to the fourth period the Air Force was caught in a catch-up situation and they had to go to a passing game. They hardly got out of their tracks, however, as Coach Ben Martin tried defensive specialist Stein as offensive quarterback.

One of Stein's passes was intercepted by Missouri's Ken Boston at the AFA 45 and returned to the 31. But the Tigers failed to take advantage of the break and Bates missed another field goal from 43 yards away on fourth down.

The Falcons did move to midfield twice in the closing minutes, but ran out of downs at the Missouri 45 on the first sortie and a fumble after a pass reception by Czarnota with only seconds remaining ended the last Air Force threat at the Mizzou 35.

Neither team had a standout in the final statistics, with three players all taking game honors in running with 43 yards. Fullback Steve Amdor was tops for the Falcons, and Reese and Brown each had the same total for the Tigers.

Murphy completed seven of 12 passes to stay above the .500 mark for the season, but most came too late to make much difference. Lane hit on five of six passing attempts for by far his best day of the season. And both punters, Ken Jaggers of the Air Force and Lane for Missouri, averaged near the 45 yard mark on four punts each.

Mizzou Line Play Key to Win

Playing the finest of the season so far, there were more than a few of the 29,351 in Falcon Stadium on Saturday who were somewhat surprised at the smooth way Missouri University mashed the Air Force Academy in the 17-7 decision for the Tigers third straight triumph over the Air Force.

But not Coach Dan Devine. "I feel we've played a little better each week and we finally came around to play the kind of game we should," the Missouri coach said in the dressing room after his team had just maintained a clean slate against military academies. (They have also beaten Navy twice).

"This team has really wanted to win all year," Devine continued. "They've played that way and I'd say they were tremendously intense on getting a victory today."

The Mizzou mentor praised his line for the work against the Falcon forwards, especially in the second half as they controlled the ball nearly the entire third period. They ate up so much time in two long drives in the third period that by the time the Air Force got the ball in the last quarter there was hardly enough to make up the deficit.

"Our whole line took off real well," Devine said of the charge put on the second half. "I had the feeling today everybody wanted to do well. And they did."

As for the first four games of the season in which the Missouri team was slightly less than expected in winning only two, Devine said, "We've had difficulty sustaining our running attack but we felt it was coming along well today and so we stayed with it."

Missouri, which threw only one pass in beating Kansas State 7-0 last week, tossed six and quarterback Gary Lane connected on five of them for 74 yards — most coming in key situations and on third downs when long yardage was needed. He completed one on fourth down for five yards and a touchdown to end Bob Ritter in the third period. It proved to be the clincher for the Tigers.

"It was the first time this season we've hit on key downs," Devine said. "But I think we needed a game like this to give confidence back to Lane. We were getting the big plays when we needed them.'

The Missouri coach praised the Falcons as "the best defensive Air Force team we've played. And there was nothing wrong with their offense on that first drive for a touchdown."

Devine said the "I" formation used by the Air Force for the first time this season on the opening drive "threw us off some. But they executed it well. That formation won't hurt you unless they run it well, and they did. We tried to make adjustments on the sidelines during the first half, which is hard to do."

Missouri cut off the Falcons running to but 22 yards in the second half after making defensive changes in the dressing room during the intermission.

"It took our best effort of the season to win today," Devine said. "This was by far our finest game."

Missouri's pilot disclaimed he has ever felt this year's backfield is the "best ever" at the school, especially compared to the 1960 edition which trounced the Air Force 34-8 and went on to win the Big Eight and drop Navy in the Orange Bowl.

"I think these kids were put to a great disadvantage by people dreaming they have great abilities. But they're only sophomore and juniors and lack a great deal of experience. Those guys on the '60 team were mostly seniors," Devine said.

"But I've been impressed with this Air Force team, especially the way they played against Washington and Michigan. Notre Dame pushed them around a lot last week — but Notre Dame would push us around, too," he said.

Somerville picked off Tom Van Galder's pass on the Colorado four and was finally stopped by Tom Vaughn on the Iowa State four. Three plays later, Bernie McCall scored from the three to conclude the game's scoring early in the second quarter.

The Buffaloes, losers in their first four games, marched 76 yards on the ground the first time they had the ball. Robert Lee, who picked up 41 yards in six carries during the drive, scored the touchdown from two yards out.

Iowa State, defeated for the fourth straight time in Big Eight Conference play, tied the score in the first quarter on a 39-yard drive set up by Eppie Barney's 14-yard punt runback.

Barney ran for 11 yards in three tries and caught a 27-yard pass from Van Galder, leaving the Cyclones only a yard away from a touchdown. Vaughn scored the touchdown—the 21st of his three-year career. Vaughn also kicked the extra point to give him a school scoring record of 133 points.

Florida Blanks South Carolina

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — With methodical precision, unbeaten Florida polished off winless South Carolina 37-0 Saturday in a display of football power, finesse and depth.

The pattern of the rout was set early when Jack Harper streaked 73 yards from scrimmage on a touchdown jaunt. First-stringers Larry Dupree and Charles Casey also got in on the scoring act before the second team carried on unhindered.

Tom Shannon and sophomore Steve Spurrier quarterbacked with equal effectiveness while two defensive units thoroughly squashed South Carolina's attack.

Florida's pass defense, the nation's best, held Dan Reeves to six completions for a total gain of only 43 yards.

T-Birds Handle East, 14-0 To Gain Lead in SCL Race

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO—Wasson's defense, which had endured some anxious moments in earlier games this fall, came of age with staggering effectiveness here Saturday night as Gib Funk's Thunderbirds mashed Pueblo East 14-0 and took a giant step toward the 1964 South Central League championship.

The clutch triumph, accomplished before a crowd of over 5,000 at Pueblo's Public Schools Stadium, propelled the T-Birds to the top of the SCL standings with a 3-0 record and dropped previously unbeaten East into second place. The win was also the fourth straight for Funk's swiftly - improving team following three early season defeats outside the conference.

With the boys up front enjoying what was easily their finest effort of the campaign, the Thunderbirds returned to their patented ball control game of past season Saturday night. Wasson's offense included just one pass attempt during the evening as quarterback Jim Smith sent a bevy of hard-running backs squirming through the East line.

Smith, whose flashy sprint outs have provided the bulk of Thunderbird yardage in recent outings, turned over the majority of the running work to his backfield mates Saturday. But, as in the past, it was the electrifying Wasson field general who came up with the crucial fourth down yardage near the goal line on both T-Bird touchdown drives.

Fullback Bob Toof, who was sidelined a week ago with an injury, saw only spot duty this time out — but most of it came in the right spots. Toof's 69 yards in 10 carries was tops among the Wasson backs and it was his 18 yard sprint late in the third period that set up the clinching Thunderbird touch - down which he eventually carried over from seven yards away.

Nevertheless, this was a night for the linemen. Wasson's forwards ripped open holes in the key situations for their driving ball - carriers and turned in a stout all around defensive performance. Their work along the line of scrimmage was excellent and the pursuit vastly improved over previous games this fall.

The Thunderbirds' statistical edge was actually greater than is revealed by the final figures. A 40 yard loss on the next to last play of the game when a center snap eluded a punter ate a sizeable chunk out of the otherwise impressive rushing statistics. Still Wasson had an overall margin of 175 to 133 on the ground and totaled 10 first downs to eight for East. Both teams lost a pair of fumbles and the T-Birds had their offense further blunted by 65 yards in penalties.

The Thunderbirds, with the aid of some nifty work by their hard - charging forwards, and two key runs by the slippery half touchdown less than halfway into the opening period.

Following the kickoff, the Wasson line stopped East cold and Don Montoya dropped back to punt from his own 48. The snap, however, was low and after Montoya quickly grabbed it in an attempt to still get the ball away, he missed it with his foot and was thrown at the 31.

Smith darted to the 19 on the T-Birds' first offensive play and after a motion penalty had apparently killed the drive at the 14, Smith slipped around the left side and scampered to the four. Bob Oyler cracked over on the folowing play and Charles Steel added the extra point from placement.

A fumble recovery at the East 15 by Budgie Hamilton late in the quarter gave Wasson another opportunity but this one was thwarted by a holding infraction. Later, early in the second period, the T-Birds drove in to the 36 only to have a boble of their own kill the push. Neither team mustered a threat during the remainder of the first half.

Funk apparently lit a torch to the Wasson attack during halftime, however, for the T-Birds took the kickoff at their own 22 and soared downfield to the East 26 where a fumble crushed the threat.

Later in the period, a short 12 yard punt by East gave the Thunderbirds' possession at the Eagles' 48 and this time they did not waste the opportunity. With Toof's 18 yard journey through the left side of the line providing the spark, Wasson moved across in 10 plays. The drive threatened to stall at the East 10 but Smith, with another great individual effort, struggled out of the arms of a trio of tacklers for a first down at the seven. Toof then whipped over on the next play, with a brilliant second effort at the five carrying him across. Steel again converted.

East refused to surrender, however, marching swiftly downfield following the kickoff on its only sustained drive of the evening. This one came to a halt at the Wasson five when Hamilton came up with his second fumble recovery and the Eagles were not able to threaten seriously again.

Wasson now resumes its quest for the title at home next Friday night when the Thunderbirds host dangerous Pueblo Centennial in what will certainly stack up as another clutch contest.

Widefield Posts Squeaker Over Canon City, 20-19

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Despite the brillant passing of the Tigers' front line quarterback Don Scavarda, the visiting Canon City footballers were denied their second successive Will Rogers League victory by a mere point Saturday afternoon.

For the jubilant Gladiators, it capped their homecoming activities when Norm Theiss' fired-up Widefield gridders had to put on a defensive stand to pull out a 20-19 squeaker over Canon City in the only WRL outing Saturday.

Scavarda put a scare into the Gladiators with his aerials and nearly pulled the trick. Scavarda completed nine of 14 pass attempts for 129 yards gained passing.

The Tigers' poised signal caller tossed all three TD aerials and Scavarda tried to hit his favorite target, Dennis Meese who scored two touchdowns, for the crucial PAT but defensive halfback Don Black saved the day for the Gladiators when he reflected Scavarda's aerial.

And the Tigers lost their second WRL game by a single point!

The Canon City aggregation under the new management of former University of Colorado assistant coach Don Stimack dropped their first WRL encounter to talented Air Academy High, 7-6, two weeks ago.

With the Canon City victory under their belts, the Gladiators are currently deadlocked with Cheyenne Mountain for the WRL pennant chase. However, the Gladiators will receive an acid test of their ability when they tangle with the powerful Cheyenne team Saturday afternoon at the latter's home field.

A victory for Cheyenne would put the 1963 State Class-AA champions one game from clinching the first WRL championship as the Tribe then must hurdle Canon City the following Saturday, Oct. 31.

In the Widefield - Canon City tilt, the Tigers dominated the game statistics by compiling a total of 292 yards gained compared to the Glads' 185 yards.

The Tigers picked up 163 net yards rushing and 129 yards passing. For the Gladiators, the home team accumulated 138 net yards rushing and picked up 47 yards passing.

With 2:46 remaining in the first period, Widefield's big fullback Tom Nigbur scored from 38 yards out as the 206-pound speedster swept the Tiger's flank. Quarterback Dave Theiss booted the PAT.

Eldon Lee, the Glads' hard-driving halfback, crashed over from three yards out to post the second Widefield tally with only two seconds left in the first half.

The aroused Tigers came back from intermission refreshed and managed to get on the scoreboard after the Glads were forced to punt. After two aerials from Scavarda, the Tigers were at the Widefield 18 when Scavarda hit Meese for the TD with 7:21 left in the third period.

In the fourth period the Canon City squad put on a last minute rally in attempt to pull out the victory. Scavarda hit Meese for a 10-yard TD play and Ron Slater added the PAT.

With only one second remaining in the game, the poised Canon City quarterback hit end Dave Eslick for the final TD which carried six yards.

Then Scavarda elected to try for the crucial PAT which would have tied the game when he dropped back and passed to Meese. But Widefield's Don Black knocked down the pass and the Gladiators pulled out the victory.

Wyoming Gains Fifth Win by Beating TW

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Undefeated University of Wyoming combined a strong passing attack and soccer-style kicking by George Squires Saturday to down Texas Western 20-6 in a non-conference football game.

The victory ran Wyoming's streak to five for the year. Texas Western has yet to win this season.

All of Wyoming's scoring came through the air, either on parses or by the English-born Squires' right foot. He booted a pair of field goals in three attempts and kicked two out of two extra points.

California Lutheran Gains 29-6 Win Over Early-Fading Colorado College

By DICK FOSTER

The Tigers of Colorado College showed some effort early in their Saturday afternoon contest, but that effort was gradually worn down by a strong California Lutheran University squad, and the Bengals finally fell, 29-6. As the California "Kingsmen" warmed up, CC's muscle showed less and less.

The Tigers hit the field with a strong intentions of satisfying a much larger than normal homecoming crowd. And things went all right for awhile. The Bengals had most of the authority defensively, and they moved better than average on the offensive side, constructing a 51 yard touchdown drive in the first quarter.

But the Kingsmen began to charge that pattern in the second quarter, and by halftime the Tigers had losses totaling 60 yards. Much of that was due to a 195 lb. defensive end named Steve Proehl, who the Tigers had trouble with all day. Proehl tacked a major portion of CC's 98 yards in total losses on the Bengals by slamming either Warner Reeser or Mike Denson for big losses while they attempted passes.

In the second half, there was little question of competition. CC had possession of the ball for only six plays in the third period, and they never got past the Kingsmen's 40 in the second half. The Bengal defense had developed big gaps, which gave way to 255 yards on the ground and an additional 171 in the air for the Californians, all totalled.

But it took two quarters for the Kingsmen to warm up. They took the opening kickoff and moved to the Tiger 39, but four plays later, due to penalties and Tiger defense, had to kick from their own 14.

They saw the ball for few plays after that in the first period, as most of it was consumed by CC's lone touchdown drive which originated on their own 49. Ray Jones did most of the work in moving to the Lutheran 14. From there Denson passed to Lee Muller for CC's six points, with 3:25 in the quarter.

Lutheran dented the score - board early in the second period after a 17 yard loss on fourth down gave the Kingsmen the ball on CC's 11, and they kicked a field goal from the eight three plays later, as the Tiger toughness continued.

California just snuck their first touchdown under the first half gun. Tim Gaudio launched a 21 yard aerial to Lynn Thompson in the endzone The Lutherans had been all the way to the Tiger two, but one penalty and one big loss gave them fourth and goal on the 21, and they went over in that situation.

As far as chances went, it was still a tossup at halftime, but the Tigers shoved out of the contest in the third quarter. They had the ball for one series of downs and moved from their own 27 back to their own 17. Lutheran hoarded the ball and racked up six more points on Tim Roettger's two-yard plunge, which ended a drive begun on the Californian's own 45.

Two more tallies in the fourth period iced things for the visiting club. The Tigers punted midway in the quarter and on Lutheran's first play from scrimmage on their own 35, John Leubtow sped 65 yards for six more points. Engdahl added the point after.

Lutheran's final talley came with 10 seconds left in the contest when Roettger passed 24 yards to Skip Mooney. Engdahl again added the extra point. The Tigers were left a little time and a big defeat.

Fort Lewis Wins Third Straight Tilt

DURANGO, Colo. (AP) —Fort Lewis won its third straight football victory Saturday by upsetting a heavier Adams State team 19-7.

Paying four-year college ball for the second year, Fort Lewis took advantage of four Adams State fumbles and intercepted three passes to take an early lead over the favored Rocky Mountain Conference foe.

Cheto Moreno set up Fort Lewis' first tally by running an intercepted Adams State pass deep into the visitors' territory. Adams State held, but Fort Lewis got on the scoreboard with a 31-yard field goal.

Late in the first period, Fort Lewis moved 46 yards in six plays for a touchdown.

Horned Frogs Lick Cadets In Uprising

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian repelled a second half uprising Saturday and snapped a four-game losing streak with a 14-9 victory over Texas A&M winless Cadets.

The Frogs built up a 14-0 halftime lead but were forced to protect their advantage against furious land and air assault directed by quarterback Eddie McKaughan.

McKaughan, who replaced Dan McIlhany after a second-quarter injury, guided the Aggies to a third-quarter touchdown that trimmed TCU's lead to five points. He scored from the 10.

An errant pitchout from TCU quarterback Kent Nix to halfback Jim Fauver resulted in a safety several minutes earlier.

Boston College Clips Unbeaten Cincinnati

By CHARLES McGILLICUDDY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — A superior defensive effort by its big, mobile line made the breaks for Boston College Saturday, as the Eagles dumped Cincinnati from the undefeated ranks 10-0 in a game played in a steady downpour.

Capt. Bill Cronin recovered a Brig Owen fumble on the Cincinnati 15 to set up the BC touchdown and other fumble recoveries halted Cincinnati marches, once on the Boston 11-yard line.

With the rain holding down both teams' aerial games, BC unveiled some new maneuvers for its running game, including plays run from an unbalanced formation, and put together a 77-yard march that set up the opening score.

When the Bearcat defense stiffened inside the 15, Gordon Kutz kicked a 37-yard field goal.

The Eagles took quick advantage of Cronin's fumble recovery and ploughed in for the touchdown in six plays. Don Moran and Ron Gentili alternated carries to move the ball to the one and Bobby Shann bulled off right tackle for the touchdown. Kutz's kick then wrapped up the scoring.

BC made another serious scoring effort in the last quarter after John Walsh intercepteda long Owen pass and carried it back to th Bearcats' 18-yard line.

Quarterback Bill Foley rolled to the right and moved inside the Cincinnati five-yard line, but he fumbled on the tackle and John Power recovered for Cincinnati.

Foiled Conversion Gives Hogs 14-13 Win Over Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Top-ranked Texas, fighting for a national football championship, gambled on a two-point conversion attempt in the closing minutes Saturday night and lost, falling to underdog Arkansas 14-13.

Texas, with a tie almost assured because the Longhorns have not missed a conversion attempt in their last 41 tries, went for a victory on a conversion pass attempt that fell short. Then an onside kickoff failed, and Arkansas ran out the last minute on the clock.

The victory snapped Texas' 15-game winning streak and halted the Steers try for their second consecutive national college football championship.

It also put Arkansas in a good position for the Southwest Conference championship with a 3-record, and a good shot at their first national title if someone should stumble.

The Razorbacks were No. 8 in the last poll.

Arkansas' first touchdown came in the second quarter when safety Ken Hatfield, college football's leading punt returner in 1963, dazzled the capacity crowd of 65,700 by hauling in Ernie Koy's long punt at his 19 and sprinting 81 yards for a touchdown. Tom McKnelly kicked the conversion.

Texas, fighting for its life in the second half, tied the game in the fourth quarter when Phil Harris raced two yards for a touchdown the first time he carried the ball.

M-State Drives To 48-7 Win

STARKVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi State's vicious line play and perfectly balanced attack smashed unbeaten Southern Mississippi 48-7 Saturday.

State drove for touchdowns four of the six times it had the ball in the first half. Southern's line was outplayed from start to finish and the backs were unable to cope with the State offense.

The Maroons scored five times on runs and twice on passes. They played Southern on equal terms in the fourth period when the MSU squad included players whose names did not even appear on the program.

Syracuse Earns Hard Win Over Lions, 21-14

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — A 38-yard pass interception return by Roger Smith set up a last minute touchdown by Walley Mahle, giving seventh-ranked Syracuse a hard earned 21-14 football victory over Penn State Saturday.

Smith snared the errant pass on his 40-yard line and raced to the Penn State 22. Seven plays later, Mahle scored from the four with just 37 seconds left.

Syracuse, rated No. 1 in the East, had its hands full as the Nittany Lions combined a rugged defense with a touch of surprise to take a 14-7 halftime lead.

But Syracuse, 4-1, unleashed its vaunted ground attack in the third period behind the running of Floyd Little and Jim Nance to march 64 yards for the tying touchdown. Nance carried over from the five and Smith booted the extra point, knotting the count 14-14.

Little electrified some 46,000 fans with a 71-yard touchdown run on a punt return that gave Syracuse a 7-0 first period lead.

Penn State, 1-4, however, stunned the Orange with two touchdowns in the second quarter, the second highlighted by a brilliant 22-yard pass play on a fake punt.

Frank Hershey, a quarterback relegated to kicking duties, flipped the pass to Gerry Sandusky on a fourth and 10 situation at the Penn State 44. Five plays later, fullback Tom Urbanik smashed over from the 10.

Penn State's first touchdown came on a one-yard plunge by substitute quarterback Jack White, after Hershey intercepted a pass on the Penn State 46.

The final period developed into a defensive battle between the two teams with the Syracuse pass interception the big difference.

Nance carried the brunt of the Syracuse attack in the second half with 79 yards on 17 carries. Only once did Syracuse pass in the final 30 minutes after Penn State intercepted three in the second quarter.

Teenager Leads U.S.'s Fourth Sweep Of Swimming Events at Olympics

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Ginny Duenkel, a 15-year-old New Jersey schoolgirl, led an American sweep in the women's 400 meter freestyle Sunday and Bob Webster made a successful defense of his platform diving crown as the United States' swimmers continued their near-incredible domination of the Tokyo Olympic Games.

The victories pushed America's horde of Olympic hardware to 59 medals, including 25 gold, 17 silver and 17 bronze. Russia, which has yet to start competition in some of its strongest sports, such as gymnastics, has 33 medals, 11 of them gold.

The blonde Miss Duenkel, a student at West Orange, N.J., high school, was timed in an Olympic record 4:43.3, beating the mark made in the trials by Marilyn Ramenofsky of Phoenix.

Miss Ramenofsky was second in 4:44.6 and Terri Stickles, San Mateo, Calif., third in 4:47.2 as the United States chalked up its fourth 1-2-3 sweep of a swimming event.

The others came in the women's 400 meter individual medley, the men's 200-meter backstroke and the men's springboard diving.

The swimmers have contributed 35 medals to America's total, including 14 gold.

Carl Robie of Drexel Hill, Pa., and Fred Schmidt, Northbrook, Ill., finished second and third, respectively, behind Australia's Kevin Berry, in the men's 200 meter butterfly finals. Barry was timed in a world record 2:06.6.

And the United States' unbeaten basketball team continued to roll along, smashing Korea 116-50 for its seventh straight victory and last of the preliminary round.

Webster, the Santa Ana, Calif., defending champion, had to come from behind, climbing from sixth place in the last three dives, to continue the U.S. domination of platform diving. The U.S. has failed to win the event only once since 1912.

Tom Gompf of Dayton, Ohio, earned a bronze medal for third place and increased the U.S., swimming medal total to 30. In all, Americans have won 59 medals, far ahead of Russia's runner-up total of 33.

Webster started the day in the sixth place, lagging behind Italy's Klaus Dibiasi, who led after seven preliminary dives.

Dibiasi retained what appeared to be a commanding lead after the first of the last three dives, but Webster slipped into the lead on the second dive and dramatically clinched his second consecutive title on his final dive.

His winning dive was an impeccable 2½ somersault in tuck position with a 2.6 degree of difficulty. The largest degree of difficulty is 3.0.

U.S. coach Dick Kimball had been far from satisfied with the performances of his divers Saturday. But Webster made up for that Sunday.

After the first dive he trailed Dibiasi 114.18 points to 111.38. Gompf had rushed into second place with 12.23.

But on the second dive, Webster received 18.72 points while Dibiasi earned 15.60 points and fell behind by three-tenths of a point.

Webster then performed brilliantly on the last dive for 18.48 points and a winning total of 148.58. Dibiasi's last effort brought him 17.76 points for a total of 147.54.

Gompf, meanwhile, picked up 18.89 points and a 146.57 total, good for third place.

At the same time, Edith McGuire of Atlanta moved into the semifinals of the women's 200 meter dash, winning her heat in 23.4 seconds, the fastest time of any competitor.

Miss McGuire won a silver medal in the 100 meter dash. The winner of that event, Wyomia Tyus of Griffin, Ga., was not entered in the 200.

LSU Line Leads Win Over Cats

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Louisiana State used a sterling performance by substitute quarterback Billy Ezell and an overpowering exhibition of line play to beat Kentucky 27-7 Saturday night in a Southeastern Conference football game.

Ezell, a junior who started in place of the injured Pat Screen, took up where he left off last year when Screen was hurt and masterfully directed the Tiger offense.

It was apparent in the early stages that Kentucky was no match for the Tiger line.

The Bengal defense broke Kentucky's back with 10:53 left in the third quarter when White Graves picked off a Rick Norton pass on the LSU one and raced 99 yards for a touchdown.

The marker gave LSU a 17-7 lead and made the Tigers' work easy for the rest of the night. The touchdown also meant something special to Graves, a senior halfback. It was his first in three years in a Bengal uniform.

The Tigers iced it eight minutes later when Doug Moreau booted a 27-yard field goal, his second of the night.

BYU Shuts Out Pacific

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Quarterback Virgil Carter passed for one touchdown and ran for another to lead Brigham Young University to a 21-0 football victory over University of Pacific Saturday.

It was BYU's first victory of the season against four losses.

Pittsburgh, Miami Play To Thrilling 20-20 Tie

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Eric Crabtree ran 67 yards for a touchdown on a power play Saturday night and Pittsburgh salvaged a hair-raising 20-20 tie with Miami's young football team.

With a chance to give Pitt the victory by kicking the extra point, Jim Jones missed his first one of the season as the ball sailed wide to the left.

With nine seconds left in the game, Bruce Brinkos pounced on a Pitt fumble at the Panther 21 and Miami's kicker, Don Cifra, also had a chance to pull the game out. But he failed, too, on a field goal attempt.

Andy Sixkiller, a fleet-footed Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma who played a magnificent defensive game, sped 71 yards for an early touchdown with a Panther punt in the opening period.

Bob Biletnikoff then raced six yards for another score to make it 13-0 and the Hurricanes, seeking their first win of the season, seemed on the way. Until less than five minutes were left in the half, Pitt didn't get outside its own 37.

Only 29 seconds were left when Ken Lucas threw eight yards to Mike Rosborough for the first Pitt touchdown.

The panthers snatched the lead at 14-13 in the second period on a one-yard run by Barry McKnight but Miami promptly took it back with a pass from Biletnikoff to Jack Sims. Sims.

Washington Edges Stanford On Punt Return

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Steve Bramwell, smallest player on the field, set up the only touchdown Saturday with a twisting 34-yard punt return that enabled Washington to defeat Stanford 6-0 in a Pacific Athletic Conference football game.

The 150-pound Bramwell took the punt down to the Indian 23 in the second quarter. Five plays later, fullback Junior Coffey blasted over from the one. The conversion attempt failed.

The Huskey defense squared the defending champions' league record at 1-1 and kept the Indians winless in three conference contests. After two thrusts into Washington territory in the first period, the Indians never again crossed the 50.

There were six unsuccessful field goal attempts — five by Washington — and none came close.

Illini Release Butkus as Wolverines Fall to Defense

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Illinois overpowered Minnesota's offense with a massive Dick Butkus-led defensive effort and downed the Gophers 14-0 Saturday with two breaks cashed for touchdowns in the second quarter.

The Illini, rebounding from last week's loss to Ohio State, simply buried Minnesota with a choking defense that intercepted five passes and grabbed two Gopher fumbles.

Illinois staved off one Minnesota penetration to he Illini four-yard line in the second period, then kept the Gophers outside their 40 the rest of the game.

Minnesota, with first string quarterback John Hankinson benched most of the game by Coach Murray Warmath, had only one sustained drive behind reserve Larry Peterson.

Illinois pilfered four of Peterson's passes the second half, when the Gophers had the ball only seven times.

The Illini urned a steal of the ball by Butkus and a pass interception by Dave Mueller into second quarter touchdowns.

Butkus stole the ball from the Gophers' Mike Reid at the Minnesota 35 late in the first period. Illinois scored in seven plays

What are the most points a football team can score in the fewest minutes . . . Well, the all-time record in a big-time game was set by the New York Giants who once scored the incredible total of 21 points in 35 SECONDS! . . . It happened at Pittsburgh Oct. 7, 1945 . . . With 50 seconds to go in the first half ,the Giants scored a TD . . . Then they kicked-off, Pittsburgh fumbled, the Giants recovered, and on the first half, the Giants scored threw a TD pass . . . On the next kickoff, Pittsburgh again fumbled, Bill Piccollo of New York scooped up the ball, and ran for a TD . . . There were then 15 seconds to go . . . Southern California Air Game Stalls As Buckeyes Score 17-0 Triumph

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's second-ranked Buckeyes shot down Southern California's air attack and sent fullback Willard Sander on a ground-eating rampage Saturday in defeating the Trojans 17-0 before 84,315 paying customers and a nationwide television audience.

It was Ohio State's fourth straight conquest, Southern California's first shutout in 25 games and the crowd was the third largest ever to make the Buckeye Stadium bulge at its seams

The Ohioans, seeking to avenge last year's 32-3 loss to the Trojans, most one-sided defeat suffered by Coach Woody Hayes in his 14 years here, marched 64 yards in 15 plays for a score the first time they had the ball

Sander, the 215-pound junior fullback from Cincinnati who gained 120 yards as he carried 29 times, plunged the last two yards for the counter.

In the second period, Don Unverferth passed 10 yards to Greg Lashutka for the second Ohio score after Tom Kiehfuss had recovered Mike Garrett's fumble on the 10. The Bucks put the icing on the cake with Bob Funk's 24-yard field goal, his sixth of the year, as a 75-yard drive was stalled.

Southern Cal's biggest threats were snuffed out by three pass interceptions and two fumbles and its nearest bid to score was erased by a peculiar penalty.

Late in the third period the Trojans, aided by a 28-yard pass from Craig Fertig to end John Thomas, reached the Buckeye eight. On third down Fertig passed to sophomore halfback Ray Cahill in the end zone, but the Trojan back was called for offensive pass interference.

On the touchback ruling, the ball was given to Ohio on the 20-yard line from where the Bucks moved to Funk's three-pointer.

Purdue Upsets 21-20

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Purdue quarterback Bob Griese passed for two touchdowns and the defense contained Michigan's attack as the Boilermakers upset the fifth-ranked Wolverines 21-20 Saturday.

Michigan gambled for two points and a possible win after Bob Timberlake rambled 54 yards for a fourth quarter touchdown. But Timberlake was caught short of the goal line.

Griese passed 66 yards to Jim Morel late in the first period and hit Randy Minniear on a three-yard scoring toss in the third quarter for the final Purdue touchdown.

Griese then kicked his third straight conversion for what proved to be the winning point.

The teams traded touchdowns through the first half as Michigan scored on a four-yard run by Timberlake and a 17-yard pass from Timberlake to Steve Smith.

Minniear went over from two yards out for Purdue's second touchdown.

Michigan advanced into Purdue territory one more time after Timberlake's long run. But fullback Dave Fisher fumbled and Purdue recovered on the 42.

Earlier, Michigan marched to the Boilermaker 11 where Jim Detwiler carried to the three, fumbled and Purdue recovered in its own end zone.

the first half, the Badgers stormed back after the intermission to hold Hawkeye passing ace Gary Snook in check and score three times for their second victory in four starts.

Wisconsin, which showed little punch in being routed by Notre Dame and Purdue, ripped Iowa defenses with a rushing assault that staggered the Hawkeyes, who had won three straight.

Kurek, running with reckless abandon for the first time since he helped the Badgers to the conference title as a sophomore two years ago, piled up 103 yards in 29 carries. The 205-pound fullback scored one touchdown on a one-yard plunge which nailed down the triumph.

The Badgers, who missed three field goal attempts in the first half, jumped into a 10-0 second period lead on a 35-yard three-point boot by Gary Pinnow and a 20-yard pass from Hal Brandt to Lou Jung.

However, Snook rallied his charges with his passing, directing a 74-yard march, capped by Dalton Kimble's slant off tackle from the Wisconsin three. On the ensuing kickoff, Ron Smith fumbled the return and Iowa recovered at the Baddger 35.

Snook, who entered the game as the nation's sixth ranked passer, needed only one play. He spotted Rich O'Hara, fired a strike and the lanky end pulled away to complete the scoring maneuver.

Ron Frain picked off a Snook pass early in the third period and returned it 31 yards to the Iowa one. On the second play, Brandt snaked for the touchdown to put his mates in front to stay.

TD Passes Send Miami Past Cats

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Ernie Kellermann, a scrambling quarterback, threw touchdown passes of 49 and 54 yards Saturday, leading Miami of Ohio to a major 28-27 upset of Northwestern.

Kellermann turned the tide in the second quarter when he hit John Erisman with a 54-yard touchdown pass to put the Redskins ahead 19-13. Kellermann then held a faked kick, got up and ran for two points, giving the Redskins a 21-13 halftime advantage.

Northwestern put on a 91-yard touchdown drive in the final quarter with Steve Murphy plunging for his third touchdown of the game with a little more than seven minutes to play. to tie the game but Ed Philpott knocked down Tommy Myers' pass.

The two teams traded touchdowns in the final minutes of play but the Wildcats were never in position to take the lead.

After closing the gap to 21-19, Northwestern tried one on-side kick. The maneuver backfired with Miami taking over on the Wildcat 45 and driving for a touchdown with Don Peddie carrying on the final five yards.

Northwestern roared back on the passing of Tommy Myers for the final touchdown. Woody Campbell scored it by going over from the two-yard line. A two-point pass play from Myers to Mike Donaldson only helped cut the Miami margin of victory to one point.

AFA JayVees Tip Prepsters

A versatile and powerful Air Force junior varsity football team crushed the USAFA Prep School here, Friday, 43-14, as Coach Bernie Raetz' Jayvees stretched their unbeaten string to twelve, in a skein that dates back to the 1962 season.

Junior Phil Bechtel, a speed merchant from Fort Worth, Tex., almost single handidly crushed the Huskies, as he toted the ball 18 times for 155 yards and scored two touchdowns. His first, with less than three minutes gone in the first period, was a 32-yarder.

The win gives the junior varsity a 2-0 mark for the season, while the loss was the first for the Prep School. The Husky record stands at 4-1 for the 1964 campaign.

Al Lombardo, pint sized quarterback for the Prep School, led the Husky attack by completing ten of 17 aerials for 81 yards and one touchdown.

The Jayvees put the game out of reach by running up a 27-0 score in the first half.

27-20 Big Ten football victory over Michigan State.

The Hoosiers, beaten in three straight conference games, came from 13 points behind late in the second quarter and won in the face of near-perfect passing by Michigan State's Steve Juday, who hit 16 of 20 tosses and pitched for all three Spartan touchdowns.

However, Juday's only pass in the third quarter was intercepted by Ken Hollister of Indiana, and two fumbles in the fourth quarter killed the Spartans' last hopes and set up Indiana's fourth touchdown.

Juday and his receivers put on an amazing show when they got the ball, but Indiana played a fine possession game, especially in the crucial third quarter.

Badar, criticized for failing to get off a field goal attempt as time ran out in Indiana's one-point loss to Iowa a week ago, came back superbly with passes, runs and sharp signal-calling.

He hit 13 of 32 passes for 215 yards and two touchdowns, Bill Malinchak taking scoring tosses of six and 11 yards, Badar also scored the clincher on a five-yard sweep.

Falcon Harriers Defeat Cowboys

Making a clean sweep for Air Force this morning, the Falcon cross country team scored one its biggest wins ever, knocking off powerful Oklahoma State, 23-33.

Coach Arne Arnesen's squad was again paced by Junior Jim Murphy. "Mercury Jim" covered the four mile course in 21:07. The Air Force's Bob Foley captured second place, as the Cadets finished first, second, fourth and fifth.

Oklahoma State's highest finish was a third by Chris McCubbins who ran a time of 21:44.

The Falcon harriers, shaping up to be one of the most formidable cross country squads in Air Force history, is now 5-1 for the season. Their next meet will be a Saturday clash with Boston College.

Academy Soccer Team Wins, 6-4

The Air Force soccer team, coming from behind in the second half, defeated Iowa State University, 6-4, this morning at the Academy's soccer field. Iowa State has been the Midwest soccer champions the past two years.

The Falcons, coached by Capt. season, were led by Jim Thames and Jim Perry who each tallied two goals. The Falcons' other scores were made by Bob Heaton and Dave Mossbrook.

The Falcons, coached by Capt. Carmen Annillo, were trailing 4-2 at the end of the third quarter. However, fine defensive plays by John Gritsavage, Al Iudicello, Harry Rodman and John Blaha held back the strong Iowa State offense while the Falcons scored four goals to overcome the Cyclones, and give the Air Force the win.

Next game for the Falcon booters will come Saturday, when they journey to Massachusetts, and a game there with Stonehill College, one of the top ranked teams in the East.

Virginia Defense Tips Army, 35-14

By ED YOUNG

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Incredible Virgina, turning savage on defense, converted five Army mistakes into points Saturday and shot down the blundering Cadets 35-14 in a major football upset.

Stunned when Army's Rollie Stichweh scooped up a fumble on the game's first play from scrimmage and ran 74 yards for a touchdown, the twice-beaten Cavaliers pulled themselves together and never gave the Cadets another chance.

Twenty of their points before an hysterical crowd of 26,500 came in the second period when they manufactured touchdowns from a pass interception, a poor army punt, and a bad snap from center on another attempted kick.

Sophomore Carroll Jarvis accounted for two of the Virginia scores on a run of two yards and a 10-yard pass from Tom Hodges. But on this dark afternoon under lowering skies it was defense that won for the Cavaliers, never before this season distinguished for their feats in this department.

Twice Virginia stopped Army inside its 20, and after Stichweh's six-point dash moments after the opening kickoff, the Cadets crossed the midfield stripe into Virginia territory only three times—once after recovering a fumble.

Attendance 45,800

Not a hand was laid on the 6-2 senior as he snached a pitchout from quarterback Bob Churchich and sprinted down the sidelines before a record homecoming crowd of 45,800.

It was Nebraska's 12th consecutive victory in a string dating back to last season and set a school record of 28 consecutive games in which Cornhuskers have scored. K-State has won one game in four starts this season.

Blocked kicks, lost fumbles and punts influenced by a wind gusting to 35 miles per hour marked the contest.

Preston Love intercepted one of Kansas State quarterback Ed Danieley's passes and ran 65 yards for a Nebraska touchdown late in the third quarter.

Two other Nebraska touchdowns were set up by blocked punts and still another by an unfortunate K-State punt into the wind.

Kansas State managed two solid threats. In the first quarter Larry Condit blocked a Nebraska kick and ran the ball to the Nebraska seven, but a 25-yard field goal try by Jerry Cook failed.

In the third quarter, Larry Anderson recovered a Nebraska fumble on Nebraska's 24 and the Wildcats moved to the Nebraska three before Kaye Carstens intercepted a Danielcy pass to end the threat.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — California quarterback Craig Mortson fired two touchdown passes and smashed over for another while leading the Bears to a 27-13 comeback victory over the Middies of Navy Saturday.

After the visitors took a 5-0 first quarter lead on a field goal and safety, Morton regrouped his charges for an 87-yard second quarter march and 6-5 halftime.

Morton scored the touchdown himself.

Then in a third quarter explosion, the 6-foot, 4-inch quarterback threw passes of 18 and 16 yards to Jerry Mosher and Tom Blanchfield, and Jim Hunt hit Jerry Bradley with a 40-yard scoring toss, and Blanchfield booted all three conversions.

Navy's All-America Roger Staubach, hampered by his ankle injury, saw limited action. The alert Bears intercepted three of his passes—the most he has given up in a single game.

California led 27-5 before Kip Paskewich broke loose on a 43-yard scoring run, the first touchdown for the middies in three games.

Hansen Passes 16-7, Wins Vault at 16-8 3/4

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — "I didn't consider it a gamble—I knew I could make it," a confident Fred Hansen said Saturday night after winning the Olympic pole vault with a daring last-gasp effort of 16 feet, 8¾ inches.

"I felt like I had to come through for my country."

America's 58-year dominance of the event in the Olympics hung by a slender thread when Germany's Wolfgang Reinhardt cleared 16-7, a height that Hansen passed, and the black-haired, boyish American missed on his first two tries at the greater height.

There was one jump left for Hansen, a 23-year-old student at Rice University.

The vaulters had been jumping since 1 p.m., and now it was 9½ hours later on a long, exhausting day. About 10,000 fans remained in the stands to see the drama under the arc lights.

Dead-tired and hungry, Hansen, the world record-holder at 17-4, grabbed his fiber-glass pole and sped down the runway.

High in the air, Hansen soared and over the bar he went —with about six inches to spare.

Now the pressure was on the blond, 21-year-old German, and he took a deep swallow and made the bid.

He didn' have it. He knocked over the bar going up and the contest was over—America had another gold.

Many people thought that Hansen took an unnecessary gamble in passing the bar at 16-7.

I don't think it was a gamble at all," the good-looking youngster from Cuero, Tex., said. "The only gamble I took was in missing my first two tries at 16-8¾.

"I wasn't getting my feet back on those jumps. I was reaching the height all right, but I was hitting the pole going up.

"On that last jump, I concentrated on getting my feet back—and it worked."

The crowd wanted Hansen to try to next height of 16-10, but he declined.

"I hated to disappoint them," the Texan said, "but I was too tired."

It was an exhausting, frustrating day for all the pole vaulters, lasting long past normal dinner time.

"It is ridiculous to let a vault last this long," Hansen said afterward. "I hope the Olympic people do something about it before the next Olympics. They should start at a higher height or cut the number of finalists."

During the long competition Hansen sucked a few oranges for nourishment and nibbled on a sandwich.

"Now I think I'll have a big fat steak," he said.

Two other Americans—John Pennel and Bill Pemelton—lost out just under 16 feet.

Pennel was bothered by a pinched nerve in his back which he said, "stabbed me at every step."

Pemelton said, "I WAS JUST LOUSY— I couldn't concentrate."

NEW ARRIVALS—Omar and Fatima, a young pair of dromedary camels, are among the newer arrivals at the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo. There are no dromedary, or one-hump camels, remaining in a wild state although large numbers exist in domestic herds in Arabia, Africa, and have been introduced into India and Australia. The two newcomers join another female which has resided by herself for the past several months. Punjab, the Zoo's former male camei was sold to another zoo when it was discovered that he was not a family man. Fatima and Omar were obtained at a cost of $1750.00 each.

Actor Finds Dolphins Can 'Talk' Too

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When Brian Kelly's agent suggested the actor try out for a television series based on "Flipper," Kelly replied, "What's a flipper?"

The agent educated Kelly about the MGM box office success starring a high-I.Q. dolphin.

"Are you crazy?" Kelly replied. "Me do a series with a dolphin, two kids and a lot of fish? Nobody would ever know I was in it."

The agent prevailed and escorted Kelly to MGM for a chat with producer Ivan Tors and his staff. The actor warmed to the project when he heard their interpretation, but he insisted on his own terms for the widower father in the series.

"I won't play him as the usual type of television father whom everyone pushes around and who wants only to see that his family is happy," he said. "This guy will have to be a real disciplinarian. The kids must know that if they don't toe the mark, they'll get taken behind the woodshed."

On that basis — and with some salutary terms — Brian Kelly signed for "Flipper." You can see the results on NBC tonight and every Saturday. Judging from the ratings, the series has hope of surviving the season.

That's fine with Kelly, despite the competition of the small fry and finny folk and a hammy pelican to boot. He figures there is still enough footage over for him. He likes to stress that "Flipper" is suitable for the whole family, not just the kiddies.

"I think adults will be interested in the research aspects of the work with dolphins," said Kelly. "The United States government is spending a total of $750,000 for research with dolphins this year alone, and I believe scientists are close to a major break-through.

"Already they have detected 1,400 different sounds the dolphins exchange. There can be no doubt that they communicate with sounds among each other."

Kelly is the son of Harry F. Kelly, former governor of Michigan and now chief justice of the State Supreme Court.

Beet Growers Will Receive Final Payment

DENVER (AP) — The Great Western Sugar Co. will make a final payment of $6,708,000 to beet growers in four states, Oct. 24, bringing total 1963 crop payments to $77,140,000.

Frank A. Kemp, company president, said the payment combined direct company payments of $65,400,000 and Sugar Act payments — returned to growers through taxes levied on the company — of $11,740,000.

The total, he said, represents "the highest combined payments in the beet-growing history of the area." Combined payments average $14.75 per ton.

Final payments, Kemp reported, will average $1.28 per ton for Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, southern Wyoming and Montana and $1.31 in northern Wyoming.

Kemp said also that these payments are on sugar sold by the company during the marketing year ending Sept. 30, 1964. About 40 per cent of the 1964 beet crop has been harvested, he added. First Great Western payments will be made in November.

The new crop is estimated at 5 million tons.

1906 CUBS WON 116

CHICAGO (AP)—The 116 victories amassed by the 1906 Chicago Cubs stand as the major league record for most wins in one season. The Cubs that year finished 20 games ahead of the runner-up New York Giants.

It was not the greatest margin in the league. The Pirates of 1902 won 103 games and finished 27½ games ahead of the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

RECEIVES COMMENDATION—M. Sgt. George E. Lasher (Right) of the 9th Aerospace Defense Division was recently presented with the Air Force Commendation Medal at 9th Division Headquarters. Residents Visit Japanese Sister

Rev. and Mrs. Robert M. Lillie, Minister of Parkview Christian Church, visited Fuji-Yoshida, Japan one day this week, taking official greetings from Mayor Hoth, City Officials and members of the "Sister City" affiliated as "Sister Cities" since February of 1962, for exchanges of educational, cultural, artistic and other types of "good-will" exchange programs, including visitors who personally visit each "Sister City."

Rev. and Mrs. Lillie, who flew via Alaska to Japan, were accompanied to Fuji-Yoshida from Tokyo, by their daughter and son-in-law, Rev. and Mrs. Lonnie Mings who have been stationed in Osaka, Japan with the Christian Church Missionary movement for the past several years.

As official gifts from Colorado Springs, the Rev. and Mrs. Lillit took the following items to present to Major Aratz Watarabe of Fuji-Yoshida City, at ceremonies at their City Hall on the 15th of October: Color slides of the Broadmoor area, and the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo, as a gift from Karl Eitel, manager of the Broadmoor Hotel Complex; a painting done by Kenneth V. Williams, 1929 S. Franklin Ave., local artist and architectural delineator, painted especially for the Lillie's to present for permanent exhibition in the Fuji-Yoshida City Hall where all gifts from Colorado Springs are displayed in a special case in the City Hall lobby. In addition they took personal gifts for the Mayor and Mrs. Watanabe.

Imprint of Nikita Stamped Indelibly on Soviet System

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Now the era of Nikita Sergeyevitch Khrushchev passes into history. But its impact and its influence will live on for a long time.

Whatever comes after him, the imprint of Khrushchev is indelibly stamped upon the Soviet system.

The world will require generations to assess the full meaning of the Khrushchev years. But the world will not soon forget the round, stubby man who generated whirlwinds that rocked the world Communist movement and shattered fixed concepts on both sides of the cold war barricades.

Khrushchev was a 20th century phenomenon, a realist in a vast sea of non-realism, a man whose politics was the art of the practical in a nation where practicality long had been virtually an offense against the state.

As a ruler, Khrushchev essentially was an iconoclast: A destroyer not only of idols but of entrenched notions. He dismantled the hero-image of Stalin, but he also routed the image of striped-pants diplomacy. His was a rough and tumble world in which polite niceties were swept aside.

Once at the top, the former coal miner from Kalinovka had an enormous impact on the course of the global political war.

Because of Khrushchev, the Soviet Union—and the United States—eventually came to wage cold war on three fronts instead of two. Because of him and his instinctive Great Russianism, communism became polarized into two contending camps.

Because of Khrushchev, Communist China may become the chief exporter of violent revolution to other parts of the world. Because of him, the whole pattern of alliances in the world one day may be radically changed.

Perhaps it would have happened under another leader, but fate and the exigencies of Soviet politics selected Khrushchev. It seems likely that because he was in control, the changes were swifter than they might have been.

The rise of Khrushchev appeared largely accidental. When Stalin died, his nervous heirs seemed constrained to adopt a sort of mutual protective arrangement to insure against a new and equally terrible tyrant taking over.

Georgi M. Malenkov became premier, Khrushchev emerged as first secretary of the party. The designation of first secretary, rather than Stalin's title of general secretary, seemed to indicate that Khrushchev would not have theg power over the party that Stalin exercised.

But Khrushchev's innate realism and practicality soon came to the fore. As first secretary he carefully built a political machine of lower echelon secretaries and party central committee members. He shocked both the world and the Soviet Union with a speech scorching Soviet farming as a disgrace. He showed a facility for blaming others for his own mistakes and getting away with it.

He did that to Malenkov, blaming him for the state of Soviet agriculture although in fact Khrushchev himself had been identified with the tinkering which made a mess of Soviet farming.

Malenkov was ousted in 1955 with a confession of failure, and goateed Nikolai Bulganin became premier, but Khrushchev by then obviously was the top man in Soviet policy.

It was he who engineered the gambit by which four-power occupation of Austria was ended. It was Khrushchev who produced the Warsaw Pact, a Communist alliance to counter NATO and the remilitarization of West Germany. But it was also Khrushchev who produced the first summit conference which spawned the short-lived "Spirit of Geneva."

It was Khrushchev who directed the boldly dramatic reconciliation with Tito's Yugoslavia, which had been condemned to a Communist purgatory by Stalin. It was Khrushchev who thrust Soviet foreign policy forcefully into South Asia and the Middle East. But it was also Khrushchev who, step by step, enraged the Chinese Communists.

Khrushchev directed radical turnabouts which paid little heed to the shock waves being sent through the world Communist movement. But on the cold war front, the boldness invariably was tempered with cautious assessment of Soviet weakness and possibilities of catastrophe consequences.

Krushchev's boldness dramatically illustrated by his sudden denunciation of Stalin's memory at the 20th Soviet Communist congress in 1956. Khrushchev had been a Stalin protege and had served him through the purges. But anti-Stalinism offered a weapon to neutralize prospective opponents. It would be popular with the ranks in the central committee, now Khrushchev's own political machine. It would be popular with the people.

De-Stalinization also brought ferment and trouble in the satellite empire and played an important part in triggering the Peking-Moscow feud which shook communism around the world.

But Khrushchev's stock in trade was a bag of shocks: The ouster of old Bolshevik stalwarts as "anti-party," the backing away from langerous crisis in the Middle East, the careful withdrawal from confrontation in Berlin, the retreat in the Cuban missile crisis.

No polished diplomat, Khrushchev roared when he was angry, whether he was a guest abroad or a host at home. When he was crossed, he threatened. He intimidated, he cajoled, he scattered earthy hand often vulgar peasant sayings as he blustered about the world, sometimes with a show of buffoonery, sometimes with thundercloud mien, sometimes with the condescending air of kindly, backwoods grandfather.

Under Khrushchev, the Soviets rocked the world by sending up Sputnik I, the firht artificial earth satellite. From then on, Khrushchev's cold war campaigns were a mixture of promises of peace through disarmament and a brandishing sputniks and missiles.

Through it all, Khrushchev remained a professed believer in world revolution. He gave every evidence of believing devoutly in the ultimate world triumph of communism.

Yet, instinctively, Khrushchev seemed to be a Great Russian even before he was a Communist. He wanted to build the Soviet economy into a mighty weapon and the Soviet nation into a backyard he and patriotic Soviets could view with pride. Then the Soviet Union would be ready to "save" the rest of the world.

That, Khrushchev conceded in 1961, would be a matter of at least 20 years, while the U.S.S.R. was catching up with the United States and while it was "building communism." That was all right with the Soviets, apparently, but not with the Communists—like the Chinese—in have-not nations or in revolution-laden areas, anxious to see Red power take over in their own time.

Essentially, Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policy was one of "make haste slowly." The impatient Communists denounced it as capitulation. To the Chinese he became "the greatest capitulationist of all time."

It was this Soviet-first impulse which had the most telling impact on world politics. Khrushchev did not surrender the Soviet claim to be the leader of the world revolution. He did not surrender the notion of violent revolution anywhere in the non-Communist world. He did not surrender the determination to foment and support such revolution. But the watchword consistently was caution.

In the breathing space that resulted, the ferment of change could be detected clearly in the Soviet Union and in some of the Communist nations of Europe. The urge for a better life obviously was exerting great pressure. It was changing communism.

Tandem Kremlin Rule May Not Last Observers Think

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev and Alexei N. Kosygin are running the Soviet Union in tandem today, but it would not be surprising if one of them eventually drops out.

Single harness has been the rule for running the Soviet regime, and single harness it is virtually certain to remain.

Communist party chief Brezhnev, 57, long Nikita S. Khrushchev's heir apparent, is the best bet to survive quiet, colorless Kosygin, 60, who is better known for grooming the horse than for riding it.

Brezhnev has had a better chance than Kosygin to build a personal following in the Communist party but lacks the new premier's in-depth knowledge of the nation's economy. Kosygin's new eminence may indicate he was the only man stronger members of the party presidium were willing to see pushed over them.

There are too many things to clear up before indulging in an internal power struggle, including putting an end to Khrushchev's headlong rush for a showdown with Communist China.

Kosygin has spoken on the issue. But neither man has put himself in a position that would make it personally embarrassing to postpone and then forget Khrushchev's hard fought for world Red conference that inevitably would make the split final.

Fundamental issues — nationalistic, ideological and the struggle for control of world communism — remain between Moscow and Peking, so full reconciliation seems unlikely.

But a lull seems in store while the new leaders try to ease the split.

They also have to deal with the agricultural, industrial and diplomatic problems Khrushchev has left behind, as well as with the swelling voice of the Soviet people wanting to be heard.

Kremlin control of the European satellites and of Western Communist parties has been shaken by the Chinese dispute. Brezhnev and Kosygin seem certain to try to restore it as much as possible.

Not until a good start on these tasks has been made is a serious power struggle expected.

The two men in the lead today are as different as night and day — both in looks and personality.

Brezhnev is a bushy-browned, dark, heavy-set man. He is deceptively soft-spoken but has a booming shout when he wants to use it.

Kosygin is tall, thin, sandy and looks like a 19th century Russian intellectual. He speaks so quietly that listeners have to cup an ear to hear him.

At both Kremlin and diplomatic receptions, Brezhnev is easy-going, laughing and gregarious. Kosygin makes no secret that he finds such affairs a waste of time. He lurks in a corner and spends more time chatting with friends from the Soviet technocracy than with politicians and diplomats.

Both men reached the top via the new road — mastery of Soviet technical problems — and are also the first Kremlin chiefs to whom the 1917 Bolshevik revolution is only a childhood memory.

Brezhnev, born in December, 1906, of Russian parents in the Ukrainian town of Kamenskoye, now Dneprodzerzhinsk, was successively a steelworker, metalurgist and agricultural specialist.

A member of the Communist wagon to Khrushchev's star in 1938 in the Ukraine and stuck with him.

After World War II he was chief political commissar of the army — the big brother who kept an eye on the reliability of officers — and then boss of Khrushchev's virgin land development project in Kazakhstan.

In 1956, Brezhnev was appointed a secretary of the Communist party based in Moscow. This especially pleased his chic wife and daughter, Galina, who is noted for her taste in high-styled Western clothes. In 1960 he became President of the Soviet Union. He relinquished that figurehead post last July 15 for full-time work as a secretary of the Communist party's central committee. The change was a definite indication that he had been picked to succeed Khrushchev some day.

Kosygin was Stalin's last addition to the old politburo and was pretty much in the shade during the first years of Khrushchev's rule. The new leadership soon learned to value his talent as a businessman with a flair for organization, however, and he moved into the front ranks.

Laborite Cabinet Blasts China's Atomic Testing

LONDON (AP) — Newly installed as prime minister, Harold Wilson put together a Labor cabinet Saturday and launched an assault on the mounting economic and foreign problems facing Britain.

In its first public statement, the laborite foreign office expressed disappointment over Red China's nuclear test, declared Peking still was far from being an atomic power, and emphasized a continuity with foreign policy under the Conservative government.

Despite the slim margin of that victory Wilson pushed ahead with all the determination of a man who expects to serve out his five-year term.

With one district still to be heard from, Wilson had only a five-seat majority in the 630-member House of Commons.

Wilson named Frank Cousins, 60, chief of the giant Transport and General Workers Union, to head a new ministry of technology. This was a surprise. Cousins did not run for a seat in the house.

Injuries Slight In Auto Mishap

A Manitou Springs man was injured Friday night in a rear-end crash involving two vehicles in the 2800 Block N. Nevada Ave., the State Patrol reported.

The victim, Gary Woolsay, 22, of 1416 Alpine Trail, was released at the scene with an injured arm.

He was riding in a car driven by Paul Hollingsworth, 21, of 1032½ Alexander Highway.

When Hollingsworth attempted to make a right turn, his car was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Bus Rhule, 57, of 3006 N. Arcadia St. Rhule's car skidded 65 feet before the crash, according to Patrolman Arnold C. Ferrero.

Current Books

John Fetler, Book Editor

"Season's Books" — We're in the season when the book publishers woo the reader and the gift buyer with their fanciest wares. This autumn the works of fiction are eclipsed by a whole world of expository writing.

Partly this is due to the annual rush to thrust elaborately illustrated, overwhelming Gift Books into the Christmas trade, so that October and early November are crowded with these special items.

But even putting the Gift Books into a separate category, we find that philosophy, biographies and memoirs, history and other serious topics dominate the publishing scene.

Just published are such diverse volumes as John Kieran's "recollections and reflections" titled "Not Under Oath" (Houghton, Mifflin) and the first volume of an autobiography by that word-worrier Jean-Paul Sartre, called "The Words" (Braziller).

For really serious readers the current items include the late Teilhard de Chardin's "The Future of Man" (Harper), which carries further the thesis of his "The Phenomenon of Man;" and Erich Fromm's "The Heart of Man" (Harper), which serves as a counterpart to his "The Art of Loving."

For those who follow recent American history, there are the two volumes of "The Journals of David E. Lilienthal" (Harper), and for readers who may have missed Winston S. Churchill's four-volume "A History of the English-Speaking Peoples," there will be a one-volume version called "The Island Race" (Dodd Mead).

Another work for the serious-minded will be a book that Arthur Koestler has been working on for 15 years, a summation of his thoughts, called "The Act of Creation" (MacMillan). And next month J. B. Priestley's "Man and Time" (Doubleday) will continue his observations on man's history.

An unusual book will be "Markings," by the late Dag Hammarskjold, described by the publisher (Knopf) as a spiritual document which has no direct relationship with Hammerskjold's work at the United Nations.

There will be plenty of books about people. Among them are "The Founding Father: The Story of Joseph P. Kennedy," by Richard J. Whelan (New American Library), and "An American Family. The Tafts," by Ishbel Ross (New American Library).

This month we also have "Brendan Behan's New York" (Bernard Geis), and from the other side of the Iron Curtain there will be Ilya Ehrenburg's "Memoirs: 1921 - 1941" (New American Library).

Next month there will be "Life With Picasso" by one of his consorts, Francoise Gilot, assisted by Carlton Lake (McGraw) and the first of an autobiographical series by the British novelist Evelyn Waugh, called "A Little Learning" (Little, Brown).

In the fiction field, this is the fourth year in a row that Thanksgiving Day will be the publication date for a collection of short stories by John O'Hara. The upcoming work is "The Horse Knows the Way" (Random).

On the comedy side there will be a John Cheever effusion, "The Brigadier and the Golf Widow" (Harper) and Thomas Berger's "Little Big Man" (Dial).

More seriously, there will be such novels as Robert Payne's "The Lord Jesus" (Abelard-Schumann); an adventure-romance by Frances Parkinson Keyes, "The Explorer" (McGraw) and Edison Marshall's story of the Roanoke settlement, "The Lost Colony" (Doubleday).

In a more modern setting, Edwin Lanham's "Speak Not Evil" (Farrar, Straus) will have things to say about social mores, and next month Laura Z. Hobson's "First Papers" (Random) will get into the subject of social justice in the early years of this century.

Espionage? Try "A Kind of Anger" (Atheneum) by Eric Ambler. Mickey Spillane has a new hero, Tiger Mann, in a volume coming up next month, "Day of the Guns" (Dutton).

"What Is Conservatism?" Edited by Frank S. Meyer — Holt, Rinehart and Winston, [illegible].75 — Reviewed by Howard B. Kessler — This almost random collection of essays by twelve literate conservative and-or libertarian writers is well worth reading for its marshalling of arguments against the "liberal" philosophy, as well as for the variety of views expressed by the predominantly authoritarian conservatives represented in Frank Meyer's stable. For most of these men are well known to readers of National Review magazine: Willmoore Kendall, Russell Kirk, Garry Wills, Stanton Evans, Meyer, and William F. Buckley Jr. himself.

Every reader will, of course, have his favorites in this selection of think pieces. Ours are Stanton Evans' analysis of the differences and similarities between authoritarian and libertarian conservatives; John Chamberlain's too-brief, "Morality of Free Enterprise!" and Frank Meyer's own opening and closing remarks.

As Evans observes: "The fundamental disagreement among conservative theoreticians occurs over the problem of man and his nature: specifically, whether the imperatives of individual freedom can be reconciled with the Christian conception of the individual as flawed in mind and will, with its demand for individual subordination to an objective, nonsecular order;" i. e. between authoritarians who believe in the objective order and are ready to limit individual freedom; and libertarians who demand that all other considerations yield to the task of confronting the all-powerful state in behalf of individual liberty. He believes the two positions can be synthesized.

Again, to quote the young editor of the Indianapolis News: "The libertarian affirms the natural goodness of human nature. He views government as the source of evil, the unfettered individual as the source of good. . .In his extreme form, the modern-day libertarian is a philosophical anarchist, a free-enterprise Utopian. The authoritarian holds precisely the opposite view. He believes people in their natural state are not good, but evil. . .He believes in strong government."

The solution advocated by Evans is to insure that enough governmental authority exists to suppress criminal outcroppings of human weakness, but at the same time to insure that no man, or group of men, is vested with too much political power. And as he correctly comments: "This has proved down the centuries to be a troublesome undertaking. . .The great problem is to set up a system of government providing both order and freedom." It is indeed!

John Chamberlain utilizes his limited space to make one all-important point: while economic freedom is no guarantee of virtue, a free economy is necessary in the modern world for the preservation of freedom, and this is the condition of virtue for anyone but the bravest of the brave. What has been criticized by socialists as the faults of a laissez faire economy are, as the columnist ably demonstrates, rather the result of government granting special privileges to some businessmen, at the expense of others. It is not competition, but the lack of true competition, that has been responsible for many of the evils of our economy.

Meyer opens the volume with the comment that "The intellectual bankruptcy of the collectivist Liberalism which has dominated American thought for the past half century becomes every day more obvious," and he goes on to prove this assessment. Thus, he paves the way for the essays that are to follow, as evidences of an intellectual revolt against collectivism. And, as Evans and others among the sprightly crop of essayists maintain, Meyer believes there is room within the anti-collectivist front for the virtues of both authoritarian and libertarian conservatives.

In his masterful summing up, Meyer lists a consensus of what he believes to be the major mutual attitudes shared by all the writers in this book:

1. Acceptance of the existence of an objective moral order.
2. The human person as the necessary center of political and social thought.
3. A distaste for the use of the power of the state, to enforce ideological patterns upon human beings.
4. The "planning" of human life is anathema to all the contributors.
5. The limitation of government to its proper Constitutional functions.
6. A devotion to Western civilization and an awareness of the necessity of defending it against the messianic world-conquering intentions of Communism.

In addition to the writers we have named above who subscribe to this consensus, there are: Wilhelm Roepke, F. A. Hayek, Stanley Parry, Stephen J. Tonsor, and Stefan T. Possoney.

"Welfare, Freedom and Inflation" — The phenomenal recovery made by the West German economy after World War II has been the subject of much discussion. The Geman prosperity has been attributed to both free enterprise and foreign aid — obviously two different things.

Americans now have an opportunity to get a firsthand look at the philosophy that built postwar German prosperity. For one of the chief architects of that prosperity, Wilhelm Ropke, has written a book outlining his views on economic development. Entitled "Welfare, Freedom and Inflation," it is a well-written case for free enterprise in opposition to big government (published by Univ. of Alabama Press, Drawer 2877, University, Ala.; $2.95).

While the author seems reluctant to eliminate all governmental intervention from the economy, he does prove his simple equation that free men are much more capable of running their own lives than any bureaucrat can ever be.

Ropke's book was originally written in German for European consumption, but it hits home in America. Its effect upon our own affairs is brought out clearly in a foreword written for American readers by Roger A. Freeman. He points out that the principles involved are the same everywhere. He defines the issue as that between two ideologies: "those who feel that government in this day and age ought to do far more than it is now doing, and those who believe that government has already gone too far in assuming responsibility for — and authority over — the individual and should retrench or at least henceforth use greater restraint in extending its reach."

Ropke's ability to explain the complicated makes his short (70-page) book very stimulating reading. Although his concern seems to be primarily with preventing things from getting worse, his ideas have within them the seeds of making things better. For the principles he cites cast as much criticism on our present welfare-state policies as on those proposed for the future — with which he appears to be more preoccupied.

He closes his book with an excellent thought that reduces the issue of freedom to one of property. He points out throughout the book that the taking of property from individuals by the state merely diminishes the incentive to produce new property and increase our wealth.

And he concludes his treatise by tying the inflation problem to property: "It requires no special astuteness to realize that the vanishing respect for property is very intimately related to the numbing of respect for the integrity of money and its value. In fact, laxity about property and laxity about money are very closely bound up together; in both cases what is firm, durable, earned, secured and designed for continuity gives place to what is fragile, fugitive, fleeting, unsure and ephemeral. And that is not the kind of foundation on which the free society can long remain standing." — Brown.

"Little Big Man." By Thomas Berger. Dial. $5.95.

A prodigious comedy of the American West, this is a tale as wide as the prairie, high as a mountain and as crowded with lusty life as a whole library of frontier drama.

It is preposterous, too, in the paradoxical literary sense. Its unique hero makes the ancient adventurers of the wine-dark Mediterranean and the Don Quixotes of later times appear to be dull children playing silly games.

It purports to be the first person story of Jack Crabb, poured into a tape recorder shortly before his death in 1953, when he supposedly was 111 years old. He is the frontiersman to end all such types, the gustiest liar of America's tall tale tradition. The story covers the 1850s to 1870s.

Jack was 10 when the Cheyenne captured him in a wagon train episode. From then on, he alternated between redskin and white life, physically and psychologically.

There was little that he missed. He fought on both sides of the Indian wars, ran supplies for gold camps, killed as many buffaloes as Bill, made a living at poker, sired white and half-breed children, met most of the era's legendary figures, and became the sole white survivor of the Battle of the Little Bighorn.

All these crazy imaginings are narrated by an illiterate old man who somehow manages to reproduce literate speech — but this literary device is no impediment, for the story is the thing.

Jack and the author give us a warm, memorable account of his gunslinging mentor Wild Bill Hickok, and a gutsy, graphic, scalp-twitching description of Custer's Last Stand.

As in high comedy, there is underlying tragedy and compassion. Jack's Indians, soldiers and frontier characters are right at our elbow, as smelly, cruel and stupid as life — but all through the narrative there shines the figure of a chief and medicine man, Old Lodge Skins, who has the genuine stature of a really epic hero.

Berger's first two novels were surrealistic stories of modern anti-heroes. His change of pace is amazing.

It is a work of audaciously wild inspiration. — Miles A. Smith.

"Great Military Battles," edited by Cyril Falls (Macmillan $19.95; $25 after March 31): A beautifully produced, album-sized abridgement of history covering notable battles over a traits of the principal contend- little more than 300 years.

Abundant illustrations include pictures and maps of the battlefields and (usually) porers. Many of the pictures are in color.

Twenty-seven battles in all are described. Four of them (Blenheim, Poltava, Saratoga and Waterloo) are on Sir Edward Creasy's list of 15 decisive battles of the world, and others undoubtedly would qualify if they had been fought before Sir Edward stopped counting in 1815.

Most of the battles, describe the fluctuating fortunes of the giants of Europe — Britain, France, the German peoples under various names, and Spain — on their home grounds.

America is the scene of half a dozen encounters — Quebec during the Seven Years' War, Bunker Hill and Yorktown during the War for Independence, and First Bull Run and Gettysburg in the War Between the States — in addition to Saratoga.

Love Praises Oklahomans For Dam Plan

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Gov. John A. Love of Colorado paid tribute to Oklahomans today for not waiting for a federal grant—and instead going ahead on their own—to construct the new Markham Ferry Dam east of Tulsa.

Love was principal speaker at dedication ceremonies at the dam.

He said that "to accept the challenge of water development is no small feat.

"You did not wait until the federal government was ready to act, you did not wait on private capital to react, you accepted the challenge on its own terms, moved your legislature to establish the authority and you have accomplished your goal."

Love was invited to dedicate the dam by Oklahoma Gov. Henry Bellmon, in recognition of the Colorado governor's "continuing efforts in behalf of water conservation."

Love was scheduled to return to Colorado immediately after the dedication.

He spent Friday night at Baton Rouge, La., to talk with Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana about a proposed highway between Denver and New Orleans. Love was accompanied by Gov. Bellmon. They said they wanted to get the highway routed through Oklahoma City and, if possible, made part of the federal interstate system.
